Andy Throws A Pitch For Milk

The Phils lost, but the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association with Andy Stoltzfus on the mound threw a pitch for milk that was definitely a winner for milk promotion.

This all took place last Sunday at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia. When the Philadelphia Phillies played the Montreal Expos in pre-game entertainment for the gathering baseball fans. Two show-type dairy cows from Caernarvon Farm at Morgantown took the infield around second base for a pull by pull account of where milk comes from. The Phillies Fanatic and the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess got into the show when some media types and some Phillies managers ran into an utterly outrageous contest to see who had farm backgrounds. Well, not really. The contest was to see who could get the most milk out of the cows. But the farm background in the players showed up, too.

The cows Caernarvon Merit Favorite VG 88 and Bashore Rotate Jody VG 86 only tried to step into the bucket about one time each. And since they were both working on 22,000 pound milk records, that seemed fair to both teams. But when time was called, the winning team had milked nearly twice as much milk.

After milk pitchers were presented to the winning team, the Phillies Fanatic kissed the Dairy Princess (and knocked off her crown). The cows returned to their sidewalk tree outside the stadium. And Stoltzfus and Beth Heald State Dairy Princess moved to a box seat to await the start of the game.

Prior to the game, Phillies third baseman, Mike Schmidt was recognized for his contribution to the Mid-Atlantic dairy industry. Currently he appears in television, radio, and billboard advertising for MAMMA's "Milk Has Less Than 4% Fat" campaign. A full-page ad featuring Schmidt also appears in "Phillies Today" the official scorecard magazine.

After the National Anthem was played and the starting lineups were announced, they called for Andy to throw out the first ball, which he did. A definite overhand strike that chased ignorance about where milk comes from. For thousands of city folks in the stands and millions of Americans watching TV, yes it was a strike, definitely, for sure.

Holstein Assn. Especially Strong In Export

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

Note: The Pennsylvania Holstein Association with 5,500 members has established itself as one of the top state dairy breed organizations in the nation. Cattle have been exported to 45 foreign countries through this breed association. In addition, the state junior program with 1,800 members will feature a first ever when nearly $2,000 of premium awards will be made available at the junior show to be held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania All-American and the Eastern National show this fall. William Nichol, executive secretary, is working on his 27th year with the association and has become internationally-known for his contacts with foreign buyers.

In a visit to the state office in State College this week we talked with Nichol, Kenneth Ramey, Director of Membership and Jeffrey Harding, Director of Sales.

All three men contribute to the day-by-day working of the Holstein Association. And we have combined their answers to our questions in this interview.

Q. Can you give us a little of the history of the association as you remember it?

A. Our office was in the second floor of a building on Beaver Avenue. We had three rooms as our headquarters. That worked quite well until 1963 when the association purchased the tract of land where the office is now located. We now have three acres. And originally from 1963 to 1973 the office was in a model home. But at that time we built the new office building that now gives us a very pleasant facility for our headquarters.

Q. Can you compare earlier membership numbers in relation to how it is now?

William Nichol

A. Well in the beginning we had about 3,600 members and, we had approximately the same number of clubs as we have now. We have 50 clubs and one of the first things that was necessary to establish the association was to organize these local holstein clubs. Our responsibility through the '50s and '60s was to keep the clubs active. The membership has grown to a present number of 5,500. That gives us second place in the nation to Wisconsin. We have almost as many registrations as Wisconsin even though they have quite a few more cows. We are happy with our position though we would like to see more cows registered.

Q. Can you describe a bit of the difference in service to the numbers now in comparison to 25 years ago?

A. Well we've especially increased our activity in the sales field. In the early '70s we made a decision to build the organization and become a more effective force in both domestic and export sales. We increased our staff to accommodate this. So we've been especially active in the export business and have been instrumental in exporting cattle to 45 different foreign nations.

Q. Would you elaborate a little more on what you do for your members in sales? How do you bring the buyer and the seller together?

A. The export sales success has been due largely to the support of our local sales representatives who are appointed or elected by our local holstein clubs. When we have

STATE COLLEGE — Are you a Jersey breeder in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York or other surrounding states? Are your cows registered or sire identified and your herd on official test? If so, then Liberty Jersey Sires wants you for a member.

Liberty Jersey Sires (LJS) is an organized cooperative of owners of Jersey cattle in these states whose primary objective is to adequately sample and prove young Jersey sires. It is not the intent of the organization to replace any AI industry efforts in young sire sampling, but rather to supplement the existing programs so as to provide more superior bulls for the continued genetic advancement of the Jersey breed.

LJS grew out of interest expressed at an informal meeting of Jersey breeders held last April in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club annual meeting. American Jersey Cattle Club southeastern field representative, Carl Wolfe, was on hand at that meeting to explain the

Wheat Growers To Vote on Production Controls

BY JACK HUBLEY

After a number of false starts, USDA's wheat poll is scheduled to get underway next Wednesday. The nation's wheat farmers will be receiving ballots soon after county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service mail them on June 25. The ballots must be postmarked for return by July 7.

Mandated by the Food Security Act of 1985, the poll is an attempt to determine whether or not farmers favor mandatory production controls as a method of increasing the price of wheat.

Alarie Fleming, program specialist at the Harrisburg ASCS office, stresses that the poll is not binding. Regardless of the poll's outcome, USDA has the option to conduct a nationwide referendum on wheat production controls. The administration, however, has repeatedly voiced its opposition to such controls.

Under the present Acreage Conservation Reserve program, producers could voluntarily sign up to limit wheat production to 75 percent of their base acreage to qualify for benefits. This year, 11,268 Pennsylvania farms growing wheat and feed grains enrolled during the March 6 to April 26 sign-up period.

Under present controls, the wheat target price is set at $4.38 per bushel for 1986-87. The loan rate of $2.40 could conceivably be reduced by five percent, to $2.28, by the USDA secretary for the coming year.

If enacted, production controls,

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, June 19, 1986

Report Supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices continued to advance on all sizes. Distributive activity was moderate to mostly good and was usually noted as stimulated by retail features both plant and in progress. Graded supplies of extra large were adequate to short; large were in balance to occasionally tight and medium were no more than adequate. Jumbos were seasonally short and small were at least adequate at most points. Breaker interest was light to fair. Gradable offerings were light and firmly held.

Prices to retailers: sales to volume buyers, consumer grades white eggs in cartons delivered store door:

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, June 19, 1986

Market Comment: Demand for ready to cook whole birds continued to keep offerings in good balance to well-cleared. Inquiry for parts was centered on legs and leg quarters, and clearances were generally well-maintained. Wings were in good balance. Cutlets and occasionally breasts were more available, and discounting had surfaced in an effort to offset building price resistance. LTL asking prices were one cent higher at 62-69 cents. Live supplies were about adequate. Weights were desirable to light. Slaughter schedules were moderately heavy. The undertone was at least fully steady.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva:

Estimated 6/19 1,955,000; Actual 6/12 2,006,000.

Actual 6/17 2,023,000.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JUNE 23-29, 1986

Warm enough to croon and spoon.

The year is half gone this week Battle of the Little Bighorn fought in Montana, June 25, 1876 Average length of days for the week, 15 hours, 16 minutes Treaty of Versailles signed June 28, 1919, officially ending World War I Last quarter of the moon June 28 (Sat) See much, say little, and learn to suffer in time

Ask the Old Farmer: I would like to know the best and easiest way to take up linoleum that has been cemented to a hardwood floor RAS, Dedham, Mass
Grab one corner and pull It's a help if a neighbor has dropped in about that time The glue, etc., that is left on the floor can be sanded off and the floor refinished
Home Hints: Plant nasturtiums around squash hills In addition to having edible leaves and flowers, they control squash bugs

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Beginning of week hot with showers, mid through end of week sunny and hot Greater New York-New Jersey: Week begins with thundershowers and mild temperatures, mid through end of week sunny and hot

A Pet, Not A Monster

Children often say things on the spur of the moment that give a lot of insight into what adults think but don't always say. That happened last Saturday night at the dairy promotion program at the Buck Tractor Pull.

After we got the cooperation of two boys from town to hug a calf for the photographer, one of the boys said he wished he could take the calf home. Boys with calves always induce a bit of emotional subjectivity. And we really felt good when one of these "town" boys wanted to take the calf along home.

"What would you do with a calf if you could take her along home," we asked. "I'd scare people with her," he said. That statement dampened our good feelings rather quickly. Farm boys would know you couldn't scare anybody with an innocent calf. But maybe the town boy had expressed underlying problems with farm-urban communication—fear of animals, fear of farm machinery, fear of pollution, fear of cholesterol.

Often the unfamiliar seems scary. So maybe the first step to promote agriculture would be to get those town people familiar with farming. Ag in the classroom. Ag in the shopping malls. Farm-city-week celebrations. Shared holidays. Just as the automobile plants open their factories to public tours so we as farmers must do everything we can as individual families and as farm organizations to familiarize as many people as possible with our every day life.

And we can't just do it once. We must be forever developing relationships with those not familiar with farming. We must develop those relations until every boy and girl in our society would be comfortable to take home a calf for a pet, not a monster.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin

Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Feed Dry Matter on Pasture
Pastures are growing well again due to a couple of good showers. This means that livestock can utilize some dry matter while on pasture. This can include hay, straw or silage. With the dry matter present, they will consume a moderate amount along with the fresh grass.

The dry matter slows down the passage of the lush forage through the digestive system. Also, it reduces the danger of bloating when there is clover or alfalfa in the forage mixture. If the animals are out all of the time, then a portable hay rack would be the way to feed hay or straw. Dry matter intake is important when pastures are lush and high in water content.

To Be Aware of New Progesterone Test

New cowside progesterone test kits are now available for helping farmers improve the reproductive performance of their dairy herds.

One of the most important uses of cowside progesterone tests is to verify the heat status of cows, particularly those that have weak or questionable signs of estrus.

In the hands of an experienced and knowledgeable user the test can also help to confirm pregnancy. But, other ovarian dysfunctions may lead one to erroneously conclude that a cow is pregnant.

These new progesterone test kits should be viewed as one more useful tool available to farmers, according to Glenn Shirk, Extension dairy agent. They do not replace the need for skilled observation of animals, good management, and the services of a well-trained veterinarian.

To Check Lighting For Layers

One of the cardinal rules for poultry management is to never decrease the light period of flocks in production. Most flock managers would never intentionally decrease the day length to a flock in production but we are in the season of the year when this can happen accidentally.

Most layers are in light-controlled not light-tight housing. The major sources of light leakage are the exhaust fans and air intake. Pullet flocks placed in the laying house during late fall, winter or spring can be given a 14-hour day. As summer approaches and natural day length exceeds 14 hours, layers in non-light-tight housing will be exposed to an increasing day length due to the light entering the building through fans and air intakes. This increase in day length causes no problem. The longest day occurs on June 21 and decreases until December 21. It is this decrease in day length that can cause layers to go out of production unless the time clocks controlling the lights are readjusted to provide the layers with the day length they received on June 21.

The two points to remember are: 1) never subject layers to a decrease in day length and 2) unless time clocks are readjusted on June 21, the layers in non-light-tight houses could be exposed to an unintentional decrease in day length.

To Use The Agronomy Guide

The 1985-86 Agronomy Guide published by our Extension Service at Penn State is one of the very best handbooks for all farmers. This Guide has been published for years and is updated every two years.

Copies are available at any Extension Office in Pennsylvania for a cost of only $4. We urge farmers to purchase a copy and use it. I am concerned that many farmers who have them are not using them. Answers to numerous phone calls asking about crop practices can be found in the Agronomy Guide. I suggest that each farmer index the crops being grown with tabs so the information can be found more rapidly.

On one of these rainy days become more familiar with the contents of this Guide. It is very useful and contains dependable and researched information.

ON BURNING THE SCROLLS

June 22, 1986

Background Scripture: Jeremiah 23:9-40; 27 through 28.

Devotional Reading: Jeremiah 23:33-40.

The story of Jeremiah and Hananiah could be approached on a very simple level: it's a story of the "good guy" vs. the "bad guy" — Jeremiah's the "good guy" and Hananiah is the "bad" one. So we praise Jeremiah and condemn Hananiah.

But it's not really as simple as all that. From our safe vantage point in time, it is easy for us to know that Jeremiah was God's prophet and Hananiah was not. But, if we had been their contemporaries, would we have seen it all so clearly?

PHOPHECY "PEACE"!

Let's look at the choice which confronted the people. On the one hand, there was Jeremiah who prophesied calamity for his people at the hands of Nebuchadnezzar and his Babylonians. On the other hand, there is Hananiah, who prophesies, not war but peace. How can you tell which of these two men has the direct pipeline to God? Doesn't it make sense to go with the positive, upbeat message of Hananiah instead of the negative, gloomy prophecy of Jeremiah? If these two men were to come into your church today, wouldn't you be more likely to cast your lot with Hananiah?

And isn't this the problem we always have in the church? How can we know just who is speaking for God, particularly when there seems to be such disagreement over what God wants from us. Everyone wants to be on the side of truth, but who's got it?

Is there, then, no way for us to make such a determination? I think there may be.

TRUSTING A LIE

The key, I think, may be in Jeremiah's concluding statement to Hananiah: "... you have made this people trust in a lie." And the lie in which Hananiah persuaded the people to trust was that they could have peace without righteousness. By persuading them that peace would be theirs, he lifted from them the necessity to change the way they were living. Prophecy wasn't a guessing game to see who could rightly predict what God was going to do. It was a matter of convincing people that unrighteous living was going to bring unhappy results.

Did Hananiah know that he was persuading the people to "trust in a lie," or was he convinced that he was telling the truth? The false prophet does not have to intentionally deceive us. He has only to be wrong. But it makes his message no more true simply because he is convinced it is from God.

Apart from waiting until we can see which prophecy is correct, there is only one way to discern the truth of God: that which is true always asks the highest and best from us — nothing less.

Onduline®

The Lifetime Roofing

If you're not sure what it is, or where to find it....

ASK THE EXPERTS!

THERE'S NO OTHER ROOFING MATERIAL LIKE IT.

Onduline's very construction makes it different. And makes it a superior roofing and siding material at the same time.

Its corrugated design enables it to be both lightweight and strong.

While its total asphalt impregnation means it outlasts most other roofing. Including metal.

But you don't have to take our word that Onduline is tough. It's met rigid building codes throughout the country.

EASY INSTALLATION ISN'T THE ONLY REASON TO USE ONDULINE.

The roof renewed with Onduline will have something it didn't have before.

Dead air space.

This means significantly better insulation because dead air space acts as a barrier to heat and cold transfer.

So in the winter, an Onduline-covered building is likely to be warmer. And in summer, cooler.

Of course, what makes Onduline such a good reroofing material is how long it lasts.

And that's the real reason why, above all, Onduline is a better roofing.

Corrugated Asphalt Roofing And Siding

- Lifetime Warranty • Won't Rust Or Corrode • Provides Added Insulation
- Goes Directly Over Old Roof • No Special Tools Required
- Lightweight, Easy To Handle • Ideal For Patio Roof • Reduces Noise
- Can Be Repainted Any Color • Easy To Maintain • Economically Priced

ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS

ALUMINUM EBY GOOSENECK TRAILERS, Standard Specifications:

LENGTHS AVAILABLE: 14' to 28' (longer lengths available as option)

HEIGHT: 6'6" Standard - 7'6" Optional

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

CONSIDER THE FEATURES OF AN EBY ALL-ALUMINUM TRAILER

LIGHTWEIGHT

Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.

MAINTENANCE

DURABILITY

Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components of 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

Folk Festival Set For June 28 to July 6

KUTZTOWN — It will be "Hello dart fry'n'd" (Hello there, friend) when the 37th annual Folk Festival gets underway Saturday, June 28th, and the hearty Pennsylvania Dutch greet returning visitors from across the country.

They will come to see more crafts, enjoy more demonstrations, eat more mouth watering food, and more than ever enter wholeheartedly into helping preserve and perpetuate the life and customs of early Pennsylvania Dutch settlers.

To many, the 1,500 handmade quilts now judged and hanging in the large pavilion will be a source of wonderment.

Others will be pleased that Auctioneer Carl Groff has assembled many new treasures at the Main State for his popular afternoon Country Auction.

Almost everyone will visit one or more of the food stands or large church eating tents to enjoy the rich and wholesome menus that cause folks to "eat-'til-they ouch."

All over the 35-acre Festival Grounds there is an air of expectancy as craftsmen are arriving to set up their displays and demonstration areas. Indications are that this year's nine-day event will surpass all previous Festivals with "See the U.S.A." as the strong travel emphasis.

Lillian Kauffman will sing in the Old Oley Union Church, Cyrus Hyde will conduct tours through his herb garden, Harold Moyer will teach the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect in the One-Room School. The blacksmiths, the soap-boilers, the apple butter makers are all set to demonstrate the old life-styles.

New craftsmen this year will include a pen and ink Amish artist, a wooden spoon designer, a ladderback chair maker, and an expert in magical marionettes.

Wheat Poll

as specified in the farm bill, would set the wheat price at 125 percent of the cost of production. The target price would be set at no less than $4.65, with a loan rate of at least $3.55. Under the program, producers not participating in the quota system would not be permitted to market any wheat.

Calling production controls "repugnant to the free enterprise system," American Farm Bureau Federation spokesman Dean Brown urged producers to vote "no" in the poll. "The only thing that makes it (production controls) look appealing now is that farm incomes are low," said Brown.

"The concept of the present program is to make us more competitive and thereby increase our export market, which has decreased steadily since 1982," Brown said.

"Foreign farmers are happy to see the U.S., the world's largest exporter, set artificially high price supports above their costs of production..." AFBF stated in a news release, explaining that price supports here only encourage foreign countries to produce more commodities and sell them at lower prices.

Rebutting this philosophy, is the Iowa-based National Farmers Organization. "Other countries are not eager to produce for less," said NFO's grain department director, Bob Kessler, pointing out that major wheat producing countries, including Argentina, Australia and Canada, can no more afford to sell their crop at a loss than the United States can.

According to NFO, a vote favoring production controls is a clear signal to legislators that farmers are willing to reduce wheat acreage if they can be assured of enough profit to keep them on the farm.

But whether or not the nation's growers favor production controls is a moot point at present, since Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng has already indicated that no such controls will be instituted for 1987.

Although ballots will be mailed to all wheat producers, only those with an acreage base of at least 40 acres will have their votes officially tallied.

Ranking 27th in wheat production nationally, Pennsylvania posted record yields last year when the state's 210,000 acres of wheat yielded a per-acre average of 48 bushels. Pennsylvania grows mainly soft red winter wheat used by the bread and baking industries.

Liberty Jersey Sires

Wants You

organizational structure of Dixieland Sires, a similar group formed in the southeast last year. Dixieland Sires organizational structure has served as a prototype for LJS.

From that first informal meeting, a core group of 16 Jersey breeders from Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York and AJCC field persons Cari Wolfe and David Parkinson have been meeting monthly to formulate a membership agreement, sire selection and procurement procedures, make contact with the AI organizations and work on its articles of incorporation and bylaws. The group met here Wednesday to finalize its plans for a membership campaign and to hear committee reports. The membership agreement between LJS and a participating herd provides for LJS to identify the young registered Jersey sires worthy of sampling based on a genetic evaluation of the pedigree information. LJS will arrange for a reputable AI organization to collect, process, store and distribute the semen. LJS will distribute five to 10 units of semen per sampling sire to an adequate number of randomly-selected participating herds. Semen will be distributed at cost to the members.

The participating member agrees to pay a yearly membership of $25. The breeder must keep his herd on official test and is encouraged to participate in the AJCC Type Traits Appraisal Program. Members must keep adequate records to insure positive identification of the daughters of LJS bulls and their contemporaries. They must also establish a priority in the timely use of the semen.

All potential members will be mailed membership information in the near future. Additional membership forms and information may be obtained from Ginger Myers, Helene Dreisbach, David Chamberlain, or Glenn Kenny. A general membership meeting is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, September 24, at 1 p.m. at the Farm Show Building. The PA State Jersey Sale will be held at 6 p.m. that same evening.

Contacted for comment, AJCC Executive Secretary, Maurice Core, said that the club was thrilled by the formation of the group. Stated core, "Hopefully Liberty Jersey Sires helps to achieve one of the long-range goals of the club; that is to sample more good, young sires. One of our priorities set at our 1985 field staff conference was to try to get one new sampling group operational that year. That goal was reached with the implementation of Dixieland Sires. We renewed that goal this year and it now looks like Liberty Jersey Sires will be this year's group. It's the kind of program that will be good for everyone involved."

MID-MOUNTS

Out Ahead In Design And Value

Compare any other mid-mount with Arts-Way and see why these mowers have led the field since 1939.

Arts-Way uses a separate power belt between tractor PTO and the mower's drive pulley, with a second belt to drive the three blades. This 2-belt system eliminates the need for belt twisting, prolongs belt life, makes tension adjustments and belt changing easy. (Compare with some makes that use a single belt turning and twisting around as many as 7 pulleys and PTO.)

Other features: 7-gauge steel decks ■ High-suction, drop-design blades for a smoother cut ■ Full 1" diameter machined spindles with Timken roller bearings top and bottom ■ Sealed bearings on PTO idler pulleys ■ Puncture-proof semi-pneumatic tires ■ Designed for side, rear or front-PTO drive tractors up to 49 HP ■ Cutting height adjustable from 1" to 5" ■ One-Year Limited Warranty.

And Arts-Way mid-mounts fit a wide range of tractors from the newest models (including imports) to old farm favorites. See your dealer for a complete list.

Heald Receives Citation

HARRISBURG — There's no milk surplus as far as Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Beth Heald is concerned.

Accepting a citation from the Pennsylvania House of Representatives on June 11, she told members that the dairy problem wasn't a matter of too much milk, but rather not enough consumption.

The citation, recognizing Heald's achievements in promoting milk and other dairy products, was presented by her state representative, Rep. Ruth Rudy, Centre County.

Then the Penn State junior demonstrated why she won the citation.

"Dairy farmers are eager to help themselves and all Pennsylvanians," she emphasized. One way, she said, "was by establishing advertising promotion and research programs."

U.S. Department of Agriculture

figures prove Heald and the programs are on track. General dairy sales have increased 7 percent nationally since 1984 when the dairy advertising programs were launched, with cheese leading the way with a 12 percent gain. Butter has shown a 5.7 percent increase over two years while fluid milk sales have risen 2.4 percent.

Heald reminded the Pennsylvania representatives that milk is both the official beverage of Pennsylvania and the most popular beverage in Pennsylvania, outselling all others by a wide margin.

The pert dairy princess is the daughter of C. William and Judith Heald, Spring Mills. At Penn State, Beth majors in dairy production and is active in the Penn State Dairy Science Club. Upon graduation in 1988, she plans a career in dairy public relations.

Six to eight thousand showed up in Pittsburgh's Market Square June 3 to help Beth Heald and the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program kick-off Pennsylvania's 50th June Dairy Month.

$12,000 Tops Guernsey Sale

PEORIA, Ill. — The National Guernsey Sale averaged $2,558 on 58 head.

The when the gavel came down for the final time, Arrowhead T F Linkon walked away with the highest price of the sale. Tri-State Breeders and the Arrowhead T F Linkon syndicate paid $12,000 for the rights to own this bull.

He was sired by Dutch Mill Telestar Fayette, and is out of a Dari Fayvor daughter. His dam produced 22,270 pounds of milk, 1,081 pounds of fat, and 782 pounds of protein in 355 days. She is classified EX-93 and was the All-American 4-year old in 1985.

This bull was consigned by Karla Halbert, Union, Mo., and bought by a syndicate managed by the Illinois Guernsey Breeders Association.

An unborn male ET came in second in the bidding with a price of $9,000.

This bull was sired by Dutch Mills Telestar Fayette and out of Med O Bloom Choice Faithfull. "Faithfull" has a class leading record in 365 days of 27,260 pounds of milk, 1,287 pounds of fat with a 4.6 test, and 978 pounds of protein with a 3.6 test. She has the second highest CPI in the breed and was the highest selling animal in public auctions in 1985.

The highest selling female was Pen Hol DF Elsie. Consigned by Joseph Pendergast and Robert Holcomb of Cobleskill, N.Y., she was purchased by Eric Harrell of Tennessee for $6,100.

She classified EX-90 as 3 years and 3 months. As a 2-year old, in 296 days, she produced a record of 12,345 pounds of milk and 554 pounds of fat.

Eight animals sold for over the $5,000 level. The sale was managed by the Guernsey Breeders Association.

Mary Chamberlain is Warren Co., N.J. Dairy Princess

BY ED SHAMY

Special To
Lancaster Farming

BROADWAY — Warren County dairy farmers will be represented in the coming year by Mary Chamberlain of Hackettstown, who was crowned last week as the Warren County Dairy Princess.

Mary, 16, is an active 4-H member whose primary interest lies in the nutritive aspect of milk and dairy products.

She has worked on her grandparents' dairy farms, though she lives in Hackettstown, a town of 8,000 people in eastern Warren County.

Tina Santini, 17, of Stewartville was chosen as alternate princess during Warren County's Dairy Night Extravaganza which lured more than 100 dairymen, spouses and agribusinessmen to the Warren Grange Hall in Franklin Township.

Mary, a junior at Hackettstown High School, will compete for the New Jersey Dairy Princess title during the Flemington Fair in August.

She is a member of several 4-H clubs, concentrating on nutrition, food preparation, home economics, rabbit rearing and community service.

She currently serves as president of the Warren County 4-H Council.

Mary Chamberlain

Mary plans a career in psychology after college.

For her skit competition, required of all women who compete in the dairy princess contests in New Jersey, Mary read a self-written story about Super Cow explaining the importance of the Real Seal to young children.

Tina Santini, 17, wore a homemade costume depicting a milk carton on one side and a soft drink container on the other, and explained to an imaginary audience of children why milk and its byproducts are more healthy than alternative drinks and snacks.

Tina, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Santini, was raised on a 60-cow dairy farm on Good Springs Road in Franklin Township.

She serves as secretary of the Future Farmers of America chapter at Warren Hills Regional High School, where she is a junior, and is a regional coordinator of FFA activities in northwestern New Jersey.

Warren County is New Jersey's most productive dairy county, with 9,900 cows churning out an average of 12,120 pounds in 1984, the most recent year for which statistics have been compiled.

Mary, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chamberlain of Hackettstown, will succeed Tina Hoser of Stewartville as the county dairy princess.

National Guernsey Convention Held

PEORIA, Ill. — The American Guernsey Cattle Club overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment that changes the number of directors on the board from 15 to 9 nationwide.

This vote was taken at the National Guernsey Convention held here earlier this week.

Among the awards presented at the convention was the prestigious Tarbell Trophy. This trophy is given to the cow with the highest fat record on a mature equivalent basis. Kenneth Garber, Willow Street, Lancaster County, was this year's recipient with his cow, Grassland Nev Julia. She produced, on an M.E. basis, 22,107 pounds of milk and 1,264 pounds of fat.

Elaine Hill, Sandy Lake, was also honored at the convention. She was a nominee for the Outstanding Youth award, and represented Pennsylvania in the Queen Contest.

Emphasis was placed on milk marketing and marketing Guernsey throughout the entire convention. In the coming year, the association will be stressing "what makes Guernseys more commercially competitive," James F. Cavanaugh, secretary-treasurer,

The association will also be placing more emphasis on a fair milk pricing system for the Guernsey milk which has a high percentage of solids, he added.

"The tenor of the meeting was very harmonious," he noted. A pleasing 94 percent of the proxies were assigned to the proxy committee, which showed that the members have a high degree of confidence in the judgement of the directors, Cavanaugh noted.

In other business, Ralph Turley, director from Ohio was re-elected as was Myron Erdman, president.

Two Warren County Dairymen Honored

BROADWAY — Warren County dairy farmers recognized a pair of longtime dairymen during an annual get-together last week in the Warren Grange Hall.

Honored were J. Henry Trout of Asbury and Harry H. Frey of Carpentersville.

Trout, 76, was born on a Hunterdon County dairy farm and in 1930 started his own operation by borrowing $500 and buying 12 Holstein cows.

In 1939, he purchased his present farm near Asbury, building a 76-cow barn and bringing 180 acres of cropland into production.

Today, the farm maintains an 80-cow milking herd and about 40 head of young stock. Crops are cultivated on 160 acres, with 20 acres set aside as pasture.

Trout and his wife, Ann, have four children, including Henry of Slatingsdon, Pa., who helps operate the farm.

Other children are Harriet Regitz of Leola, Pa., Bernice Shoemaker of Bloomsbury, N.J., and Betty Trout of Clinton, N.J.

Betty Trout was the first Warren County Dairy Princess, selected in 1953.

Henry Trout is a charter member of the Asbury Fire Co. and a social member of the Bloomsbury Fire Co. The Trouts have been members of the Warren Grange for 45 years.

Frey, 83, was born in Carpentersville, N.J. and attended a short course in general farming and dairying at Rutgers University's College of Agriculture after completing grammar and high school at local schools.

Frey, who is no longer an active dairy farmer, owned 148 tillable acres, used to grow feed for his purebred Holstein herd. For many years, his herd was enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

After working with his father he purchased the farm in 1951. Today, the Frey dairy farm is operated by Henry's son, Robert, and has been in the family for 98 years.

Frey has been a member of the Warren County Board of Agriculture for 44 years and a Grange member for 58 years. He served as Master of the Stewartsville Grange for two terms and is a member of Warren Pomona Grange and the state and national grange as well.

He was also a member of the Warren County Farmers Home

Administration board of supervisors, was a district director of the American Dairy Association and was a member of the New Jersey Dairy Council. He was a member of the Dairymen's League Cooperative.

Eastern Names Couples to Attend Conference

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., the Northeast's largest milk marketing cooperative, is pleased to announce its selection of Eugene and Grace Brubaker to attend the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives Conference July 16-18 at the Sheraton Inn in Danville, Pa.

Eugene and Grace have a 400 acre farm in Berks County, milking 72 Holstein cattle. Molasses Hill Dairy's main crops are corn, grain, sorghum, alfalfa, wheat, barley and hay.

The Brubakers comment on membership in a milk marketing cooperative, "We think farmers should have more to say than just sending milk to some milk manufacturer. We like the way our Cooperative is run and wish its members the best of luck."

The Brubakers are active members in the Bernville Fire Company, Vice President of the Lebanon Valley Local of Eastern Milk Producers, President of the Conrad Wiesar Young Farmers and song leader in the Mennonite Church.

Eugene and Grace, along with their children, Esther, Kevin,

Steven, Jerry, Michele and Joseph, "Hope to learn to be more efficient and an overall good steward of our farm," according to Eugene, "and provide a good home for our children."

Chris and Darla Owlett will also attend the Conference in Danville.

Chris and Darla are in partnership with his father and two brothers at Glennside Dairy in Wellsboro, Pa. The farm consists of 700 acres and they milk 76 Holstein cattle. The main crops are corn, hay and oats.

"To me, the benefits of membership in a cooperative, are a guaranteed market to ship my milk to and the bonuses I receive for the quality of my milk," according to the Owletts. "The co-op is here for the farmer and to help him, not hurt him. It's nice to have a friend at the top," said Chris.

The Owletts are active members in the District One Eastern Milk Producers Young Cooperators, Vice President of the Cowanesque Valley Local of Eastern Milk Producers, and their Church Youth Group.

Chris and Darla, along with their children, Bradley and Bethany, "Hope to make their farm one of the best producing dairies in the district," according to Chris, "and to give my family a stable and wholesome life on the farm for years to come."

Also attending the Conference are Keith and Theresa McCool.

Keith and Theresa farm with his parents on a 175 acre farm in Centre County. Main crops on the farm are corn and alfalfa. They are currently milking 62 head of Holstein cattle.

"When you are a member of a cooperative you have some say as to your product," according to the McCools. "You are always guaranteed a milk market."

The McCools are active members in the Eastern Milk Producers Young Cooperators, Penns Valley Young Farmers, Penns Valley FFA, and the United Church of Christ of Madisonburg.

All three couples were awarded the trip based on their involvement and leadership in the dairy industry and other community groups, as well as their goals for the future of their farm operation and Cooperative.

Keith and Theresa, along with their children, Christina, Alicia and Andrew, state their goals for the future of their operation, "I'm always striving to produce more milk per cow and to get the best possible forage so as to produce less costly milk."

The trip is awarded yearly as part of the Eastern Milk Producers Young Cooperators Program. The program is designed to inform and educate the Cooperative's younger members and to prepare them as future Cooperative leaders.

Penn State Student Receives PPI Fellowship

ATLANTA, Ga. — A Penn State graduate student was one of five students nationwide to receive a $2,000 fellowship from the Potash and Phosphate Institute.

Gregory Wayne Roth, a candidate for a Ph.D. degree, received the award for his work in estimating the fertilizer nitrogen requirements of winter wheat in Pennsylvania.

Roth previously earned his Bachelors degree from Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Dairy Promotion Didn't Stop At The Buck

The buck didn't stop dairy promotion last Saturday night. It continued it in a big way. But let's start at the beginning.

When the Buck Tractor Pull owner, Clarence Keener, got together with Show Ease Stall Co. owner, John Kreider, to plan for a dairy promotion night at the regular Saturday night event, they wanted to promote milk and give the tractor pull fans a big treat. So they enlisted the help of a lot of dairys and gave everybody under five and over 65 a cup of milk, white or chocolate.

In addition, anyone who made a 25 cent donation to the Lancaster County Dairy Princess Pageant Program got a cup of milk, too. Milk shakes were available. The pink cow wandered around in the crowd. And a calf was tied in a hutch for the children to enjoy.

The new Chester County Dairy Princess with her court joined the Lancaster County Dairy Princess candidates on a hay ride. The announcers for the tractor pull event reminded the 3500 people in the stands throughout the evening about the dairy promotion.

The dairys who participated in the event included: Lehigh Dairy, Penn Daires, Pine View, Maple Hoff, Oregon Dairy, Kreiders Farm Restaurant, Turkey Hill, and Ridgeview Dairy-Elizabethtown.

Maryland Fund Raiser Has Record Participation

A record turnout of club-swingers and racquet-pounders helped the Maryland 4-H Club Foundation raise more than $9,000 during its fifth annual golf and tennis tournament.

The event was held recently at the Holly Hills Country Club west of New Market in the rolling highlands of eastern Frederick County.

Some 120 golfers and 30 tennis players participated. There were 161 persons on hand for an evening buffet dinner and awards ceremony, according to Amy F. Leber, coordinator for the sponsoring organization.

Highlighting the evening program was presentation of this year's guest of honor. The award went to a surprised John F. Steadman of Stevensville, a former sports editor and columnist for 28 years with the now-defunct Baltimore News-American.

As co-chairman of the 4-H Club Foundation outing for the third consecutive year, Steadman was unaware ahead of time that he had been selected as this year's honoree.

Last year's honoree was Charles E. (Charlie) Keller of Yellow Springs, former Frederick County 4-H boy and star outfielder for the New York Yankees, 1939-49.

The 1984 honoree was John C. (Jack) Scarbath of Calvert (Cecil County), an All-American quarterback at the University of Maryland in 1952 and runnerup that year for the Heisman trophy.

In his acceptance speech, Steadman said that he was honored to be in such distinguished company. He commented that, although he grew up near Memorial stadium in Baltimore and his father was a fire chief, he really was a country boy at heart.

Workers at the milk shake stand were crowded and busy all night.

Give me a shake. People wait in line at the Buck Tractor Pull.

Becky Alpaugh to Represent Hunterdon Co. Dairymen as Dairy Princess

BY ED SHAMY

Special to

Lancaster Farming

RINGOES — Becky Alpaugh, 17, of Alexandria Township was selected Hunterdon County's Dairy Princess last week, earning the right to promote dairy products around the county and to compete in a statewide dairy princess competition.

Becky, the daughter of Carmen and Helen Alpaugh of Schaaf Road, is a junior at Delaware Valley High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society and the Key Club.

She is also active in 4-H dairy and square dance clubs, a volunteer at Warren Hospital in Phillipsburg and a member of the Bloomsburg Clown Club.

Becky was raised on her family's 115-acre dairy farm, where they milk about 40 Holstein and Ayrshire cows and another 20 head of young stock are maintained.

She hopes to pursue a career in nursing, possibly with an emphasis on midwifery.

Both she and Robin Hoffman, 16, of Tewksbury Township, her alternate, performed skits with hand puppets of cartoon-character cows, explaining to a young audience the importance of Real milk products.

Robin, the daughter of Robert and Dorothy Hoffman of Route 512 near Califon, helps out with the family's 15 Brown Swiss cows and on the 192-acre crop farm.

She is the secretary of the Hunterdon County 4-H Dairy Council, serves as vice president of the Voorhees High School Future Farmers of America chapter and is the president of her 4-H Dairy Club.

Becky succeeds Gretchen Kuehn of Raritan Township as the dairy princess. The crowning came at dairy farm open house at Charles Rogers' Penn Breeze Farm on Everitts Road.

1986 Hunterdon County Dairy Princess is Becky Alpaugh.

The Big Five-O

This year marks the 50th anniversary of June Dairy Month making it the longest, continuing, most recognized farm commodity promotion program we have, with the possible exception of Easter eggs.

Seriously, it's unmatched in its recognition by consumers and the media as well as its support by producers that has been helped in recent years by some federal legislation. That legislation included a 15 cent per hundred weight contribution from each producer starting in May 1984 and more recently a grant of $100 million to establish a National Dairy Research Institute for new product and market development that has yet to be started.

The producer contributions since 1984 have tripled the amount of money going into dairy product promotion and a referendum of producers has indicated their approval to continue the 15 cent contribution into the indefinite future.

The legislation requiring the 15 cent contribution allowed 10 cents of that to be diverted to state and local programs so there's no doubt that with all the organizations now engaged in dairy promotion, consumers are seeing and hearing a lot more about dairy products than ever before. Economic analyses of the impact of all these promotion dollars on producer income are already started but results are further in the future. What you will learn from the analyses is the kind of dairy product promotion that provides the best returns.

The one thing you should celebrate on the 50th anniversary is the record high increases in dairy product sales in the last three years while you were having record high production. When nothing seemed to be going right for producers faced only with a Dairy Termination Program or lower prices the outstanding bright spot for the future is the seven percent increase in commercial sales in the last two years.

If that doesn't sound like much consider that commercial sales in 1983 were 122 billion pounds of milk equivalent and in two years they were up to over 131 billion pounds - an increase of nine billion.

If you can increase another five billion pounds this year on the demand side and take away another nine billion pounds on the supply side with the Dairy Termination Program you will certainly increase your milk price enough to cover your 15 cent contribution. Now that dairy product consumption is on the increase, what was criticized earlier as a "milk tax" is now considered a contribution to good marketing by most producers and by many as money in the bank that will return good profits in the future.

So, until we know otherwise, producers can take credit for the turn around in commercial sales that had been slipping through most of the 50 years we were celebrating June Dairy Month but now seem to be making up for lost time.

However, you'll have to admit that helping these increasing sales was the competitive retail prices for dairy producers in recent years making them a real bargain in the food basket along with increasing disposable consumer income. The best hope for increasing dairy product consumption is their improving image to the consumer as healthful products rather than providing nothing more than fat and cholesterol.

The changing image is part of the promotion program, certainly, but changing dietary trends are also working in your favor. Just don't worry about the seemingly contradictory tastes with consumers going for low-fat milk to cut calories and the increasing sales of high quality (and high-fat) ice cream. Even butter is making a come back with the help of rising incomes; the appeal of gourmet cooking and a $12 million promotion effort by national and local organizations.

So, look at the bright side of the dairy industry - the improving image and increasing consumption of dairy products - on this 50th anniversary of June Dairy Month that today, looks healthy enough to survive another 50 years, at least.

Class I Differentials

The dairy provisions of the Farm

Security Act of 1985 weren't all bad as some press and producers would have you believe even before all the programs that it provided get started. There's a lot more to the farm bill than the Dairy Termination Program and increases in the Class I differential in 35 Federal Milk Marketing Orders which started with May milk deliveries to regulated handlers. Increases varied from eight cents in the Upper Midwest Order to $1.03 in the Southeastern Florida Order.

Here in Order 2 you got 30 cents. That means that the Class I price for May in Order 2 will be $13.57 instead of the $13.27 you would have had without the 30 cent increase.

Ordinarily, Congress doesn't get into changing Federal Orders but even when they do the changes still have to be approved in a referendum of producers. In this case it was no problem because the producers were literally voting themselves an increase in price but even so not everyone was happy.

Producers in the Lake States were mad because they felt they were cheated and should have had more. Nothing pleases everyone and some Federal Order changes written into the Farm Security Act such as market service payments will produce even more heat but that's another story.

Order 2 Prices

Uniform price for May milk deliveries to Order 2 handlers was $11.25, the lowest since 1979. Part of the problem was the production of 1,124 million pounds of milk in the pool which was the highest for May in 20 years. That's an increase of more than 11 percent over last May. The $11.25 was only six cents less than April but 53 cents less than last May.

This year you had assessments of 40 cents for the Dairy Termination Program and 12 cents for Gramm-Rudman but you also had an increase in the Class I differential that I explained earlier. However, that 30 cent increase in the Class I price shrunk to 10 cents on the uniform price because with that high production your Class I utilization dropped to 34.8 percent.

You also had a 10 cent increase in your Louisville Plan pay out for May. Because the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series has changed only eight cents since February your Class prices stayed about the same except for that 30 cent increase in the Class I differential.

What's hurting now are those assessments that are largely to blame for the 53 cent drop from last year. For whatever it's worth, the M-W won't go any lower this year because at $10.98 it's already 33 cents below the support price. Seasonal drops in milk production, even without the sales of fluid milk to schools this summer, should keep it from falling further.

Then we wait for the expected 30 cent increase after all those first period Dairy Termination Program cows go to market.

Natural cheese may be stored in the refrigerator for several weeks at 35° to 40°F. Whenever possible, it should be kept in its original wrapping. Waxed paper, transparent wrap, aluminum foil and plastic bags are also good coverings for cheese.

Over 500 Goats Compete in 'Big Weekend'

BY BETSY STITT

Blair County Correspondent

HUNTINGDON — A growing interest in dairy goats was evident at the Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Show held last weekend at Huntingdon.

Goat enthusiasts from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia brought together over 500 goats for the three day show. This "Big Weekend" also served as a kick-off for the National Dairy Goat Awareness Week which ends today. Goat Awareness Week was intended to make the public more aware of the goodness of goat milk and goat milk products.

One of the more prestigious awards presented during the event is the Miss Pennsylvania award. To be eligible a goat must be owned and bred by a Pennsylvania resident. Receiving the award this year was CH Spruce-Up Misty, a Toggenburg owned by Delores and Truman Peifer.

A new youth representative was also chosen. Last year's

Youth Show Winners

The youth show was held Saturday with 174 goats entered. Champions of each breed for the youth show are: Alpine, Sinking Spring Vanessa owned by Jonathan Merkle; LaMancha, Laurel Ridge Blossom SC Heidi owned by Tammy and Dawn Spitler; Nubian, Sheaffers Wild King Doms Sandy owned by Brenda Stroup; Saanen, Sinking Spring Victoria owned by Jonathan Merkle; Toggenburg, Earth-Way Strawberry owned by Trisha Trimmer; and Recorded Grade, Haines Willow Run Falonna owned by Michele Haines.

Tammy and Dawn Spitler's LaMancha was named Best of Show for the Youth Show.

Amy Marie Boldwin, Bellefonte won the junior showmanship title in the junior division. Michele Dutrow of Logantown won the title in the senior division.

Buck Show

Also judged on Saturday were the 66 entries in the Buck Show. The following are the champions of each breed.

Alpine, Can-D's Rome Daniel owned by Lawrence McVey; LaMancha, Catalpa Hills Shady Prince, owned by James Collon; Nubian, Amor MM Bernna's Bran Don owned by Stuart and Barb Crammer; Saanen, One Time Farno Beauregard owned by Karen Manfredonia; and Toggenburg, Open Gate Snowflake Beethoven owned by Charles Fullard.

Best Buck of Show honors went to the Nubian owned by Stuart and Barb Crammer.

Senior Doe Show

In the senior doe show, which took place Sunday, 137 entries were exhibited. The following are the champions of each breed.

Alpine, Earth Dance Lynde's Minnie owned by Robert and Jennifer Gourle; LaMancha, Posey Acres HS Tavia owned by Debbie Smeltzer; Nubian, CH Winterberry Marvin's Caresse owned by Ann Whitney; Oberhasli, Bri-Ra-Bar Fraulein owned by Barbara and Lee Blouch; Saanen, Sinking Spring Victoria owned by Jonathan Merkle; Toggenburg, CH Spruce-Up Misty owned by Delores and Truman Peifer; and Recorded Grade, CH Look-Over's Jennifer Honeydew owned by Bonnie Jean

Senior Best Doe of Show honors was captured by the Toggenburg owned by Delores and Truman Peifer.

Best of Show honors for the youth show went to Tammy and Dawn Spitler and their LaMancha.

Rutters Celebrate 65th Anniversary

BY JOYCE BUPP

York County Correspondent

YORK — Few ag businesses would care to talk about having been arrested and fined over a product they put out for consumers.

But at Rutter's Farm and Dairy, 2100 N. George Street, an arrest and subsequent fine over their milk has become a source of family and historic pride.

The arrest came in 1933, when a Pennsylvania law went into effect regulating the amount of cream in commercially sold milk. Rutter's Guernsey herd was producing a higher-butterfat product than the state's legal limit. And when the firm persisted in selling milk with fat above the legal limit, an arrest was forthcoming.

"Product Too Good; Milk Dealer Penalized," announced the headline that appeared in a local paper, elaborating on the arrest and subsequent $25 fine.

Such notoriety proved a boon to the Rutter family's dairy business. New customer orders for the "too good" product poured into the offices.

Through the month of June, the Rutter firm is celebrating a combined salute to their 65th year in business, the opening this year of their 50th farm store and of course, June Dairy Month. A recent open-house highlighted the combined anniversaries and brought some 4,000 York area residents and customers to tour the ultra-modern processing and milking facilities.

Rutter's Dairy has its roots deep in the rich loam of central York County. In 1747, Andrew Rutter received a pigskin deed to a 200-acre grant from Springetts Penn, grandson of William Penn. The first barn was built in 1806. Its stone walls still stand today, sturdy, beautiful and providing farm storage 180 years later.

When Andrew's grandson,

Born just in time to help celebrate the Rutter's 65th anniversary were twin calves, Jack and Jill. Calf-raiser Marge Rutter offered Jack a bottle as visitors oohed and aahed over the newborns.

Jacob, died in 1904, his nine children were left to run the family farm. Jacob's sons, George and Ebert, better known until his recent death as Bud, founded the dairy.

An excess of milk from the Guernseys prompted the two brothers in 1921 to bottle up 15 quarts of the surplus and offer it for sale, door-to-door. All but two of the quarts sold: and Crystal Spring Dairy — named for the spring used to cool the milk — was in business. The raw product was purchased from their brother William, who maintained the herd of 25 cows.

(Turn to Page A33)

Rutters Celebrate

Business boomed, and in 1927 the brothers invited brother-in-law Lehman Crist to join the growing venture. Crist's responsibility was to handle deliveries in his 1927 two-door Chevrolet coach.

By 1940, daily volume had reached 4,000 quarts of pasteurized, homogenized milk delivered to York residents via door-to-door truck routes. With the decade of the 50's came the addition of tanker trucks to haul milk from Rutter's farm producers, the opening of the first ice-cream store, and remodeling of processing facilities.

A new era began in 1968, when the first farm store opened, responding to changing customer lifestyles. The 50 stores now serving York and surrounding counties offer Rutter's dairy products, bakery goods from the former Barton's bakery — acquired in 1983, deli and grocery items, even gasoline.

Three restaurants, including banquet facilities, offer another outlet for Rutter's dairy products.

Today's ultra-modern processing at Rutter's includes flash pasteurization equipment, cooling of milk to 34 degrees for improved keeping quality, and complete automation for packaging of milk and ice cream products.

The maze of stainless piping and humming equipment can package 75 half-pints or quarts, 33 half gallons, and 50 gallon containers per minute. Three ice cream machines produce 750 gallons per hour in a range of flavors, providing a steady supply on hand in the 25,000-gallon freezer unit.

A 1.5-billion byte computer keeps both consumer and producer data current, and dispatches vital information to the 77 terminals at Rutter offices, farm stores, and restaurants.

Rutter's continues to be locally unique, one of the few dairies in the state still delivering milk door-to-door and maintaining a herd of cows. Milk is also supplied to Rutter's by 35 dairy farm producers in York and Adams counties.

The farm has become known over the years for its well-bred registered Guernseys, with 170 head of milking and replacement stock. Champion honors at both the Farm Show and the York Fair frequently go to Rutter entries, and animals shown by the third generation of Rutters have received state and national awards.

Operations of the family corporation continue under the management of Lehman Crist and several second generation members of the family. Brothers

Mike and Leo Rutter, Dale and Jay Crist, and Stuart Hartman Jr., actively supervise the diverse and growing divisions of this family business, which began with a 13-quart milk sale.

Milk cases are automatically stacked to the desired storage height, then moved by chain-track to the 300,000-gallon capacity refrigerated storage.

Major Dairy Sales And Dispersals Nationwide

Reports from four sales for the week of June 12 to June 18 showed 140 head averaging $1,268.25. These sales were held in Oklahoma, Idaho, and Minnesota. The top prices at the sales ranged from $7,000 to $625. Here is a brief look at the results of these sales.

JERSEY
The GOLDEN GOPHER PROTEIN SALE, held in Minnesota, averaged $830 on 57 head. The top selling animal was sired by Briarcliff Black Magic and sold for $1,450. This bred heifer is due in June to A-Nine Top Brass.

Her dam was sired by Quick Silver Magic of Ogden and is classified VG-85. As a 3-year old, she produced a record of 13,020 pounds of milk, 716 pounds of fat, and 476 pounds of protein, in 303 days. Her index is currently plus $50.

Garnering the second highest price of $1,400 3-year old out of Quick Silver Magic of Ogden. Her last record at 1 year and 10 months, was 18,104 pounds of milk and 828 pounds of fat M.E. Her index is currently plus $59.

Auctioneer for the sale was Keith Stump. The sale was sponsored by the Jersey Marketing Service and the Minnesota Jersey Cattle Club.

Held in conjunction with this sale was the GOPHER GOLD NUGGET SALE which averaged $537 on four open heifers. Topping this sale, with a price of $625 was a daughter of Gramhill Observer Poet.

HOLSTEIN

The PECK'S FARM MILKING HERD DISPERSAL, held in Oklahoma, averaged $2,500 on 46 head. The highest bid of the day was $7,000 on a 2-year old by Warden. She is classified 87 points and is currently producing 72 pounds of 3.6 percent milk per day. She was All-Oklahoma 2-year old.

Second in the bidding, with a price of $6,400, a 4-year old by Straight Pine Elevation Pete. She has a high record of 25,890 pounds of milk and 933 pounds of fat. She is classified EX-90 and was All-Oklahoma 4-year old.

Third in the bidding was a Valiant 2-year-old daughter. In 218 days, she has a record of 14,930 pounds of milk and 579 pounds of fat.

Auctioneer for the sale was Steve Massey of Texas.

The IDAHO GEM OF A SUMMER SALE averaged $1,206 on 33 head. Topping this sale, with a price of $3,600 was a yearling by Valiant. Her dam, classified VG-86, produced 20,880 pounds of milk and 911 pounds of fat as a 2-year old. Her granddam, classified VG-87, has a lifetime record of 144,620 pounds of milk and 5,792 pounds of fat.

A Starwars daughter had the second highest bid of the day, $1,800. This 2-year old is presently producing 65 pounds 3.8 percent milk per day. Her dam, an Elevation daughter, has a high record of 20,000 pounds of milk with a 4.2 test.

Auctioneer for the day was Jim Ellis, the HFAA regional manager. Reading pedigrees was Jim Henderson, a classifier and fieldman with the Holstein Association.

USDA Buyout Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The fifth weekly report on the buyout was released by the USDA on Wednesday.

USDA figures show an estimated 24,900 head of cattle in the program were slaughtered during the week ending June 18. This figure includes all cows, heifers and calves in the DTP, according to the USDA spokesman.

An estimated cumulative total of 422,800 head have been slaughtered since the beginning of the DTP on April 1.

Meat purchases by the government reached 15.9 million pounds for the week ending June 14. This meat was purchased in the form of 2,521,260 pounds of canned beef, and 13,436,500 pounds of bulk-frozen ground beef.

The cumulative total meat purchases is 136,834,588 pounds.

Cumulative total of dairy cows that were reported for export since April 1 is 10,213 head. This total is expected to increase as foreign countries are preparing to take advantage of the Export Enhancement program.

Uncompleted contracts remain in a holding pattern until congress approves a supplemental funding bill for CCC. No date was given when this bill can be expected.

New cowside progesterone test kits are now available for helping farmers improve the reproductive performance of their dairy herds.

One of the most important uses of cowside progesterone tests is to verify the heat status of cows, particularly those that have weak or questionable signs of estrus.

In the hands of an experienced and knowledgeable user the test can also help to confirm pregnancy. But, other ovarian dysfunctions may lead one to erroneously conclude that a cow is pregnant.

These new progesterone test kits should be viewed as one more useful tool available to farmers. They do not replace the need for skillful observation of animals, good management, and the services of a well-trained veterinarian.

Over 1,000 Dairymen Shift Periods

BY MARTHA GEHRINGER
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Dairymen holding contracts for 157,411 cattle intended for slaughter or export in the first disposal period of the dairy termination program have asked to delay their disposal deadlines until later periods, USDA announced this week.

Notification was sent to 1,140 participants in the DTP that their request for contract modification was accepted. These dairymen will now dispose of their herds in buyout periods two or three, if they sign the modified contracts by June 30.

These delayed contracts are part of the out-of-court settlement reached in the National Cattlemen's Association's suit against the USDA regarding the DTP. With this adjustment in buyout periods, the program's impact on the beef market will be reduced.

The settlement permitted dairymen in the first buyout period to move the slaughter or export date of their herds to periods two or three.

All of the dairymen that requested a change were accepted. However, "Until the new contracts are signed we don't know how many animals will actually be shifted," Charles Shaw of the ASCS in Washington reported.

If the dairymen don't sign the new contracts, they must abide by the terms of their original contract, Shaw said. Buyout participants will not have another chance to change their buyout period, he added.

Some of the dairymen who requested the change have started the process of disposing of their animals. When these participants return their new contracts to the ASCS, they will be required to list a new set of intentions stating when their herd will be disposed of, how many head have been slaughtered, and how many head remain to be slaughtered or exported.

This will give the ASCS a final tally of the impact on the marketing schedule. Shaw said he anticipates the influence to be small since many of the cattle shifted were moved into the second buyout period. This move will keep the buying of meat and expected reduction of surplus milk on schedule.

Of the total 157,411 head listed in the original contracts of producers who requested a modification, 124,968 will move into the second period, and 32,443 will be shifted to the third.

A few participants did not list a preference for the second or third period and were placed into the second period.

"By putting these producers in period two, we are able to keep the program running along the way we were originally planning," Shaw said. Since we geared our meat purchase to the original contracts, we are able to stay on that schedule as the beef will be available, he added.

Having the beef available in the second buyout period also helps us to meet the Brazil sale, he said.

Increasing the second buyout period will offer a financial benefit as well, Shaw said. "If we get rid of the animals by February, when milk production is up, we won't have to buy the extra milk, and we will be saving money in that regard," Shaw explained.

Two shift requests were denied. These two contracts were for a total of 7,441 head and represented one-third of the total number of head being disposed of in their respective states for the first disposal period. Under the agreement with the NCA, to further reduce the impact on the market, the number of cattle in each contract could not exceed this limit.

In Pennsylvania, 44 producers requested a shift in their buyout period. Of the total 4,390 head listed on the original contracts of these participants, 4,256 will be moving into the second period and 134 will move into the third period, Jan Waybright of the Pennsylvania ASCS reported.

Speculating on why some dairymen participated in the latest change in the buyout program, Seth Huisman of the ASCS in Washington noted, "Some farmers have young stock they would like to continue to feed to add weight." Or they may wish to wait to market their animals when prices will be better, he continued.

Still others may want to continue milking until their feed is gone, or they may want to squeeze out a few more milk checks before they get rid of their herd, Huisman speculated.

The NCA thinks that with this latest move the USDA has made a step in the right direction, said Roger Bergland of the NCA. He added they would like to see the Brazil purchase agreement, involving large amounts of meat, completed to further reduce the impact on the beef market.

A total of 931,357 head of cattle were originally contracted for disposal during the first period, April 1, 1986 to Aug. 31, 1986.

During the second period, 225,943 head were intended for slaughter. During the third period, March 1, 1987 to Aug. 31, 1987, a total of 271,628 animals were scheduled to be slaughtered.

The recently announced shifts will help spread out the number of animals intended for slaughter expected in August 1986, USDA said. A total of 228,950 head were originally scheduled for disposal in August, the USDA announced.

Order 4 Milk Set at $12.36

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine today announced a May 1986 base milk price of $12.36 per hundredweight and an excess milk price of $10.78.

The weighted average May price was $12.27 and the butterfat differential for the month is 16.0 cents. The base milk price was up 7 cents from April but was $.63 lower than last May. The weighted average price was up 4 cents from April but was $.55 lower than a year earlier.

The gross value of May producer milk was $70.5 million, compared to $70.1 million a year ago.

Mr. Shine said that producer receipts totaled 576.8 million pounds during May, an increase of 28.8 million pounds from last May, and the average daily delivery of 2,830 pounds per producer increased 199 pounds or 7.6 percent from a year earlier.

Class I producer milk totaled 245.4 million pounds and was up nearly 12.8 million pounds or 5.5 percent from last May. Class I milk accounted for 42.55 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 42.46 percent in May 1985.

Base milk accounted for 88.50 percent of total producer milk receipts in May compared with 85.29 percent last year. The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.57 percent, up slightly from 3.56 percent last May.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during May 1986 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $11.25 per hundredweight (24.2 cents per quart). Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $11.31 in April 1986 and $11.78 in May 1985. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan removed $.40 per hundredweight from the dairy farmers' uniform price for May, a total of $4,494,845.78. Deductions will continue through June and will be returned in the August through November uniform price calculations.

A total of 16,148 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey

Milk Marketing Area with 1,123,711,445 pounds of milk during May 1986. This was an increase of 3.2 percent (about 35 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $128,614,105.11. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 391,492,838 pounds of milk for Class I, 34.8 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For May 1986, handlers paid $13.57 per hundredweight (29.2 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $14.20 a year ago. The increase of $.30 in the Class I differential became effective May 1, 1986.

The balance (732,218,067) pounds or 65.2 percent) was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $10.86 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For May 1986, there was a price differential of 16.0 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are the bulk tank milk received from farms in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

Milk Poster Winners Named

BY JOYCE BUPP

NEW OXFORD — Colorful posters brighten the roadsides of rural Adams County, as dairy farm families promote milk during June.

The posters are part of a contest sponsored earlier this month by the Adams County Dairy Princess and Promotion Committee.

Taking first place, and a $25 award, were Barbara and David Kerr, Littlestown. Their "June Dairy Month - Celebrate" poster featured blue calico lettering with colorful life-sized pictures of assorted dairy products.

Sandy and Bob Flickinger won the $15 second-place prize with the poster on their New Oxford farmstead. It urged passersby to "Fill Up With Milk," depicting a milk carton with a hose filling up a glass with milk.

A compound poster display earned $10 for third-place winners, the John Hess family. Flanking a cow sporting an Uncle Sam-type patriotic top hat were the messages: June is Dairy Month; Our Cows Want You To Enjoy Real Dairy Products.

The poster contest was one of several events scheduled by the dairy promotion group to celebrate June Dairy Month.

A Dairy Month Baby award went to the first infant born at Gettysburg Hospital after 12:01 on June 1. Gift certificates for dairy products, free ice cream sundaes, and a toy cow were among the items presented to Mrs. Tracy Whetsel.

In a Dairy Month celebration with the Gettysburg Little League, milk was served by the dairy princess to the eight teams in the program. Junior ball players also took home Cal Ripken milk posters and schedules for both the Baltimore Orioles and Philadelphia Phillies teams.

Barbara and David Kerr won the Adams County roadside milk promotion poster contest by urging motorists to celebrate June Dairy Month.

"Fill Up With Milk" earned Sandy and Bob Flickinger the second-place poster award.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Yaple, of Yaple Family Farm, Houtzdale, Jennifer owns 10 Guernsey cows. Her parents raise Guernseys, Holsteins and Ayrshires.

Jennifer attends Moshannon Valley Junior and Senior High School, where she has been a member of the concert band, band front, Spanish Club, Varsity Club and basketball team and co-editor of the yearbook. She is also a member of the 4-H dairy club.

Following high school, Jennifer plans to attend college to major in television production.

Selected alternate princesses were Shelli Durandetta and Elizabeth Milchak.

The evening's activities also included a Dairy Maid Contest for 8-, 9- and 10-year-old girls. Contestants were required to write an essay on the importance of dairy products.

The 8-year-old Dairy Maid is Renee Curry, the daughter of Melvin and Joan Curry of Curwensville. The 9-year-old winner is Becky Shaw, the daughter of Dennis and Janet Shaw of Grampian. Both girls were crowned by last year's Dairy Maid, Shannon Curry.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Swan Brothers, a gospel group from Mahaffey. An ice cream social followed the pageant.

Report Examines Delaware Ag Situation

NEWARK, Del. — At the recent Friends of Agriculture Breakfast in Dover, Delaware, Governor Mike Castle released copies of a new bulletin which analyzes local farm financial conditions and their potential impact on Delaware agriculture and the state's economy as a whole.

"Delaware Farm Financial Conditions and Public Policy Implications for State Government" was written by University of Delaware extension economist Gerald F. Vaughn. The 21-page publication summarizes the results of two surveys of farm lenders and farm operators conducted in January 1986 by the Delaware Crop Reporting Service.

On balance the Delaware farm economy is healthier than agriculture elsewhere in the U.S. However, the surveys show that as many as one in five Delaware farmers with debt could be in financial trouble, and that one in 10 of all farmers in the state expects to leave farming in 1986 if current income trends and expenses persist.

Among other things, Vaughn says the surveys revealed a higher than normal turn-down rate for new farm loan applications and requests for additions to existing loans — 22.4 percent compared to the usual refusal rate of about 18.0 percent. Lenders said they expected 6.2 percent of their farm borrowers to be unable to qualify for financing in 1986. Usually about 4.6 percent fail to do so.

Of the farmers who don't qualify, 67.8 percent have inadequate income prospects and 18.4 percent lack sufficient equity. The rest have a poor performance record in repaying previous loans or are otherwise a poor risk. It is estimated that 13.6 percent of the Delaware farm operators with debts are in trouble; another 6.8 percent may be.

"Perhaps the most revealing measure of stress among farm operators," Vaughn says, "is their estimation of how long they can continue farming if recent trends in income and expenses continue. Of those surveyed, 9.8 percent expect to be able to continue farming only one more year; 28.7 percent think they'll stay in business two to five years; 4.9 percent plan to continue for six to 10 years. The rest either expect to be farming more than 10 years, or expressed no opinion."

After summarizing the findings of the two surveys, the economist discusses the implications of this information in terms of farm family stress and impact on the state's agricultural industry and other sectors of the Delaware economy.

Copies of the bulletin are available from county extension offices in Newark (451-2506), Dover (736-1448) and Georgetown (856-7303), as well as from the Delaware Department of Agriculture.

With Their

SPECIAL DESIGNED FEED COLLECTOR

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

Instead of feed being blown in at high velocity at an angle causing the fines to drop on one side of the bin and the coarse particles on the other side, Agri-Equipments' Feed Collector allows feed to decelerate and drop gently into the center of the bin leaving you with a balanced ration as shown in the diagram below.

This Thresherman At Home With Steam Power

by Bonnie Szymanski

Titus Brubaker, 98-year-old resident of Moravian Manor, Lititz recently fell from a steam traction engine.

Some people might wonder what a 98-year-old man would be doing on top of a steam traction engine in the first place.

Those people obviously don't know who Titus Brubaker is.

He's the man who has spent the last 38 years helping to maintain steam traction engines displayed at the Rough and Tumble Museum, located on Route 30 in Kinzers and dedicated to preserving and demonstrating the steam-powered and gasoline-powered machines used during the early part of the 20th century.

Titus Brubaker is "probably one of the last remaining steam threshermen," according to a report from the museum.

And according to Guy Stauffer of East Petersburg, who drives Brubaker to the museum "two or three times a week" to work on the steam traction engines, "Titus was a thresherman for 42 years."

For the uninformed, threshermen were an indispensable part of the agricultural community around the turn-of-the-century, providing farmers with the power to pull threshing machines and bails.

Unlike the combines of today that harvest grain "right off the stalk," said Stauffer, the threshing machines would separate the grain from the straw and the bails would form the straw or hay into - what else? - bails, of course.

Brubaker's steam traction engine also provided power for saw mills and silo fillers.

Come fall, Brubaker would saw railroad ties for firewood to be used in winter.

Brubaker saw his first steam traction engine in 1903. Eighteen years later, in 1921, he bought that same engine - a RR Peerless - from the owner's estate.

About five years ago, reported Stauffer, Brubaker donated it to the Rough and Tumble Museum, where it has undergone restoration and is on display.

Brubaker has owned six steam traction engines "in his time," said Stauffer.

He now owns a 50 HP Peerless, which, according to Stauffer, is the next to last one made in Waynesboro in 1928, the final year they were manufactured.

He is also part-owner with Stauffer of a 60 HP Frick steam traction engine.

Brubaker spent time this spring working on the museum's steam traction engines, doing pipe-fitting and installing two injectors, said his partner.

And despite a leg injury from the fall, Brubaker intends to man a shovel at the June 21 groundbreaking ceremonies for the newest building on the 33-acre museum site.

Titus Brubaker Sr., a resident of Moravian Manor, stands beside one of several steam traction engines he owns. Brubaker is actively involved with the Rough and Tumble museum on Route 30 in Kinzers, which displays and demonstrates early steam-powered and gasoline-powered engines and machines.

The new building, to be dedicated to Brubaker and his wife, Irma, 94, also a resident of Moravian Manor, is scheduled to be completed in time for use at the August Threshermen's Reunion.

The couple is being honored for their long association with the historical organization. Brubaker also has made generous donations to the association's trust fund, said Stauffer.

The groundbreaking and new building construction is being called a milestone in the 38-year history of the Rough and Tumble Engineers Historical Association, as all of the other buildings at the museum site were either already on the property when purchased by the association or were built by Rough and Tumble volunteers.

The new building, a 60-by-150-foot steel structure for housing and displaying steam traction engines when they are not being demonstrated, will be built by the Fetersville Sales Co.

Contributions for the construction have come from private sources as well as from the organization.

The historical association is made up of more than 1000 members from 39 states as well as Canada, England, Australia and Germany.

It is a non-profit organization with a board of directors, headed by a slate of elected officers.

The public is invited to attend the June 21 groundbreaking, during which time the ladies auxiliary will provide refreshments. No admission will be charged.

During the Aug. 13-16 Threshermen's Reunion, exhibits will include stationary steam engines, gasoline tractors, gasoline engines, antique cars and trucks, saw mills and shingle mills.

a particular export order we provide these local sales representatives with the specifications and ask them for assistance in locating the cattle that meet these various specifications. We also use these sales representatives to help select for the state association sales.

Q. It's always been a problem to have breeders register their animals on time. What involvement does the state organization have in getting the animals in the herd book?

A. Our involvement in increasing registrations or maintaining registrations is mostly tied to our membership. Right now the state membership is a minimum of $20 with a 45 cent per registered cow in the herd of the member. This gives us the incentive to keep the animals registered and to increase the number of registered animals on farms throughout the state. Also we encourage registrations through our field day club activities and annual meeting. If our members or even a non-member comes to us with a registration problem we get involved with it right away.

Q. Can you give us a little explanation of the index numbers we now see in the official pedigrees of our animals?

A. Indexes are important because it provides a measure for the potential of the animal. But there is discussion about whether there is some possibility of affecting the indexes by management of the herd in terms of herd mates. Maybe there needs to be some changes made in the formulas and we expect to see some changes made. But the international buyers still look at the indexes. Recently we were host to some bull buyers from Japan. And their specifications called for young bulls to be out of cows with at least an 800 index. But when they got here it was difficult to sell a bull out of a cow that had less than a thousand index. The requirements keep going up. And the domestic market must look at the indexes because the foreign markets use them. The main concern is that we must be sure that the formula is correct so that we are all recognizing the best brood cows in the industry and breeding from these cows. We will likely see some lively discussion at the national convention the first week of July in Milwaukee on this subject.

Q. Can you give us a little more information on how these cow indexes are formulated?

A. Basically the index comes from the sire of the cow and the performance of the cow herself in relationship to her herd mates.

Q. You mentioned the national convention coming in July. Can you give a little preview of the convention?

A. One of the important things for Pennsylvania members is to get Thomas Kelly elected as national director. The desire for Pennsylvania is to have two directors from our state. That certainly is the highlight of the convention for the Pennsylvania delegation. There will also likely be discussion about how to recognize the cow families a little more by giving a little less emphasis on the sires side when dealing with index numbers.

Q. Since the Pennsylvania State Association will be 75 years young next year, are you already planning some special things to highlight the state convention?

A. Yes. The next state convention will be held in the Sheraton in Wilkes Barre on February 25 and 26. We haven't done a lot of planning yet. But we want to have a place to display some memorabilia of the first 75 years of the Pennsylvania Association. Local clubs can already start thinking toward what they might bring along to the convention in the way of historical things. Of course some of the records of the early years were not kept as well as they have been in the last 25 to 30 years. So we are looking forward to some of the old things that show holstein history. We also will have a ballroom sale as a major activity. And we will be housing the cattle across the street in the parking garage.

Q. What would you like to tell the 120,000 readers of Lancaster Farming about your member relations program?

A. First of all, we'd like to tell everyone to keep active and involved. A lot of people right now are considering whether they should keep on registering all of their cattle. It might look like they can't afford membership right now. But if they look down the road they will see that to let their registrations go on the young animals will place a handicap on their sales program three or four years from now.

Q. Can you elaborate on the dollars and cents aspect of registered animals over non-registered animals?

A. The average registered animal is worth $300 to $400 more. Our state average for membership fees is about $33 a year. That allows the member to belong to (Turn to Page A46)

Berks County Maps Summer Promotions

FLEETWOOD — The Berks County Dairy Farmers Association is gearing up for two big dairy promotions and invites everyone to get involved.

The first event is a Berks Co. Dairy Night with the Reading Phillies at the Reading Municipal Stadium on Saturday, July 19. Beginning at 6 p.m. the Reading Phillies will be playing the Pittsfield (Mass.) Cubs in a double header.

Between the games the Association will sponsor a Cow Milking Contest and a Milk Drinking Contest.

The final highlight will be the construction of a 50 foot Banana Split in celebration of National Ice Cream Week.

A Berks County Dairy Festival is planned for Sunday, August 3, at the Gring's Mill Recreation Area outside of Reading. The festival is sure to provide lots of fun for all.

Various dairy farm organizations are cooperating to sponsor a cow milking contest, milk drinking contest, tubing contest, ice cream eating contest, dairy recipe contest, cow drawing contest, and displays.

The kick-off at 1:30 p.m. will be a Milk Carton Boat Float Race open to youth groups and individuals. East Side Dave and the Pine Ridge Mountain Boys will provide a musical concert in the late afternoon and evening.

For more information on either of these promotions, contact Phoebe R. Bitler at 944-0541.

The Berks County Dairy Farmers Association is sponsoring a Dairy Recipe Contest in conjunction with the Dairy Festival on August 3. All Berks County cooks are invited to submit their favorite recipes using the following rules:

To enter the contest, print or type your name, address, zip code, telephone number, and category name on a single sheet of 8½" x 11" paper or on the entry blank found in supermarket dairy cases. Attach your recipe to the paper or entry blank. Send to: Phoebe R. Bitler, R.D. #4, Box 4176, Fleetwood, PA 19522.

All entries must be clearly labeled with the name of one of the following four categories: appetizer/beverage, soup, salad/vegetable, main dish, or dessert.

All entries must feature at least one dairy product as a main ingredient. No imitation dairy products may be used in any recipe entry. (Eggs are not considered dairy products.) No proof of purchase is necessary.

Entries must be received by midnight June 30, 1986, and they become the property of the Berks County Dairy Farmers Association. Each contestant may submit no more than one recipe for each category.

Recipes will be judged and winners chosen by professionals working in food related areas.

Judging will be based on: effective use of dairy products 40 percent; taste and visual appeal, 30 percent; originality and creativity, 20 percent; and ease of preparation, 10 percent.

For judging purposes, recipe entries will be prepared according to ingredients and directions submitted. No entry should specify a brand name product as an ingredient.

Recipe entries must state the number of servings yielded and approximate preparation time.

Decision of the judges will be final. Recipes not conforming to the rules will not be eligible for judging.

Finalists will be notified by mail by July 16, 1986. Finalists will then be requested to prepare their entry and bring it to the Berks County Dairy Festival at Gring's Mill Recreation Area on Sunday, August 3, 1986. Winners must consent to the use of their name and/or photograph for publicity purposes by the Berks County Dairy Farmers Association.

The contest is open to all Berks County residents, except those who have professional food experience.

The winner in each of the five recipe categories will receive a $25 gift certificate for dairy products. The grand champion winner will be awarded an Ice Cream Entertaining Ensemble.

Recipes submitted for this contest must not have been an award winner in any other dairy food related contest.

Lancaster Co. FmHA Nominees Selected

LANCASTER — Election of two Farmers Home Administration Lancaster County committee members will take place on Monday, June 30, 9 a.m., Acting County Supervisor, Bernard C. Linn, Jr. announced recently.

"This is a historic occasion," Bernard C. Linn, Jr. said. "It is the first time that FmHA county committee members have been elected. Until now they have been designated by the agency. The 1965 Farm Bill calls for two elected and one designated member on the committee."

The FmHA county committee assists the county office in determining the eligibility of applicants for certain types of FmHA Loans.

Farmers who live in Lancaster

County, have their principal farming operation within the county or area for which the election is being held, and derive the principal part of their income from farming are eligible to vote.

Nominees for the Lancaster County FmHA county committee are:

Luke F. Brubaker, John H. Hershey and James C. Kreider.

"This time, we will elect two committee members," Linn said. "One will serve for one year and the other will serve two years. In the future, all three members will serve three-year terms on a staggered basis, with one position to be filled each year."

Voting ballots are available from the FmHA county office at 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster. Marked ballots must be received at the FmHA office by 9 a.m., June 30.

Dairy Leader Urges Unification

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The Northeast's dairy industry "must get its act together" or face loss of markets in the next few years according to Clyde E. Rutherford, President of Dairy Lea Cooperative Inc. He was speaking recently to a luncheon meeting of the Northeastern Association of State Departments of Agriculture.

"Time is running out on the Northeast," said Rutherford. "Other regions have built legislative and marketing muscle. They have set in motion inter-regional forces which, if we do not move decisively, will take over more of the dairy market here in the Northeast corridors."

Rutherford, a dairyman from Otego, N.Y., is chairman of the Commissioner's (N.Y.) Dairy Advisory Council and an executive committee member of the National Milk Producers Federation.

He told the audience of secretaries and commissioners of agriculture and their aides that the midwest dairy industry already has a substantial share of the East coast market for manufactured dairy products and is targeting the area for additional market share.

"What I am talking about is not individual co-ops or companies engaged in competition. I am talking about regions acting in a unified and purposeful manner. They are engaged in programs aimed at their regional self-betterment. I cannot fault them for that" said the dairy co-op president.

"My point is that this region must get its act together. Our state governments, our cooperatives, our independent farmers, our support organizations and companies and our milk processors...all of us are facing stronger challenges for our markets than we have ever experienced before."

Rutherford urged a consolidation of dairy cooperative organizations within the region through mergers and business ventures.

"Cooperation works," he declared. "But the Northeast, as a region, is dragging its collective heels in the area of inter-cooperative relationships. Things have improved, but they have a long way to go."

When I last looked, we had almost as many dairy cooperatives serving less than half as many farmers as we did 20 years ago. The midwest and southeast have moved together while we continue to duplicate each others activities and compete for both members and markets. That did not make sense when there were 100,000 dairymen in the region and it does not make sense now that there are only 30,000 dairymen, with the number slated to drop even further."

Commenting that the various committees councils and other groups have greatly helped to build region-wide support for common goals in legislation and market order changes, Rutherford urged that the next step needs to be taken, a concerted, unified effort to improve the dairy farmer's "bottom line."

He called for regionwide support for a program of over-order pricing. (Over-order pricing is a legally authorized system under which farmers and their co-ops can get together through a Marketing Agency in Common to determine a price for their milk.)

Rutherford said that such an Agency now exists: the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency

(RCMA). He said that its bylaws have been amended to provide for membership of both cooperatives and individual dairy farmers and that, as of the present date, about 53 percent of the region's dairymen are enrolled.

Custom Farming

As Equipment Costs Skyrocket, More Dairymen are Turning to Custom Operators

BY GINGER SECRIST MYERS

Adams Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG — If you're a dairyman who wants to spend more time with your cows than in your cornfields, or a farmer with limited grain acreage and no harvesting equipment, or someone who just wants to try the newer technology, such as no-till forages, without purchasing the equipment, then perhaps you should consider having at least part of your cropping program done by a custom operator. So says Adams County extension agent Bill Murray. He describes the custom operator as someone who often purchases the larger equipment for his own large acreage and then does custom work to help his cash flow, most often working for his own neighbors.

What is fair price for having your corn no-till planted or your wheat combined? One source of information available to farmers free from their county extension service or the Department of Agriculture's Crop Reporting Service is their publication, "Pennsylvania's 1986 Machinery Custom Rates." (See Lancaster Farming, June 7, page D14.) This publication reflects the custom rate averages reported voluntarily by custom operators throughout the state for such services as planting and drilling, spraying, harvesting, plowing and cultivating, grinding feed, manure hauling, fertilizer spreading and others. The rates are listed by two regions, Mountain and Valley, which reflects the difference in terrain, soils, labor, and equipment used between the Southeast portion of the state and the upper and western counties. A straight "state" average is also listed.

Custom operator Merle Weant, Littlestown, uses the Crop Reporting Services rate sheet as a guideline for setting his prices for his services, which include corn planting, silo filling, combining, plowing and spray incorporation. With the exception of the month of August, Weant does custom work from the end of April through to Christmas. He feels the rates in the guide are too low if the operator figures in anything for his machinery investment.

Says Weant, "The machinery dealers say I should charge $1 per hour for every $1000 I have invested in equipment. When I fill a silo I take out my chopper, three chuck wagons, and a blower which add up to about a $128,000 investment. I can't charge a man $128 an hour to fill his silo. I try to get somewhere between that and the crop reporting services figures.

Weant also has a seed dealership. His wife Olwyn, who also teaches school, helps with the seed deliveries and custom work scheduling. She states, "It's like a three-ring circus around here. Someone is always calling to get work done." Merle explains that he started doing custom work 20 years ago when he bought some larger machinery to do his own crops. Now he shells corn and picks soybeans across about 1100 acres a year, plants 600 acres of corn and soybeans, and chops and fills silos from about 1,000 acres of silage corn. In addition he farms over 560 acres of his own and rented ground. "It started small and then more people started coming for business. I have enough to do that I never have to go solicit any more work. Most of my business is with dairymen who don't want to invest in the equipment as long as I can get it done on time," says Weant.

When looking for a custom operator for service, Weant advises, "Get someone who will do the job the way you want it done. Check around and see how long or short he cuts silage, or how much wheat he leaves on the ground."

From the operator's end Weant reveals that he usually knows most of the people he works for and who's going to pay and who isn't. Adds Olwyn, "It's not unusual for us to have accounts out over five digits. If a guy tries to pay something right along, we try to work with him."

John Hess, Gettysburg, breaks the traditional mold of the dairyman who needs custom work done, by being a dairyman who has the services to offer. In addition to operating a 150-cow dairy and cropping 700 acres of his own, Hess does custom manure hauling, corn planting, and silo filling.

Hess explains, "I don't think of myself as the typical dairyman. Most of the management of the dairy has been turned over to my children and wife. That has allowed me to diversify my operation." He notes that he spends from 500 to 1000 man-hours a year doing custom work. With his additional time away from the dairy, he has increased his crop sales and is now also selling silage year around.

Hess feels that getting into custom work has been good for his

Solid Waste Hearings Scheduled In Lancaster Co.

LANCASTER — A series of four public hearings on Lancaster County's solid waste management plan will be held at various locations throughout Lancaster County in June and July. The public hearings, sponsored by the Lancaster County Commissioners' Solid Waste Advisory Committee (So1WAC), will be held on the following dates and at the following locations:

Date	Location
Thursday, June 26, 1986	Ephrata Sr. High School Audion
Wednesday, July 2, 1986	Solanco High School Cafeteria

Wednesday, July 16, 1986

Lancaster Co. Courthouse, 6th Floor Meeting Room
Hempfield High School Large Group Room

Wednesday, July 23, 1986

All public hearings will begin at 7 p.m.

The draft plan, which was prepared by the consulting firms BCM Eastern, Inc. and The Greenly-Polhemus Group, examines the options that are available for managing the solid waste stream, and recommends an optimal system for the storage, collection, transport, processing, and disposal of solid waste. The draft plan does not examine specific sites for the proposed components of the optimal system. So1WAC accepted the draft "Lancaster County Solid Waste Management Plan 1986" for public distribution during the Committee's meeting on May 22, 1986. Following compilation of the comments from the public hearings and public officials' meetings, a final draft will be presented to So1WAC and the County Commissioners for adoption in August, and then be sent to the Department of Environmental Resources for approval. The county will then seek local municipal adoption of this plan as a new Solid Waste Management Plan for Lancaster County.

The public is encouraged to attend one of these public hearings. Copies of the draft plan are available for review at the Planning Commission office. For further information on the draft plan or on these public meetings, contact Nancy E. Parker, Associate County Planner, at 299-8333.

30 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

—As a preliminary to select livestock judging teams for Pennsylvania 4-H Club Week in August, around 60 farm youths and advisors from seven counties participated in an elimination contest at Stauffer Homestead Farms, R1 East Earl. Represented were Lancaster, Chester, Montgomery, Franklin, Lebanon, York and Adams counties. Four-H members from some of these counties earlier took part in a Centre County meeting.

—The value of products sold in 1954 by operators of 7,951 farms in Lancaster County was $80 million according to a preliminary report of the 1954 Census of Agriculture published by the Bureau of the Census U.S. Department of Commerce.

—John D. Stoner, 19, son of Mr. & Mrs. John H. Stoner, R7 Lancaster, was named a regional vice president for a 10-county area of the state FFA. Stoner who farms with his father on an 80-acre farm and a 100-acre farm south of Lampeter graduated in 1955 from Strasburg-Lampeter where he was active throughout his school career in both class and FFA chapter offices.

—Members of the Washington

Boro Tomato Growers Association are anticipating an excellent crop according to residents of that area. Stocks are heavily latent with the green fruit at this time and many are supported by tobacco lath.

—Lancaster Poultry Exchange's sale prices advanced Tuesday moving up a ½ cent a pound to average 20.56.

—Friday, July 20, is the date when growers will determine how they want to market their 1957 wheat crop. Farmers who will harvest more than 15 acres of wheat as grain on a farm in 1957 are eligible to cast ballots in the wheat quota referendum.

—Sweet corn plants in Pennsylvania produced good yields without extra magnesium according to a three-year study just reported by soil scientists at the Pennsylvania State University.

—A new record placing fourth in milk production among the ten highest of the Guernsey breed in her class has just been completed by the Registered 'Cow Clarion Farms LuLuBelle, a 10-year-old owned by Charles E. Harding at Maplevale Farm in Brookville, PA. LuLuBelle produced 17,175 pounds of milk and 699 pounds of fat in 305 days.

Production Climbs as Cow Numbers Drop

UNIVERSITY PARK — The buyout program is having the desired influence of reducing cow numbers, however, total milk production continues to rise.

Total milk production reached the 11.1 billion pound level for May 1986, up 2.7 percent from May 1985 figures. This high production came in spite of a .3 percent drop in cow numbers.

Pennsylvania, for the same time period, realized a 2.2 percent increase in milk production and a 1.1 percent drop in cow numbers. In May 1986 there were 730,000 cows in the state; this number remained constant from April 1986. However, May 1986 is 8,000 cows less than the May 1985 figure.

Production per cow in Pennsylvania rose 110 pounds from the April 1986 level. Although May is a usual flush month, 1986 per cow production increased to 1,250 pounds from the 1985 level of 1,210 pounds.

On the national level production per cow rose 3 percent.

Blend prices continued to drop in the three Federal Orders found in Pennsylvania.

Last year, in Federal Order 2, farmers received $11.78 per hundredweight compared to $11.25 this year. This price also dropped 6 cents from the April price of $11.31. With the 67 cent deduction, the actual farmer price is $10.58.

Federal Order 4 price per hundredweight in May 1985 was $12.82 prior to the 67 cent deduction. In May 1986 the price was $12.27, up 4 cents from the April 1986 price of $12.23. Jack Kirkland, dairy marketing specialist at Penn State, attributed this slight price increase from April to increased Class 1 utilization which rose .1 percent.

The western quarter of the state and the eastern part of Ohio, Federal Order 36, received $11.86 per hundredweight of milk in May this year and $12.57 last year. The May 1986 price dropped 2 cents from the April 1986 price.

Slaughter cow prices dropped from 39.4 cents per pound last May to 35.9 cents this May, Kirkland reported.

"Farmers are on a treadmill in an attempt to keep the milk check the same," Kirkland said. They are either reducing costs or increasing production, the latter of which is easier, he added. However, by increasing production the price continues to drop and forces the treadmill to continue.

home farm. He states, "When you do custom work, you get to be very efficient with all your own field-work, too. Being able to run the machinery more allows us to justify the purchase of better equipment and more modern equipment."

Though Hess doesn't depend on a set guideline for determining his custom rates, he lists several factors which help him determine his charges. These include his investment in his machinery, maintenance, labor, fuel, and how much work is available. He feels that most operators do not charge enough to cover their investment. He charges $12 an acre to no-till in corn, $65 an hour to fill silo, and $30 an hour to haul manure.

Hess sees more custom work coming his way as local farmers pencil out the cost of purchasing and maintaining specialized equipment. Hess notes, "Most guys with 100-150 acres would be much better off if they would get their work custom done. I don't know who can justify the purchase of equipment for the short time they're going to use it each year."

Extension agent Murray concludes that there are some operations better suited to custom work than others. Least advantageous would be haymaking since weather is a dominant factor in quality. Custom operators must usually work in a set time frame which might not be the right for a particular field of hay. He ranks combining as the most advantageous because of the large investment in equipment and also spraying because most operator rates are fairly reasonable and the farmer doesn't have to worry about liability, mixing of chemicals and calibration for application.

Holstein Association

both the state and national association. If you register your calves under three months it will cost you $4 per calf. So the total cost for registry on an animal may be only $6 to $10 depending on how many animals you register. No one would dispute that a registered animal is worth $10 more than a non-registered one. Dairymen need to make the decision if they are going to raise the calf. And if they are going to raise calf, they should automatically register the animal.

Q. What other services do you offer the members?

A. One of the newest things we have begun again is the "Pennsylvania Profiles" magazine. We have two issues out with another going to the printer today. We are really excited about it. It's building on itself. And we think as the readers realize the profit they make by selling an animal they will want to advertise. And others just like to read it. It goes to the members and any one else who wants to subscribe for $12 per year for the five issues.

Q. Can you describe your youth program?

A. Yes. This is one of our most successful programs. We have about 1,800 junior members right now. We are involved with a large show program. And we offer recognition for our juniors in the Junior All Pennsylvania Contest. We have county and state milk and fat contests. And we are taking a bus trip with juniors to the national convention in Milwaukee. We sponsor a dairy bowl contest each year at the state convention and the junior and senior winners represent us at the national convention. We also sponsor our distinguished junior member. And this program has been extremely successful.

Of course we have our own state convention separate from the adult convention. And we sponsor three judging schools each year to give young people a chance to brush up on judging or to learn what judging is all about. A new feature for the juniors in Pennsylvania and actually in the eastern United States this year will be at the Pennsylvania All-American and the Eastern National Holstein Show. For the first time ever we'll have a junior division that includes premiums. The Pennsylvania Holstein Association and the All-American are matching funds for nearly $2,000 in premiums to be offered for the junior show.

Q. Where do you see the dairy industry going in the next five years? And how does the holstein business fit into this progress?

A. Well there is no question that the interest that's been generated for dairy products with the 15 cent checkoff program will be continued. It's been so successful. Also to stay competitive our dairy farmers are going to need to increase efficiency. He must use his equipment more. Using expensive equipment four hours a day to milk cows isn't very cost effective. In industry they keep their expensive equipment working to turn a profit. Those who are going to be milking cows down the road are going to be milking more cows. If you milk 75 cows today, you will be milking 150 cows in the future. And those who are going to be in the cropping business will need to cover more acres, and may be raising feed for those who milk cows. We visited a dairy herd in Ohio while selected for the All-American sale. There a young man was responsible for 150 cows.

And he had a 22,000 pound herd average. It didn't look to us like anyone around there was worked to death. They were on a fast schedule but the cows were comfortable, the cows were feeding themselves out of an automatic feed bunk in a loose housing operating. And they had pens for cattle that were to be isolated. But it looked like a real efficient operation. And it was interesting to see those cows walking around in this kind of a atmosphere with the high rolling herd average. This shows it can be done.

Also in the Peoples Republic of China there is interest in the yogurt business. And if they start flavoring their yogurt, there is going to be demand for dairy products. We see new product development as essential. The industry needs to come up with things that will excite the public and have more consumer appeal. There is no reason why we can't produce products that are competitive on the international market as well as the domestic market.

In summary, we need on the one hand new products to stimulate consumer interest. And on the other hand a more efficient dairy operation down on the farm.

Q. And how do holstein cows fit into this program?

A. Well the holstein cow represent 90 percent of the dairy cow operation. She will maintain that position. We'd like to see a higher percentage of these holsteins registered. Of course there is interest in this country to recognize the outstanding unregistered cattle with a certificate. Whether this comes about or not is a decision the purebred industry will need to face. In Pennsylvania we are fortunate to have about 33 percent of our holsteins registered. We want to increase that number. The dairymen will need to look for alternate cash income besides milk and meat. With the registered offspring available for sale he has that built-in additional cash income potential. That will increase his net worth and give him more opportunities down the road.

ALFALFA TOPDRESS 5-10-41

An ideal fertilizer for

You can get the advantage of Ortho Unipel fertilizer
plus additional high quality Potash.

Alfalfa demands a lot of potash from soil and fertilizer. In fact, alfalfa removes four times more potash than phosphate from the soil. And that's what Rohrer's Alfalfa Topdress 5-10-41 provides, the proper 4:1 ratio of potash to phosphate that alfalfa needs along with quickly available nitrate nitrogen that can help stimulate regrowth after cutting. In addition to supplying the right nutrient package, Rohrer's Alfalfa Topdress 5-10-41 applies easily, quickly, and economically. Call us today at 299-2571 for a program recommendation.

Deppen Retires From Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK — Marion R. Deppen, regional agricultural program leader for the Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension Service, retired May 30 after more than 35 years of service to The Pennsylvania State University.

After graduating from Penn State in 1950, Deppen was named assistant county agriculture agent in Clinton and Lycoming counties. An active 4-H member in his native Dauphin County, Deppen enrolled at Penn State with the objective of becoming a county agent.

From 1953 to 1963 he was county agent in Montgomery County. In 1965 Deppen received a master of science degree from the University of Wisconsin, where his graduate work was funded by a Kellogg Foundation Fellowship for advanced study in agricultural extension administration.

Until 1973 he was assistant director for the 13-county Southeast Region and from 1973 to 1983 was regional assistant director for the Extension Service's eight-county Capital Region. When that region was expanded to cover 16 counties, Deppen took on his most recent assignment.

In addition to his regional administrative responsibilities, Deppen provided primary leadership in developing the Pennsylvania Management Information System, which is used by the Extension Service in program planning, program management and reporting accomplishments.

In cooperation with Pennsylvania Farmer magazine, Deppen coordinated the Master Farmer program involving Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia. He serves as secretary-treasurer and executive officer for the Master Farmer Association of Pennsylvania, a duty he will retain in retirement.

"The ultimate Extension accomplishment," says Deppen, reflecting on his 35 years, "is its ability to recognize, implement and orchestrate several types of resources to effect change in critical areas. What really makes Extension work is the bonds that develop between clientele and agents."

A concern for rural water quality led Deppen last year to work for a $362,000 federal grant to educate farmers in the upper Conestoga watershed of Lancaster and Berks counties about the efficient use of crop nutrients. "We know that too much manure and fertilizer are being used in that watershed and that excess reduces the quality of surface water and ground water," says Deppen.

The community-based program is part of the USDA's Rural Clean Water Program and complements local, state and federal efforts to reduce pollution of Chesapeake Bay. This pilot approach in the Conestoga is being watched nationally.

Active in many professional and community organizations, Deppen has served as president of the Penn State chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta, the honor society of agriculture. He was president of State College Kiwanis in 1981, and was chairman of Pennsylvania Farm-City Week Committee in 1988 and 1989.

In 1988 Deppen was one of three Extension employees in the United States to receive the U.S. Department of Agriculture Cost Reduction Award, which was presented personally by President Lyndon B. Johnson. Deppen was recognized for the cost reductions effected through the computerizing of the Extension Management Information System.

Deppen and his wife, the former Winabelle Bonawitz of Berksburg, plan to garden and travel. The couple have four children, all of whom are Penn State graduates. David is an architect in San Francisco; Mary Beth is a homemaker in Lancaster; Sandra is a nutritionist in Frederick, Maryland; and Robert is a physical therapist specializing in sports medicine in Erie.

Case International 85 Series Tractors

Choose from 14 different ways to get your work done right

You can fit your needs exactly with an 85 Series tractor because you choose from four horsepower ranges, in row crop, utility, low-profile, and mechanical front drive models. That's why 85 Series tractors fit so well into any type or size of operation. Dairy, beef, row crops, small grain, orchards and vineyards - small acreages or big spreads. These tractors produce in a big way in so many ways on so many farms.

With their high-torque power and efficient transmissions, they'll never get "lost" in a big field. And their compact size allows them to work in tight quarters that are off limits to larger units. Get one and you'll use it more days per year than any other tractor you own.

Making Your Own Dairy Products Can Be A Fun Challenge

BY SALLY BAIR

Lancaster Co. Correspondent

LANCASTER — During the entire month of June, attention is focused on dairy products. A wide variety of tasty products is available in the dairy case at your local supermarket, but for those of you who are more adventurous, it may be a good time to try making your own yogurt or sour cream.

Sidney E. Barnard, professor of food science extension at The Pennsylvania State University, says that making your own dairy products can bring a lot of satisfaction. He continues, however, that, in general, making your own is not as economical as purchasing the finished product.

Furthermore, he notes, "The product will not be the same as that purchased in a supermarket, because home processors cannot homogenize.

Nevertheless, anyone wishing to try making their own products should consider it a challenge, and proceed with proper caution.

The most important consideration for dairymen using their own milk is that it is extremely important to pasteurize the milk before using it in a recipe. Barnard said this step will prevent any problems with salmonella poisoning.

Home pasteurizers are available, but a double boiler arrangement can also be used. The easiest method is to heat the milk to 161 degrees and hold it for 15 seconds, then cool it to 86 to 88 degrees as quickly as possible. An accurate stainless steel thermometer must be used, and the milk must not be heated beyond 165 degrees, or the curds will shatter.

Yogurt is a good product to try at home, though results may not be the same each time, and probably will not be the same as yogurt you purchase in a supermarket. Minimum equipment is needed, and ingredients are easily available.

Necessary equipment includes canning jars, a canner or double boiler, stirrer and a bowl or cabinet for maintaining proper temperature. It is important to be able to maintain a temperature from 100 to 115 degrees, and this can be done by placing a light bulb in a box, or by purchasing a commercial incubator.

Whole raw milk or nonfat powdered milk can be used as well as pasteurized whole milk. Water used must be free of spoilage bacteria. Canned evaporated milk can be used, reconstituted with pure water.

You will have to either purchase special bacterial cultures or buy fresh, plain yogurt which has not been pasteurized after culturing so there are live bacteria. Two strains of bacteria, Lactobacillus bulgaricus and Streptococcus thermophilus, are necessary in equal quantities for proper flavor and texture, and can be purchased from health food stores. They are already present in purchased yogurt.

If you plan to use raw milk and intend to keep the yogurt a few days, heat treatment should be used. Heat the milk in a double boiler or directly in the canning jars in a canner to at least 180 degrees and hold for 15 minutes. Do not exceed 190 degrees and do not boil the milk!

The milk must then be cooled to 100 to 115 degrees, by leaving at room temperature or placing in a controlled temperature box.

If using commercial yogurt, an 8-ounce container will set a quart of milk. A commercial culture will give better results, but is more expensive. Two to three tablespoons of culture per quart will cause the milk to set in about 6 to 10 hours, and it must be stirred thoroughly after adding the culture.

The necessary bacteria will not grow below 100 degrees and they will be inactivated above 120, causing the yogurt not to set. Once set, the yogurt should be cooled to 40 degrees or below. Cooling can be done by setting the jar in ice water. Just cooling in a refrigerator is slow and will cause whey to appear. The taste will also be tangier with the slower refrigerator cooling.

Yogurt should be stored covered to prevent off flavors from developing, and should be at 40 degrees or below.

Of course, fresh or frozen fruits or preserves can be added.

Yogurt, plain, is low in calories and highly nutritious. It can be used as a snack, in salad dressings and in cooking.

Buttermilk and sour cream are also other cultured products that can be made at home with a minimum of work and equipment. For both these the Streptococcus lactis bacteria is necessary and can be purchased or obtained by buying fresh buttermilk where they are present. The growth of the

Cream or skim milk can be used, but must be pasteurized. The milk should be heated to 185 degrees in a double boiler to kill all bacteria and spores, then cooled to 72 degrees prior to adding the helpful bacteria.

To make sour cream you can mix heavy cream and whole milk in about equal parts.

The active Streptococcus bacteria is either transferred from the culture or from fresh buttermilk to the pasteurized milk under almost sterile conditions. After two days, the bacterial activity decreases sharply, so transferring must be done two to three times each week.

When working with the product, use only clean and sanitized jars, spoons and ladles to handle the milk and cultures, otherwise undesirable bacteria will contaminate the skim milk or cream.

The skim milk or cream must be at 72 degrees or slightly above. Add about one-half cup of bacterial culture or commercial buttermilk to each quart of skim milk or cream. Mix the combination for about two to three minutes. If a screw-topped jar is used, shake it at least five times every 20 minutes during the first hour.

A thickened body and desirable flavor should develop in about 16 hours. Standing at room temperature for more than 24 hours will cause spoilage.

It is important to keep in mind that the product you make will not be as thick and stable as commercial products.

Once the buttermilk or sour cream has reached an accepted thickness, refrigerate it and keep it cold. It will be best if used within two days.

Fresh buttermilk must be used within two days to culture another batch, and it can be done up to 10 times. After that it becomes contaminated with undesirable bacteria. Buttermilk and sour cream cannot be frozen or the whey will separate after thawing.

Whey will continue to separate from the sour cream, and this can simply be poured off before using.

If you prefer to use cultures rather than fresh yogurt or buttermilk, and cannot find a source of bacterial cultures, they can be purchased frozen or freeze dried from the following: Hansen's Laboratory, 9015 W. Maple Street, Milwaukee, WI 53214; Marshall Laboratories, P.O. Box 592, Madison, WI 53701; Microlife Technics, 1833 57th Street, Box 3917, Sarasota, FL 33578.

There may be other laboratories available with the cultures to help you get started in this do-it-yourself project.

Producers of goat's milk have been making products using that milk for years, since they often have an unsteady supply and must use the milk they have available.

Cleanliness and pasteurization is also important to making goat's milk cheese.

Rennet and a good starter or fresh, high quality buttermilk is necessary to make hard goat's milk cheese.

To begin, heat the sweet, whole goat's milk in a pan to 86 degrees to 88 degrees. Add one percent starter or good quality buttermilk and stir for two to three minutes. Add rennet at a rate of 25 drops to each gallon of milk. The rennet must be diluted in one-half cupful of clean tap water. Stir the rennet into the milk and allow the milk to set at 86 degrees to 88 degrees until a firm curd forms, which usually takes about 30 minutes. The curd is ready to cut when it breaks clean over a finger inserted into the curd at an angle and lifted slowly.

The curd must be cut into squares vertically about one inch on a side with a long blade knife. The curd is then cut into cubes, cutting horizontally with stiff bent wire. When cutting is completed, the curd particles should be uniformly cube-shaped about one inch in size.

The temperature of the curd should be slowly raised to about 98 to 100 degrees within one hour. Stir the curd very slowly at the beginning with a spatula so as not to break up the curd. During the heating, the curd should be stirred frequently enough to maintain an even temperature and to prevent the pieces of curd from sticking together. With a knife, cut any pieces of curd that are very large, keeping the curd particles as uniform in size as possible to promote even heating.

When the curd reaches desired firmness, it will tend to stick together. Then it should be poured into a muslin cloth or bag and

Try These Flavored Yogurt Recipes

These recipes for flavored yogurt were kitchen-tested by the American Dairy Association:

Apple-Raisin Yogurt

Place 3 tablespoons chopped, unpeeled apple, 1 tablespoon chopped raisins and 1 teaspoon sugar in the bottom of individual yogurt container. Fill with the warm milk/starter mixture to within ½ inch of top. Cover and incubate.

Pineapple-Carrot Yogurt

Place 1 tablespoon each drained crushed pineapple and shredded raw carrot in individual yogurt containers. Fill with warm milk/starter mixture to within ½ inch of top. Cover and incubate.

Maple-Nut Yogurt

Place ¼ teaspoon maple extract and 1 tablespoon chopped walnuts in individual yogurt containers. Fill with warm milk/starter mixture to within ½ inch of top. Cover and incubate.

Yogurt Cream Cheese

1 quart whole milk yogurt or lowfat milk yogurt
1/8 teaspoon salt

Line a colander or large sieve with 4 layers of white paper towels. Place yogurt in colander. Cover with 4 more layers of paper towels. Place colander over bowl at least 2 inches deep. Refrigerate at least 8 to 10 hours. As liquid drains, yogurt develops a soft, cream cheese-like consistency. Carefully remove yogurt from paper towels. Place in container; sprinkle with salt. Mix well. Store, covered, in refrigerator up to three weeks. Will yield 1½ cups.

Nicole Bushong enjoys a dish of cooling yogurt as she relaxes on her family's dairy farm near Columbia. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bushong, Nicole takes her snack as she does some summer reading.

The boots nobody else can make.

SuperSole Red Wings—They'll last longer and feel better than any other boots you can buy.

We make the uppers the way we make all our best boots. With a lot of skill. And with water-repellent leather so good it's worth more than the whole selling price of some boots. Then we stitch a welt all the way around. So they'll fit as well when they're old as when they're new. But what's special is the way we attach the sole. Instead of stitching or gluing it on, we mold it right onto the welt. So the upper and sole become one inseparable unit. And the process gives SuperSoles a skin that wears like iron—while the inside stays as soft as cushion-crepe. Some day, other boots may be made this way. But they still won't fit and feel like Red Wings! Get the feel of SuperSole Red Wings. They're at Red Wing dealers now.

The SuperSole Secret

is Red Wing's exclusive process that permanently molds the welted leather upper and the sole into a single, inseparable unit—and gives the sole its tough outer skin over a cushion-soft inside.

formed into a ball. Allow the ball to hang until all the free whey has dripped away, about two to three hours. After draining, remove the cloth from the curd ball, and place the ball on a cheese cloth folded over three or four times. Fold a long cloth the size of a dish cloth into a bandage about three inches wide and wrap it tightly around the ball of curd. Pin this cloth in place. Work the cheese at the top of the ball with your hands until it is perfectly smooth with no cracks extending into the center of the cheese.

Lay a piece of wet cloth over the top of the cheese; place a flat plate over the cloth and weight the plate with a flatiron or a brick. You may find that the weight is likely to fall to one side, causing an uneven cheese. This can be avoided by making a simple cheese press by sandwiching the cheese between two pieces of lean board. The round wheels of cheese should not be more than six inches across, otherwise there will be a tendency for the cheese to become dry. At night turn the cheese over and replace the weight. Allow the cheese to remain in the press undisturbed until the following morning.

The next day, remove the cloths from the cheese and place in a cool place. Turn twice each day for about three days or until a rind forms. After this time rub a tablespoon of salt each day for two successive days. Following salting, rub the cheese with a small amount of clear mineral oil for two days, then rub the cheese daily until the rind is very firm. After this, it should be necessary to rub the cheese only about twice a week to prevent drying and to prevent mold growth. The cheese should be ready to eat in about eight weeks.

These directions may give you a start in making some dairy products at home. Remember, they may not taste the same or look the same as the commercial product, but you will have the satisfaction of creating your own product.

FFA Receives Farm Aid Grant

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Thanks to the efforts of Willie Nelson and Farm Aid, college freshmen from family farm backgrounds will have their tuition supplemented for three years by a $300,000 scholarship endowment and $30,000 cash grant made to the Future Farmers of America.

The endowment will yield an annual grant of approximately $30,000 to be distributed in the form of three-year scholarships of $3,000 each to FFA members who demonstrate financial need. Applicants must be enrolled in a program of agricultural studies, preferably leading to careers in agricultural production and a possible return to the family farm.

The grants to FFA are being made available through the National FFA Foundation, by Farm Aid.

"Farm Aid is pleased to be able to support FFA programs and to help continue the tradition of the family farm," said Willie Nelson is announcing the grant.

"These scholarships come at a critical time for agriculture," said Coleman Harris, National FFA executive secretary. "College enrollments are down dramatically in agricultural studies and a severe manpower shortage at all levels of the industry is in the making. The Farm Aid grants will help address and generate awareness of this serious problem."

Joyce Bupp

Few things have had a more profound effect on agriculture - indeed on the progress of civilization - than has the continuing improvement of production techniques.

Cropping as we know it, for instance, likely began with crude pointed sticks poking holes in ground for meager grains carefully hoarded from a precious winter's food supply. A steel-tipped, horse-drawn plow that broke virgin prairie sods brought a new dawn of efficiency. And today, no-till has turned a tide of sorts, as we disturb fields and mulch covers as little as possible, to conserve soil and hold moisture.

Livestock research has wrought equal high-tech wonders. Beef and hogs fatten faster and leaner, in climactically-controlled environments. One cow in a day pumps out what it took a dozen to produce not all that many years ago. And the gee-whiz, sci-fi lab dreams of cloning, genetic manipulation and built-in disease and pest resistance are becoming the norm.

Still, if you take all the scientists, all the economists, all the computer information networks and throw them in a room together, not one can really affect the one thing that basically makes or breaks the food and fiber industry.

Show me an ag secretary, show me an extension specialist, show me a USDA researcher, show me a grant writer, who can make it rain.

Rain. Too little. Or too much. Too early. Or too late.

This year, with its extremes of rain and lack of it, and extremes of temperatures, has made us even more aware than usual of the whims of the weather. For, in spite of the marvelous technological progress the world's agriculture has seen, we have yet to be able to control the weather - or effectively regulate rainfall.

Rain continues to be the topic which begins and ends most farm conversations these days. In fact, it's blocked out just about every other subject. Except for griping about the government, of course.

Here, we've been lamenting the lack of moisture, with corn showing a slight yellowish tint of stress, and some alfalfa hay going into second-cutting bloom with a mere ten-inches or so of growth.

Then, our paths cross with friends to the south, who watched storms which did bring us an occasional half-inch but blew right by them. Such storm winds left only parched soils and thirsty hay fields gasping even more for water.

And another friend stokes up our envy with a tale of four inches of rain. Sinful coveting of that moisture turns to sympathy as the tale continues.

Seems the four inches came in just minutes, effectively washing a considerable portion of the neighbor's newly-planted soybean field into our friends' meadow pasture - and taking out part of the fence as it went.

Rain. Too much. And too little.

Surely, those early, ancestral farmers who nurtured their meager crops, planted in holes poked with sticks, were just as awed - and frustrated - by the same uncontrollable destinies which bring rain to here and none to there.

We'll continue to be boggled and impressed by ag technologies that promise to be just down the road. But, in the end, when it comes down to simple, plain, ordinary - and precious - rain, our ultimate fate is not in our hands, but His.

Perhaps we just need to be reminded occasionally that Prayer should take precedence over Production.

Flavorful Dairy Ingredients Produce Nutritious Meals

If nutritious, flavorful ingredients are a must in the foods you prepare for your family, then this week's dairy dinner recipes will suit your taste.

Made with fresh, calcium-packed cheese, milk, butter, sour cream, ice cream and other dairy products, these dairy dishes will help your family enjoy meeting their daily requirement of calcium.

The following recipes come from the files of Lancaster Farming readers who generously shared their families' favorites with you.

And, while you're testing out a few of this week's dairy recipes, check your own files for a pudding or custard recipe you can share during dairy month. You still have time to send your recipe and collect a gift from Lancaster Farming.

FYQ BREAD

½ cup dried apricots, chopped fine
½ cup raisins
½ cup maraschino cherries, chopped fine
2 cups flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 large eggs, beaten
1 cup low-fat yogurt
10 tablespoons butter, melted
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract

Grease and flour a 9x5-inch loaf pan. Preheat oven to 350°F. Mix chopped fruits with ¼ cup of the flour and set aside. Sift dry ingredients and set aside. Place beaten eggs in a bowl. Stir in yogurt, melted butter, sugar and almond extract. Stir in chopped fruit. Stir in dry ingredients until just blended. Pour into prepared loaf pan and bake at 350°F. for 55 to 60 minutes or until done.

SOUR CREAM POTATOES

5 pounds cooked potatoes, peeled
6 ounces cream cheese
1 cup sour cream
2 teaspoons diced onions
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mash potatoes and add ¼ cup milk. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Put in greased casserole and dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake at 350°F. for ½ hour. Serves 10 to 12.

STUFFED SHELLS

Cook one package of jumbo shells according to package directions. Cool and stuff with the following cheese mixture.

Cheese Filling:

2 cups cottage cheese
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
1 egg
2 tablespoons parsley flakes

Mix with electric mixer. Pour the following sauce over shells in baking pan or crock pot.

Sauce:

1 29-ounce can tomato puree
1 6-ounce can tomato paste
1 onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon oregano
1 tablespoon olive oil

Brown onion. Add remaining ingredients, simmer and stir until everything is well mixed. If using oven method, put shells in baking dish and cover with sauce. Bake at 350°F. for 35 minutes. If using crock pot, put shells in pot and cover with sauce. Cook on medium for about 3 hours or until shells are thoroughly heated. You can add meatballs if you'd like!

TUNA NOODLE CRISPY

½ pound Velveeta cheese, cubed
½ cup milk
1 can cream of mushroom soup
2 cups cooked noodles
1 6½-ounce can tuna
Dash of pepper
½ cup crushed crackers
2 teaspoons melted butter

Heat cheese, soup, and milk over low heat. Stir until smooth. Add noodles, tuna and pepper; mix well. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Top with crackers tossed with butter. Bake 30 minutes.

SOUR CREAM BEEFBURGERS

1½ pounds ground beef
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon chopped onion
Mix together, then add the following:

1½ cups crushed cornflakes or bread crumbs.

Form into patties. Broil for 5 minutes; turn and broil for 3 more minutes. Makes 10 to 12 burgers.

Chicken in a shell is a novel main dish that combines crisp chicken salad with jumbo pasta shells in an economical dairy recipe.

CHICKEN STUFFED SHELLS

3 cups cooked diced chicken
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup thinly sliced radishes
½ cup toasted slivered almonds
½ cup chopped green onion
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 10-ounce package jumbo pasta shells for stuffing
Lettuce, if desired

Combine chicken, celery, cheese, radishes, almonds and onion in large mixing bowl. Combine sour cream, mustard and seasonings. Stir sour cream mixture into chicken mixture. Chill, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. Meanwhile, cook pasta shells according to package directions; drain. Place cooked shells in large bowl of cold water until ready to fill. To serve, drain shells; pat dry with paper toweling. Fill with chicken mixture. Serve 3 or 4 shells per person on lettuce-lined plate.

RIVEL SOUP

1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg

Mix salt with flour, then toss egg lightly through flour with fork until small crumbs form. Stir into 1 quart of scalding whole milk. Bring to a boil and serve at once.

EASY ENCHILADA CASSEROLE

1 package corn chips, broken
2 pounds hamburger
1 large can enchilada sauce
1 large onion, chopped
2 cups shredded cheese
Pepper to taste
1 tablespoon each oregano, salt, cumin and garlic powder, if desired

Brown hamburger and onion. Add seasonings. Add sauce and soup. Place ½ package corn chips, meat mixture and cheese in buttered casserole. Repeat with the other half of ingredients. Bake at 325°F. for 15 to 30 minutes or until bubbly.

Leah Peachey

SPAGHETTI PIE

6 ounces spaghetti
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 well-beaten eggs
1 cup cottage cheese
1 pound ground beef or bulk pork sausage
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 8-ounce can (1 cup) cut up tomatoes
1 6-ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon oregano
½ cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
½ teaspoon garlic salt

Cook the spaghetti according to package directions; drain (should have about 3 cups). Stir butter into hot mixture; stir in Parmesan cheese and eggs. Form this mixture into a "crust" in a buttered 10-inch pie plate. Spread cottage cheese over bottom of spaghetti crust.

In skillet, cook ground beef, onions and green peppers until meat is browned. Drain off excess fat. Stir in undrained tomatoes, tomato paste, sugar, oregano and garlic salt. Heat through. Turn meat mixture into spaghetti crust. Bake, uncovered, in 350°F. oven for 20 minutes. Sprinkle top with Mozzarella cheese and bake 5 minutes longer.

OYSTER STEW

¼ cup butter
1 quart oysters, drained
2 cups milk, warmed
2 cups of light cream, warmed
Salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon paprika

Melt the butter and saute oysters until edges curl. Add remaining ingredients and heat almost to boiling. Serve with oyster crackers. Serves 4.

SPINACH COTTAGE CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 quart raw spinach
1 cup cottage cheese
3 green onions, sliced thin
½ cup peanuts, unsalted are best
Pepper and salt to taste
1 small tomato, chopped (optional)

Wash spinach leaves, drain well and chill. Measure spinach after chilling.

In large serving bowl, tear spinach into bite-sized pieces. Add onions, cottage cheese, peanuts, tomato, if desired, and pepper and salt. Toss lightly and serve 4.

Note: lettuce or other greens may be used with or substituted for spinach.

Garden Fresh Vegetables

Featured Recipe

If you still have a few strawberries left in your garden, here's a sumptuous recipe that combines their goodness with creamy dairy cream cheese and whipping cream.

The featured recipe this week comes from Judy Pruitt of White Post, Va., who says her recipe won fifth honorable mention in last year's Virginia Dairyman's recipe contest. She also used it as a 4-H demonstration and took it to state competition in Blacksburg, Va. Thanks for sharing this luscious dairy recipe Judy!

Simple-n-Sumptuous Strawberry Pie

2½ cups fresh or frozen strawberries, mashed
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 ounces cream cheese, creamed
14 ounces sweetened condensed milk
1 cup whipping cream

Mix strawberries, lemon juice, cream cheese and milk together. Then whip the cream and fold into berry mixture. Pour into Toasted Coconut Crust. Freeze 4 hours. Garnish with sliced berries.

Toasted Coconut Crust

Toast 2 cups coconut. Melt 1/3 cup butter. Mix together, press into pie pan. Chill 15 minutes. Pour berry mixture in. Return any leftover pie to freezer.

QUESTION - Shirley Verity, Pittstown, N.J., would like a recipe for bread pudding like the Duff's Smorgasbord Restaurants make in Florida. It has whole slices of white bread, raisins and eggs, but not too much custard bottom. It has a thin custard topping with cinnamon sprinkled on top. She would also like a recipe for moist bread dressing to use for a church turkey supper to serve 200 to 250 people. It is not stuffed in the turkeys.

QUESTION - Anne Nolt, Reinholds, would like a recipe for thick and chewy pizza.

QUESTION - Barbara Gougler, Covington, would like recipes made with Nutri-Sweet. She is especially interested in recipes for cakes and desserts.

QUESTION - Mrs. Charles Shively, Newville, would like a recipe for soft molasses oatmeal cookies.

ANSWER - Mrs. Samuel Fisher, Ronks, requested recipes for corn chips. Thanks go to Mrs. Norman Brown, Clementon, N.J., for her fried version of corn chips, and to Mrs. John A. Nolt, Reinholds, for her baked corn chips.

Corn Chips

- 2 cups cornmeal
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup bread flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 large egg, well beaten
- 1 rounded tablespoon butter or lard
- Pepper to taste
- Taco spices, optional

Scald the cornmeal with boiling water, stir to make moderately stiff mush. Gradually stir in the flour sifted with the baking powder and salt; mix well. Beat in egg and lard or butter. Roll out on floured board as thinly as possible (will not work in noodle roller!) Cut with pastry cutter to desired size (thin or wide). Shake off excess flour before frying. Deep fry in oil at 375°F until golden brown. Drain on brown paper. Salt while hot.

Note: We usually get permission to glean corn fields and then grind the corn, put it in bags and freeze for future use. Corn chips in winter are a family affair!

Corn Chips

- Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine in mixing bowl
- 1 cup yellow cornmeal
- ⅔ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 tablespoons dry milk solids
- Stir together in separate bowl
- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup oil
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon Tabasco sauce

Add liquids to dry mixture and stir with fork. Knead a little until smooth. Grease two cookie sheets (10x15 inches) and sprinkle each with cornmeal. Divide dough in half. Roll out each half directly onto cookie sheet with floured rolling pin, rolling dime thin. Sprinkle lightly with paprika, garlic, onion or seasoned salt. Run rolling pin over once more. Prick with fork. Cut in squares or triangles. Bake 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

CHICKEN NOODLE PILAF

- ¼ cup butter, melted
- ¾ cup onion
- 1 cup celery, optional
- 1 cup raw rice
- 1 envelope chicken noodle soup
- 2½ cups water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- Melt butter in skillet, chop onion and celery. Sauté with rice until rice is golden brown. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Remove from heat and let stand covered for 10 minutes. Fluff with fork. Delicious with fried chicken and very easy to make.

ANSWER - Joan Young, Lititz, requested a recipe for French Bread Pizza. Thanks go to Laura Boyer, Spring Grove, for the following recipe.

French Bread Pizza

- 1 long loaf of French bread
- 1 pound hamburger, lightly browned
- 1 14-ounce jar pizza sauce
- 3 cups shredded mozzarella cheese

Cut bread into 3 pieces. Split each piece in half, making 6 total pieces. Spread with pizza sauce, hamburger and top with shredded cheese. Bake at 350°F until cheese is melted. Sausage and pepperoni also make excellent toppings.

BAKED BROCCOLI

- ¼ cup onion
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 1½ tablespoons flour
- ¾ cup milk
- ½ cup cheese, shredded
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 2 cups cooked, chopped broccoli
- Sauté onions in butter until tender. Add flour and milk; cook until thick. Remove from heat. Add cheese and eggs. Cook broccoli for a few minutes with salt. Drain. Add to mixture. Pour into baking dish and sprinkle bread crumbs on top. Bake 45 minutes at 350°F.

Pauline M. Martin
Mauganville, Md.

BAKED DRIED CORN

- 1 cup dried corn
- 3 cups milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 eggs

Soak corn in milk one hour. Put all ingredients in blender and blend one minute, or until fine. Put in greased casserole and bake 45 minutes at 350°F. Dot with butter.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As one gets older it seems that there is a tendency to slow down. If there is an easier way to do a job, that is the way it is done. You make one "bend-down" do for two "pick-ups."

I've been doing a lot of pick-ups recently. In three days I picked some 50 quarts of sugar peas and lots of tiny strawberries. The earlier dry weather seemed to affect their size. As they were too small to sell, I had lots to stem and freeze and make into jam.

When people come here to buy peas for freezing, I usually send them away with fresh dill and a small bouquet of flowers. But I am surprised that they refuse any plants that will make work for them. They don't want annuals that must be replanted next year. They don't want gladiolus bulbs, dahlia tubers or lily bulbs as they must be taken inside during winter months. Now, I don't feel that way as yet. My lily bulbs take over 100 feet of row and must all be dug and I enjoy doing it. Maybe my feeling is that you don't have anything worthwhile without some effort.

So many of my garden things had to be replanted this year. The soybeans did not come up very well and the popcorn did even worse. They were both from seed that I'd grown last year. But, I do believe that all of the peanuts came up.

I suppose that as time goes by I too will have to make adjustments. And eventually, when I push my arm through a sleeve, I will see my mother's hand come out. I'm hoping it won't be too hard for me to accept all of this gracefully.

Dairy Judge To Address 4-H Overnighter

MERCER — Jim Lewis, a highly-regarded dairy judge and Holstein breeder from Orient, Ohio, will be the featured speaker at the Northwest Pennsylvania Regional 4-H Dairy Overnighter July 2 and 3 at the Mercer County 4-H Park.

Lewis has judged the Eastern and Western National Holstein Shows in past years. He served on Holstein World's all-American panel for 20 years and was an official judge for the Hoard's Dairyman judging contest. He was a director of the National Holstein Association for eight years. Currently, Lewis is vice-president of the Ohio Agricultural Finance Commission.

Jim and his son, Dick, own and operate a 310-acre Holstein farm in Pickaway County, Ohio. Their DHIR herd average is 21,700 pounds of milk and 827 pounds fat. The herd is classified with a BAA of 108.9 and 20 Excellent cows.

The two-day event also offers in-depth training on dairy business promotional skills, dairy careers, judging, record keeping, pedigree reading and show and sale ring skills.

Also included will be clipping, showing, leading and washing demonstrations. All dairy 4-H'ers from the Northwest District are invited to attend.

In addition to Lewis, other speakers will be local dairymen, extension agents, and dairy princesses.

Fun activities include a mock sale, promotional skits, games, and a rail bird judging contest for 4-H'ers and their parents. A potluck picnic for 4-H'ers, friends and family will conclude the event.

South Mountain 4-H Community Club

Planning a booth for the upcoming Lebanon Area Fair topped the list of items South Mountain 4-H Community Club members discussed during a meeting June 10.

A list of ideas for the booth at the fair was read and discussed. Ellen Hanson was appointed chairman for a petting zoo and picture-taking at the booth. Other ideas included face painting and water pistol shooting.

The club is planning a swimming party for June or July. Further details were be finalized at the next meeting.

Angela Hoover was appointed chairman for the Chicken and Ham Barbecue. Ticket sales will be July 27 and 29.

Alan Auman gave information about the volleyball tournament which Teen Council is organizing. The entry fee will be 50 cents per person. Teams may have no more than 10 members.

Have You Heard?

Summertime Rules Are Necessary

School is over for another year and children are beginning summer filled with ideas of many things to do. But as summer wears on, many youngsters wear down and some parents wear out.

During the summer months we need to remind ourselves that even though it is summer, our children need continual limits or rules. Granted, some of the rules that are in effect during the school months may change or be altered, but others will not, or at least should not be.

Summer is a time for more relaxed activities, more swimming, ball playing and general horsing around. Some children may get the idea that summer is also the time for a relaxation of rules. However, children of all ages need some lines drawn around their behavior.

Rules mean a sense of security to the growing child. Rules also help the child learn to live a responsible life.

I know of one father and mother who had a very good suggestion about summer rules. They sat down with their two children, ages 12 and 15, and discussed the whole question of rules and particularly the rules that concerned such things as the swimming pool, observing time (for meals, bedtime, etc.), where to go in the community and what to do.

The parents discovered a great deal about what their children were thinking and planning. Together they talked about summer activities and what would be reasonable in terms of rules. Most importantly, they talked about and agreed upon what would happen if a rule was broken. Each person knew what was expected.

In this family, when the summer was over, the greatest testimonial to the parent's interest was given by the oldest child. He said that the past summer was the best he had ever had.

That didn't mean he did not break any rules. The time he returned home late from the pool he was not allowed to go swimming the next day. But this did not overshadow the time his parents took to discuss the rules and consequences before the summer started.

Older children are capable of and can learn a great deal by sitting down from time to time and discussing the rules they should abide by. They also learn what will happen if they break a rule.

As summer begins this year, you might, if you have not already done so, sit down with your children and talk about summer activities, rules and consequences.

PFA to Sponsor Statewide Ladies Day Out

CAMP HILL — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association is inviting women from all across Pennsylvania — not just farm wives — to PFA's first statewide Ladies Day Out. The event will take place July 9 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona.

Featured speaker at the Ladies' Day Out will be world renowned radio and television personality Virginia Graham. She will present an address entitled, "Remember, The Choice Is Ours."

Virginia Graham is also the largest fund raiser for charities in America today, having raised millions of dollars for the American Cancer Society. In 1965 she was voted one of the 10 most respected women in the world.

Also addressing the Ladies Day Out will be Marsha Purcell, director of American Farm Bureau Federation's Women's Program. She will discuss women's role in farm organizations. Entertainment, group singing and a buffet lunch are included in the Ladies Day Out agenda.

Tickets are available at $15 per person only in advance from your local county farmers' association or from the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. Deadline for reservations is June 25.

READ WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT LOSING WEIGHT:

Prominent physicians from all over the country have something to say about effective weight loss and Herbalife. The following quotes have been voluntarily submitted to Herbalife and authorized for use without compensation or fee.

"My patients have lost weight on Herbalife—without complications"

Richard L. Basford M.D.
General Practitioner
—Berwyn Hills, CA

I believe in Herbalife and highly recommend it, because it has worked wonders for many of my patients. Most other diet programs are destructive because they are addictive."

William Bernard M.D.
Specialist in Family Practice & Addictology —Lafayette, LA

Herbalife products provide the nutrition necessary for wellness and the mechanism for weight control (loss or gain) for those people who wish to improve themselves physically."

Irving M. Blatt M.D.
Endocrinologist, Chairman of Endocrinology
—Lakeside II, CA

"At first I was skeptical about Herbalife, as I am about most weight loss programs. I tested it myself, lost 32 pounds, and recently started several patients on Herbalife. They started to see results almost immediately."

James F. Bradley Jr. M.D.
Vascular & Endocrinology
—Fresno, CA

"I recommend Herbalife to my patients and have seen fantastic results. I also feel the nutritional benefits of Herbalife products are wonderful."

John E. Campbell M.D. P.A.
R and D Director
Alabama Poison Control Center
—Opelika, AL

"My feeling and opinion is that Herbalife products are safe and effective as recommended for use as a weight control program, that it is properly structured and has the appropriate nutrients for the general population."

James W. DeRuiter M.D.
Obstetric & Gynecology
Cult Coast Community Hospital
—Panama City, FL

"I recommend Herbalife products to my patients because it helps them lose weight and feel good. They've seen the weight I lost on Herbalife and they want to get on the same program."

Nan Faye M.D.
Family Practice
—Rochester, NY

"Many of my patients have lost considerable weight, and as a result of good sound, basic nutrition they also feel well, seem to have more energy and get-up-and-go."

Severo K. Guerrero Jr. M.D. ABFP FAAP
Past Chairman Department of Family Practice
University of Illinois at Chicago
—Chicago, IL

I have a definite place in my practice for Herbalife and I use it effectively along with other tools. I am excited that I can use it to help my patients realize greater health. Herbalife is safe. I use it myself, and I have a lot of patients on these products."

Helmut K. Herwisch M.D.
Endocrinology & Metabolism
—Middletown, NJ

"Several of my patients are using Herbalife with 100% satisfaction. I have seen no adverse effects even in people with multiple medical problems. I believe Herbalife products will be universally accepted as the ultimate in health nutrition supplements."

Charles I. Harewood M.D. DFP FAAP
Family Practice
—Brooklyn, NY

I have found Herbalife products to be an effective safe and scientifically proven treatment alternative in my practice. Herbalife should be the physician's No. 1 choice for weight loss and preventive nutrition."

Richard A. Joseph M.D.
Emergency Medicine & Family Practice
—Naperville, IL

"Several of my patients have failed on many other diets, but I have found they achieved their weight loss goals on Herbalife. I recommend it for weight loss and nutrition."

Edmund J. King M.D.
Medical Consultant for the Social Security Bureau of Disability for the State of Connecticut
—Hartford, CT

"The Herbalife weight control program has been ideal for my patients. From everything I have seen I can assure you Herbalife is effective, well-balanced, filling and energizing."

Roy Kupsel M.D.
Preventive Medicine & Health Care
—Oviedo, FL

"My patients comment how much healthier they feel since taking Herbalife. I would much rather have my patients on herbs than diuretics or amphetamines. They do better and are able to maintain their weight loss. Many have tried all kinds of diets and none has been as effective as Herbalife."

Donald Long M.D.

THE MICRO WAY LANI BLOOMER

A Remedial Microwave Class!

How did you do on the microwave test last week? For those of you who flunked that test (or anyone whose rolls could challenge the toughest tire, whose microwaved meat is fit for hiking boots, whose hot dogs are bullets, whose sweet rolls are frizbees, or whose buns are soggy), help is here! Read on...

Today I want to look at three common problems and their remedies: dried out food, soggy food, and oven power. These are the problems I am asked about most often.

Almost all the "disasters" people ask me about are related to overcooking the food. Any food that is hard, dry, tough, rubbery, stringy, or has hard spots in parts of it, is overcooked. (Now, read that last sentence again, outloud!)

Overcooking is caused in two ways. First, you cooked it too long! When you are given a time range in a recipe, always start with the shortest time given. Or, if you have smaller quantities than a recipe, use less time. You can microwave food a little longer if it's not hot or done. But you can't uncook it if it's overdone!

Remember, food cooks a little more after you take it out of the oven (during standing time). Undercook things just a little bit. Don't add any more cooking time until after the standing time has been allowed.

Most food that's cooked too long will turn hard, dry, etc. during the standing time. So, cook it less and let it stand!

The second kind of overcooking occurs when you try to cook food too fast. Usually this happens when you're in a hurry and use high power! When food is microwaved at too high a power level, the outside edges of the food will be overcooked, but the inside isn't cooked enough.

If your meat gets dried out or tough on the outside, but is still too pink in the middle to suit you, the power level was too high. If food you reheated in a microwave cools down too fast at the table, it wasn't hot enough in the middle, even if it was bubbling around the edges.

Microwaves cook food from the outside in to the center, so edges get done first. Also, microwaves aren't strong enough to reach the middle of large, dense food, such as a roast or big casserole. Therefore, the middle of large items (whether you are cooking or just reheating them) will get done by heat being conducted in slowly from the edges.

So what does all this mean? Turn the power level down on your microwave! If you don't know how to do this, find out! Read your manual, attend a microwave class, or if necessary, ask where you bought your oven. (If your oven has only one power — ON — then consider a new oven! For $200 to $300 you can get a really good oven with several power levels.)

When you use the lower power levels, the edges of the food are heated at a slower rate. There is time for heat to be conducted to the center of the food before the edges get burned.

But when you turn the power down, it takes longer to cook or heat food. How much longer? That depends on the power level. Medium power (50 percent, or 50, or 5 on some ovens) is about one-half power, so it takes twice as long as cooking on high power. Medium low power (30 percent, or 30, or 3, or defrost on some ovens) is about one-third power, and takes three times as long as cooking on high.

Never reheat or cook meat

(other than hamburger or bacon) at any power higher than 50 percent. For very well done meat, use 30 percent power. The cooking time is still shorter than range time, but it isn't as fast as using high power.

If you don't have time to cook your meat on a lower power level, fix some sandwiches or eat out! Cooking meat on high power gives you shoe leather — unless you are very, very careful, very experienced, and like your meat rare!

A different kind of problem makes your buns soggy! Bread products get soggy from steam being trapped between the bread and a plate. The bread absorbs this extra moisture and becomes soggy.

To avoid this, warm all bread products on paper towels, napkins, or on a rack (oven rack, meat rack, bacon cooker, etc.). A paper napkin or towel will absorb the extra moisture. On a rack, there are air spaces under the bread to help the moisture escape.

Did you miss question #21 on the quiz last week, asking about the wattage of your microwave? It is important to know this if you use recipes from this column or from any source other than the cookbook that came with your oven. Microwaves with less power (smaller wattage) will take longer to heat or cook food.

If you don't know your oven's power, take 5 minutes, (RIGHT NOW!) to do this simple test. You will know it's approximate power right away!

Estimating The Wattage of a Microwave

1. Measure 8 ounces (1 cup) of tap water into a glass measuring cup. Put it in your microwave.
2. Set your microwave to cook on high (full power, 100 percent, cook, etc.) for 5 minutes.
3. Watch the water continuously after two minutes until it boils. When the water boils, stop the oven. Now, figure out how long it took for the water to boil.
 - If it took 2½-3½ minutes to boil, your oven has 600-700 watts.
 - If it took 3½-4½ minutes to boil, your oven has 500-600 watts.
 - If it took 4½-5½ minutes to boil, your oven has 400-500 watts of power.

Remember, though, that variations in the container and water temperature make this only a rough estimate of your oven's power.

If you're still confused about microwave cooking, join me next week for a quick review of the basic microwave cooking techniques. Then we'll get on with some great summer recipes!

Weimer Wins Adams County Dairy Princess Crown

BY GINGER SECRIST MYERS

Adams County Correspondent
BIGLERVILLE — Jennifer Kay Weimer, 18, was crowned the 1986 Adams County Dairy Princess at the 19th Annual Adams County Dairy Princess Contest June 14th at the Biglerville High School, Biglerville. Josie Hess, Gettysburg, and Darlene Brown, were named alternate princesses.

In her acceptance speech Jennie stated that she is thrilled with the honor and is looking forward to the coming year as Adams County's spokesman for the dairy industry. Jennie, the youngest in a family of eight children, is the daughter of Stanley and Rose Weimer, 2230 Oxford Road, New Oxford. The Weimers milk a herd of 65 registered Holsteins and farm 250 acres.

A familiar face at state and local Holstein events, Jennie was named the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association's Outstanding Junior Girl in 1983. A past president of both the Adams County 4-H Dairy Calf Club and the Conewago FFA Chapter, Jennie credits her work in dairy judging, public speaking, dairy bowl, and the vocational agriculture curriculum as providing her with a solid background in the dairy industry. Jennie will attend the Pennsylvania State University this fall to major in agri-business and minor in dairy production.

Alternate princess Josie Hess, 17, is the daughter of John and Bonnie Hess, 200 Tall Oak Road, Gettysburg. She is actively involved in the management of the family's 150-cow Holstein herd and their 700 acres of crops. A senior this coming fall at New Oxford High School, she will serve as president for her FFA chapter. Josie hopes to have the opportunity as an alternate princess to promote dairy products to the public as a real source of calcium.

Alternate princess Darlene Brown, 18, thinks teenagers should be targeted for more dairy promotion. She says if they must drink sodas, then encourage them to add a dip of ice cream in it. Darlene is the daughter of Marvin and Barbara Brown and resides at 1225 Georgetown Road, Littlestown. The Browns operate a 338-acre Holstein farm.

Judges for the evening were Lynda Bear, Newville, a former Cumberland County dairy princess and a member of the Cumberland County Dairy Princess Committee; Jesse Burall, Monrovia, Md., a dairy farmer and a member of the Maryland State Dairy Princess Committee; and Walter Loy, Carlisle, branch manager for the Cumberland and Perry County Offices of Farm Credit Service.

Susan Elliott Receives Lebanon Dairy Princess Crown

LEBANON — Susan Elliott, a senior at Annville-Cleona High School, was chosen Lebanon County dairy princess June 14. Kelly Heisey, a 1986 graduate of Cedar Crest High School, was chosen alternate. More than 300 people attended the contest at the Annville Elementary School.

The 1986 Dairy Princess Susan Elliott, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elliott, R.D. 4, Lebanon, demonstrated her talent for milk promotion with a skit she made up for first and second grade children. Acting the part of a young girl watching cartoons with her doll, Elliott sang milk commercials and talked about the good flavor and the good benefits of milk and milk products. The doll, the audience, and the judges were convinced by Susan Elliott's poise and enthusiasm.

Kelly Heisey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Heisey, Jr., will help Miss Elliott promote milk throughout Lebanon County as the dairy princess alternate. Accompanying herself on a small organ, Elliott concluded her skit with a song about milk being the "real" thing.

Tonya Johnson, 1985 dairy princess, recounted her activities during the past year. Karl Bohr, Annville, provided entertainment. Master of ceremonies was Mike Firestone of Lebanon Valley National Bank. Following the pageant, milk and ice-cream sundaes were served.

Alleta Schadler, Lebanon County Home Economist, had prepared contestants with a pre-contest workshop. Barbara Lentz, chair of the milk promotion committee, announced that the dairy princess and her alternate can be booked to give programs to groups and organizations by calling Joanne Weidman, 272-5390.

790 Forage Harvester

The New Model 790 with five-year cutterhead protection

When it's time to chop, you want a harvester that keeps on going. And that's what you get with the new Model 790 forage harvester with optional Metalert® II electronic metal detector. Because the Metalert II system works so well, you get a five-year guarantee against cutterhead blow-ups caused by ferrous metals. Metalert II looks for trouble before it happens. You avoid costly repairs, downtime and keep nasty bits of chopped metal out of your livestock feed. The new Model 790 is available with either 540-rpm or 1000 rpm drive. And, the massive 12 knife cutterhead has single-edged hardened alloy knives with tungsten surfaces. Stop in and take a look at the new Model 790 today.

Karen Leslie is Beaver/Lawrence County Dairy Princess

Butler County Correspondent
NEW CASTLE — Karen Leslie, the 16-year-old daughter of Glenn and Rhae Leslie, Enon Valley, was

Cumberland County Dairy Princess

CARLISLE — The Cumberland Valley celebrated dairy month June 20 by crowning the 1986 Cumberland County Dairy Princess.

Sherry Gregor, a recent graduate of Cumberland Valley High School, received the dairy princess crown from 1985 princess Lori Jamison.

The daughter of Mrs. Donna Gregor, 5300 Senseman Road, Mechanicsburg, Sherry was an active member of FFA at Cumberland Valley before graduation and has qualified to participate in the PAFC summer institute at Penn State in July.

Sherry enjoys gymnastics, swimming and dancing. She plans to be involved with this year's display of "Old MacDonald's Barnyard" at the New Carlisle Fair in August.

Past princess Lori Jamison was escorted to the stage by her brother, Keith. She has just completed her first year with honors at Lock Haven University.

Several area girls will help Sherry promote dairy products this year as junior dairy representatives. They are: Michele Davidson, daughter of Robert and Brenda Davidson, Shippensburg; Joetta Rolar, daughter of Jack and Wilma Rolar, Newville; Bobbie Jo Gutshall, crowned Beaver/Lawrence County Dairy Princess at the Laurel Elementary School, New Castle, June 14.

Karen will be a senior this fall at Admiral Mohawk High School. She lives with her family on a 184-acre Holstein dairy farm where they milk 42 cows.

She has been a member of her school's FFA chapter for two years and is currently serving as secretary.

Karen's promotional skit, a required part of the contest, included a trip to the grocery store with her monkey, where they sampled dairy products — but only ones with bananas!

Ann Twentier and Virginia Dice were selected alternate princesses and will work closely with Karen in her promotional activities in the coming year.

Ann, the 17-year-old daughter of Gerald and Susan Twentier, Portersville, will be a senior at Ellwood City High School this fall.

Virginia, the daughter of Charles and Darlene Dice of New Castle, will be a senior at Shenango High School in the fall.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was J. Bradley Wise of Harmony. Wise is a dairy farmer and serves as the eastern regional manager of Pioneer Seed Company.

Judges were Jean Rhodes of Salem, Ohio, a dairy farm wife and mother of the 1976 Ohio State Dairy Princess; Don Koontz of Fredonia, a director of the American Jersey Cattle Club; and William Cannon of West Middlesex, vice president of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Cattle Club.

1985 Beaver/Lawrence County dairy princess Brenda Walton and alternate Arletta Smith each gave a farewell speech and wished the new princess and alternates luck in the coming year.

Sherry Gregor

daughter of Stanley and Joan Gutshall, Newville; Joann Glesner, daughter of J. Glenn and Hope Glesner, Newville; Jeannette Anderson, daughter of James and Darlene Anderson, Boiling Springs; Carla Snoke, daughter of Roy and Andrea Snoke, Shippensburg; and Darlene Coover, daughter of Roy and Janice Coover, Carlisle.

Musical entertainment at the pageant was provided by Anita and Brent Stapleton from Enola. Scott Smith of Shippensburg was master of ceremonies.

"CLEAN FLOW" Aluminum Bodies

by OMAHA STANDARD

Backed by more than 60 years' experience in truck body manufacturing, this is the aluminum body that sets the standard for the industry. With 92 3/4 inches of unobstructed inside width, this rugged, lightweight body lets you haul more grain or bagged or palletized commodities and save fuel doing it.

With 60" or 72" high, vertically corrugated, splice-free sidewalls, three-piece full opening rear doors, swing-out header, trailer-type aluminum flooring and "I" beam cross members, this body's built for rugged field work and continuous road hauling.

"Clean Flow" design of the extra deep 30° sidewall corrugations allows complete emptying with no sharp corners for grain to hang up.

Culbac

for Haylage and Silage

Research at Kansas State University demonstrated that CULBAC, a nonviable Lactobacillus product, produced more lactic acid and more total fermentation acids than live inoculant products. (See Table).

Effect of CULBAC and Live Inoculants on Alfalfa

Results of Kansas State University Research

	LACTIC ACID	TOTAL FERMENTATION ACIDS	PH
Control	2.40%	9.68%	5.36
Live Inoculant-Enzyme-A	2.42%	10.04%	5.19
Live Inoculant-Enzyme-B	2.21%	9.70%	5.34
Live Inoculant-C	2.57%	9.41%	5.38
CULBAC	2.78%	10.67%	5.17

Sweet Smelling Silage

More Palatable & More Nutritious

For the livestock producer, these increases in the nutrient value of forage represent savings in the cost of supplemental feeds.

Effect of CULBAC on Digestible Protein Content

Summary of Alfalfa and Corn Silage Research

	ALFALFA SILAGE	CORN SILAGE	INCREASE Due to CULBAC
Field Trials	10.65%	11.90%	+11.7%
University of Georgia	5.66%	6.24%	+13.4%

Managing Your 4-H Lamb

Much time goes into preparing that 4-H market lamb for the winner's circle. The following discussion covers some specific areas 4-H members, project leaders and parents have asked about over the last few years. The advice is limited to those concerns and the suggested solutions are mere recommendations, one of several, which could aid the few who have experienced these problems.

What breed do I choose?

Whether your market lamb is purebred or crossbred is of no particular consequence. It is important that you select lambs in good health, that are thrifty and structurally sound. Double check the mouth to see that the lower jaw teeth match with the upper dental pad. Lambs off in the mouth can have problems eating.

The relationship of breed to final choice market weights should be a factor to deal with early in your project. Suffolk and/or Hampshire lambs or their crossbreds will generally finish out between 120 to 140 pounds. Lambs of Dorset, Shropshire, and Oxford breeding usually reach the ideal final weights between 100 to 120 pounds.

The final market weights of 85 to 100 pounds usually fits lambs of Southdown or Cheviot breeding. Properly identifying your lamb's final weight classification permits you to adjust the feeding program. Also, such judgment better assures the exhibitor of having a more desirable and competitive market lamb at show time.

What and how should I feed my lamb?

Listed is a sample ration that provides the suggested protein, energy and mineral levels for growing and finishing your 4-H market lamb from 55 pounds to the recommended final weight.

Ingredients	Amounts (lbs.)
Shelled corn	1,060
Alfalfa hay	500
Soybean meal	300
Liquid cane molasses	100
Feed grade limestone	15
Iodized salt plus Selenium	25
Vitamin A (IU)	3,000,000
Vitamin D (IU)	200,000
Vitamin E (IU)	5,000
Antibiotics (gms)	()

The protein and energy levels for the sample ration are 16 and 27 percent, respectively. The addition of feed grade limestone helps prevent instances of urinary calculi. Antibiotics, if recommended for your situation, can be added at levels of 10 milligrams per pound of feed or 50 grams per ton of complete ration. Bovatec is a suggested ingredient at levels of 5 milligrams per pound of ration or 10 grams per ton. Bovatec will also guard against coccidiosis.

For many, one ton of complete feed is too much. Note by dividing each of the ingredient values by two you are then able to calculate ingredient levels on a per-pound basis by just moving the decimal point. Also, for those with only 4-H market lamb projects (more than 10 head) buying a complete pelleted ration certainly will be more economical and time saving than attempting to mix your own ration.

What are some health concerns?

It is suggested all lambs be protected against enterotoxemia C & D (overeating disease), tetanus and soremouth. The immunization costs are nominal compared to the aggravation of a soremouth outbreak, or the risk of losing your best lamb to enterotoxemia. If you have never had any of these problems just consider yourself lucky.

Control internal parasites by using anthelmintics that work both on the adult worms and the larvae. Your veterinarian can assist you in choosing the proper worm medication. External parasites are generally not a serious problem, however, the approved commercial product Ectrin is effective as a pour-on (3 tbs./lamb) or used as a spray (1 qt./lamb). Please read and understand the labeling cautions before using.

Foot rot problems may be an exception, but just being aware how serious such an infection can be helps you take preventive steps guarding against an outbreak. Strict sanitation and routine treatment/control measures are in order. Along with some good foot trimming you will want to use a footbath containing a 10 percent zinc sulfate solution. The proper mixture is eight pounds of zinc sulfate to every 10 gallons of water.

To shear or not to shear?

Shorn lambs grow better than unshorn lambs during hot/humid weather. For show purposes shearing 45 days pre-show date will provide adequate re-growth for blocking and grooming a market lamb. Some shows may have their own specific rules on shearing market lambs, so please check the catalog beforehand. Also, by meeting the commercial pelt marketing standards of a number one pelt (1/2" to 3/4" fiber length), a premium pelt price for the packer can be to your credit when you sell your lamb.

Smooth Wire Tension Fences

From time to time I receive calls pertaining to fence construction, from board fence to horse fence to portable fence to low-cost fence and it seems that there are many different commercial systems to choose from.

A good combination of these fence types, smooth-wire tension fences, a relatively new idea in farm fencing, effectively secures livestock with greater flexibility and lower cost than many conventional farm fences. Strong spring-like wires are stretched to high tension, creating a strong durable barrier that turns animals. Wires stay tight during temperature changes and recover quickly from sudden impacts.

Tension fences have taut wires that firmly resist deflection and spreading. This capability prevents animals from crawling through. The proper number and spacing of wires, line posts, and spacers are essential to fence strength. Structural post bracing also must be installed at all ends, corners, and dips to support the combined loading of several tension wires.

The heavily galvanized, high-strength wire is resistant to corrosion and long-lasting. Pressure-treated wood or fiberglass posts, class 3 galvanized metal accessories, and long staples should be used throughout. Staples should be driven only part way into a wood post so that wires can slide through the staples during tensioning, impacts, and contraction or expansion caused by temperature change.

In selecting a fence design you should consider the number of wires, their spacing, the distance between line posts, spacer location, and end - and corner - post bracing. Tension fencing techniques permit many different designs of wire number and spacing.

Penn State researchers have developed a fence materials list

(Not Fogger)

THE PROBLEM

When the temperature goes up one of the first ways your body reacts is by breaking out in perspiration. That's nature's way of cooling off.

It's different with hogs. High temperatures cause them a great deal of stress because they can't sweat. When under this stress due to heat hogs will lose their appetite, weight gains drop, there is poor feed conversion, conception rate is reduced and pens become a mess. All of this adds up to lost profits.

THE SOLUTION:

When the temperature is above 72° F even ventilation can't cure the stress that results. But a sprinkler cooling system can help your hogs where nature fell short, giving them a chance to cool off. It sprays them with coarse water droplets to reduce their body temperature. The idea is simple but extremely effective.

THE SYSTEM:

The sprinkle cycle is turned on automatically whenever the barn temperature rises above a set temperature level. Throughout this "on" period the control functions to permit sprinkling to occur for a preset time period each hour (2 minutes/hour is recommended for best results). When the barn temperature drops below the set temperature level the cycle is automatically interrupted.

The nozzles are clamped to a plastic pipe strung over the gutter of slatted area at the rear of the pen. Each nozzle covers a 5.6 foot diameter area which usually means one nozzle per pen. The nozzle assures a coarse droplet spray pattern which is important for maximum cooling. A fine mist of fog is not desirable in geographical areas of generally high summer relative humidity.

Rotary Mower/
Conditioners

In boxing, it takes the right conditioning to deliver a haymaker punch. In haymaking, you need the right machine to deliver a great crop. And that's where KUHN Disc Mower/Conditioners come in.

- Cuts quicker (7-9 mph/6-7½ acres per hour) with greater capacity
- Less dry down time than many other systems on the market
- Tangled, down wet hay won't stop them
- Conditions more evenly - less leaf/nutrient loss
- Variable cutting widths available

Cattlemen Slate Summer Field Day

UNIVERSITY PARK — Rolling Ridge Farms will host the 1986 combined Cattlemen's Summer and Pennsylvania Simmental Association Field Day on July 19, 1986. The farm is in west central Pennsylvania, 14 miles north of Butler on State Route 38.

Specialists will cover many topics at various stops on the Field Day Farm Tour.

Dave Welch, D.V.M., from Berlin, will discuss the purpose and techniques of on-farm embryo transfer. Rolling Ridge Farms has been involved in embryo transfer, which allows more calves to be born from the same dam and sire than with natural or artificial insemination techniques.

Byron Breisch, retired district conservationist from West Sunbury, will discuss various steps in reclaiming stripmined land. Breisch, who supervised reclamation work that was done on Rolling Ridge Farms, will discuss improvement in cattle carrying capacity from properly reclaimed land.

Clair Engle, Penn State extension animals specialist, and Dr. Bob Owen, extension veterinarian, will give a presentation on cattle handling facilities, health programs, parasite control and pinkeye prevention and treatment. Their presentation will include a discussion of up-to-date cattle health programs.

Tom Calvert, coordinator of Project Grass, Soil Conservation Service, Somerset, will present some of the latest materials on intensive forage/beef management systems and ways of using different forage species in a total grazing-hay program.

On a related topic, Sid Bosworth, Penn State extension agronomist, and Jim Garthe, extension agricultural engineer, will emphasize storage of forages for winter feeding — methods that capitalize on different growth habits of various forage species and that maximize forage quality as well as quantity.

Don Butler, president of the National Cattlemen's Association and an Arizona cow-herd operator, will discuss cattlemen's concerns about economic and production issues that affect profitability of the industry. Butler will focus on how the individual cattle producer fits into solving some of the beef industry's problems.

Other topics to be discussed include current and expected expansion of consumer promotion/education programs, Reproductive failures is a frustrating and costly problem for many farmers. The mystery of why some animals fail to conceive is gradually being unravelled.

For years, scientists have suspected early embryonic mortality as one of the causes. It is now appearing that the bodies of certain animals are not getting the message that they are pregnant. Consequently, they continue going through their regular cycle, and the pregnancy is lost.

At the University of Missouri, scientists are isolating the protein responsible for sending the "I am pregnant" message, and through recombinant DNA technology hope to generate new strains of animals that have lower embryonic mortality.

live evaluation of quality and cutability of finished steers, new marketing programs and information on nutritional value of beef and beef products.

The event is co-sponsored by Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science, the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, the Pennsylvania Simmental Association, the Pennsylvania

Beef Council, the Pennsylvania Meat Marketing Program and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. For more information, contact the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, 324 Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802 (814) 863-3667, or Rolling Ridge Farms, RD1, Box 147, Karns City, PA 16041 (814) 894-2463.

Home Acres Produces 'Dandy' Bull

WATERFORD — A Limousin bull calf named HAST Delta Dandy has recently become one of the Limousin breed's highest weaning bulls, according to Pennsylvania Limousin Association president Cynthia Kreider.

Born Oct. 30, 1985, the bull weighed 836 pounds on May 23, 1986, at 205 days of age. His hip height is 49 inches. He is owned by Home Acres Stock Farm, the Eugene Kreider family of Waterford.

Delta Dandy is sired by the high-performance bull BILD Delta 1346 who, until a few months ago, held the record for yearling weight in the Limousin breed with a weight of 1362 pounds. Delta Dandy is out of DX Geneva 067K, by Boventure Farfelu, a trait leader for yearling weight.

HAST Delta Dandy is the Kreiders' future herd sire prospect for their herd of 45 purebred Limousins.

Junior Angus Association Meets

Angus Board.

Junior Angus members from surrounding states are invited to a Junior Leadership Tour at Fox Hill Farm on August 8 and 9.

The Pennsylvania Junior Angus Association is sending a letter to the American Angus Association stating strong opposition to the proposed change for "bred and owned" Heifer rules.

Myers Named Deputy Ag Secretary

WASHINGTON — Peter C. Myers was sworn in recently as Deputy Secretary of Agriculture.

Myers served as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Natural Resources and Environment from May 16, 1985 until now. He was Chief of the Soil Conservation Service from April 1982 until May 1985.

Before that, he operated a row crop and livestock farm in southeast Missouri for 17 years. During that time he served as a Commissioner of the Missouri Department of Conservation, on the Governor's Advisory Council on Agriculture, on the Governor's Task Force on Soil and Water Conservation, as Vice President of the Missouri Pork Producers Association, a director of the Missouri Cattlemen's Association, and as a board member of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation.

Myers has a B.S. degree in agronomy and animal husbandry from the University of Wisconsin.

Cablevey - the PROFIT CONVERTER

feeding

8 Reasons For Considering CABLEVEY For Your Dairy Barn

- (1) CABLEVEY Saves Labor - That's important when you want to maximize milk production by feeding more often.
- (2) CABLEVEY Saves Feed - Many dairy producers have found the milk production increased even with equal or less feed after installing CABLEVEY.
- (3) CABLEVEY Pays For Itself - Just from the increase in milk production alone, many systems have paid for themselves in 12 months or less.
- (4) CABLEVEY Reduces Feed Separation - Unlike flex augers, feed separation is minimal... that means a more uniform ration to all cows.
- (5) CABLEVEY Handles High Moisture Corn - The 2" system and plastic drops are specially designed to handle high moisture corn without constant hang-ups.
- (6) CABLEVEY Takes The Corners - Specially designed 90° corners allow efficient system operation for nearly any barn layout.
- (7) CABLEVEY Saves Energy - 1 Motor and 1 system handle many livestock operations.
- (8) CABLEVEY Controls Feed By Weight Or Volume - Cows individually fed a pre-set amount by Weight or Volume automatically 5 to 8 times per day for highest efficiency.

Lancaster Co. Fair Season Begins in Elizabethtown

ELIZABETHTOWN — Arts and crafts displays, floral exhibits, livestock shows, a baby contest, sheep to shawl competitions, live entertainment, arm wrestling, and a tractor pull are just some of the events being planned for the Elizabethtown Fair, August 26 through August 30 at the East High Street Fairgrounds.

The five-day fair kicks off the Lancaster County fair season with a wide range of activities, including rides, games, food, and exhibits of all kinds.

"Commercial and civic stand-holders still have time to reserve their spaces for this year's fair", said Dave Kreamer, concessions chairman. Inside selling spaces are available and outside spaces are reserved on a first-come, first-serve basis.

"The design of the fairgrounds has been modified to centralize the rides and the standholders", Kreamer added.

Animal exhibitors and stand-holders will be issued passes to park on the fairgrounds. Additional parking passes may be purchased for $3, good for the entire week, at the fair office.

For more information contact concessions chairman Bill Shuker, 367-3770 or Dave Kreamer, 367-5720. "The fair is a celebration of the end of the summer. It's a good way to get out, see your neighbors and just have a good time", Hower said.

Penn State Offers Nursery Program

UNIVERSITY PARK — Retail nurseries and garden centers are among the fastest growing trade industries in both the nation and in Pennsylvania.

According to a recently published report by the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce and the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, Pennsylvania experienced a 25.7 percent increase in employment in this industry between 1979 and 1985.

The report, by Penn State agricultural economists Dr. William R. Gillis and Dr. Theodore E. Fuller, also identifies the florist trade as one of the very fastest growth industries in the nation.

"We are seeing a strong demand for managers and technical staff to support these growing industries," says Dr. David Beattie, assistant professor of ornamental horticulture and coordinator of the two-year technical program in Nursery Management at Penn State.

"Our program, which combines on-campus instruction and on-the-job training, is designed for those who already have some industry experience and want to pursue professional careers with nursery growers, landscape designers and garden centers," he continues. The program is offered by the Department of Horticulture in cooperation with a number of other departments in the College of Agriculture.

Registration for the two-year program will continue through August. The first-year program begins with classes at the University Park Campus from October to March and a six month on-the-job internship period from March to October.

On-campus instruction includes plant identification, propagation, turf management, soils, plant pests, nursery production and management as well as landscape use, design and maintenance. Additional courses in writing and speech communications help students become effective managers and supervisors.

Program faculty help students find training positions that match their interests and abilities. The majority who enter the program have extensive industry experience and approximately one-third have attended college in other fields. Most students are between the ages of 20 and 40. Nearly a third are women.

For more information about the program, housing, tuition and financial assistance, contact Dr. Beattie at (814) 863-2263 or write to Winter Courses, The Pennsylvania State University, 306 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802 and ask for a brochure.

Your county extension office also has information on the technical program in Nursery Management.

John Deere field tested fingers and bearings are surface hardened for shock resistance and long wear.

FEATURES

John Deere 3950 Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester lets you get all the yield from your field

The John Deere 3950 Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester has the exclusive features you need to get more of your crop into the wagon and silo.

Exclusive Spout-Trak™ aiming control locks in on the trailing wagon...around turns and down crooked rows. Exclusive Row-Trak™ guidance system keeps the row unit centered on rows through turns and around contours.

The Iron-Gard™ metal detector helps protect your cutterhead and livestock from ingesting harmful metal. And the famous segmented-knife Dura-Drum™ cutterhead provides a clean, uniform cut. Stop in soon for details.

DESTROYS ANT HILLS

Ant hills seldom choke
John Deere's new 1327 Rotary Mo/Co

Forget about unplugging a cutterbar filled with fire ants. John Deere's new 9-foot 3-inch 1327 Rotary Mower/Conditioner slices through fire ant hills like a hot knife through butter.

The secret? Seven rotary disks speed you through fire ant hills, gopher mounds and thick, tangled grasses with little chance of plugging.

The 1327's talent doesn't stop with clean cutting. Its advanced hay-conditioning system can trim hours off drydown time. Stop by today and find out how a 1327 can give your fire ants their lumps.

REAP THE BENEFITS

Yield Trak Monitors four basic functions: ground speed, acres harvested, bushels per acre and total bushels harvested. The bushels per acre function is divided into two counters with independent resets, so you can pinpoint yields with each tank-full or measure an entire field.

Yield Trak provides the information you need at harvest to operate at maximum efficiency and make the best possible decisions for next season's crop.

- Record exact number of acres harvested
- Increase productivity through accurate monitoring of ground speed
- Establish yield records for each field or soil type
- Assess the effects of weeds or insects on yields
- Determine next year's fertilizer and chemical requirements
- Measure yields from test plots to determine best performing varieties
- Establish a more accurate grain inventory
- Load trucks within legal limits

Yield Trak can be used with any make or model of combine and calibrated to accurately measure corn, soybeans, wheat and other small grains. Whether you run your own farm or do custom combining, efficient operation is more essential than ever. Yield Trak eliminates the guess work that can cost you time and money.

Reliability... bale after bale after bale

The Model 326 baler is rugged and reliable. It's a 14 x 18 baler to handle big volume haying! The 75 inch Super Sweep pickup gets the short fine hay that ordinary pickups miss. And the Flow Action feeding system gives you dense well shaped bales. Stop in and see one today.

FEEDER WAGONS

16', 21', 27' lengths available. A great feature for feeding cattle in meadows or in feed lots. Can be used for feeding round bales.

If old gas tanks are used for feeder wagon bottoms, they should be sand blasted. If not, the gas and rust may result in sick cattle or even death. Be safe and buy from us as ours are sand blasted before being painted.

The Reason Axial-Flow Combines Are More Productive - THE ROTOR!

The Single Rotor design is SIMPLE!

walker assemblies common to conventional combines. Less moving parts means less maintenance, less downtime.

GRAIN

Multiple threshing action of axial-flow reduces kernal damage and holds elevator dockage to a minimum.

The Single Rotor Design is MORE PRODUCTIVITY!

When your crops are ripe and ready to harvest, Axial-Flow allows you to move faster than with a conventional combine. The rotor's large throat means no bottle-necks up front. You'll be able to harvest at top speed for maximum productivity, even on side-hills.

AN AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE FROM HOOBER'S IS A SAVINGS TO YOU!

Massey-Ferguson 725/925 Haytenders TWO GREAT WAYS TO SPEED BIG HAY JOBS

Get the jump on haying this year with one of these Massey-Ferguson Haytenders. The MF 725 with a 7.3 swath and the MF 925 with a 9.3 swath. Both will mow and condition your hay without skipping or plugging.

The unitized header and compact design help assure a smooth, even cut by reducing bounce. Drum reel is fully enclosed and features speed pitch and position adjustments to keep the crop feeding in at an even pace. The fluted steel top roll is positioned slightly forward to keep fluffy crops moving off the reel teeth. A laminated rubber bottom roll minimizes leaf loss.

Add it up. When you've got hay to tend, there's no better way to get started than with a Massey-Ferguson Haytender. Let us show you what we mean.

Serving Customers Coast to Coast.

Complete TA assemblies for 706 1586 are priced at $595 and come with a Dana Co Heavy Duty Sprag instead of the usual IH sprag. The Dana sprag is guaranteed for 2 years against failure. Sprag kits (includes sprag gear Dana sprag, and piston carrier) and all items for rebuilding your own TA are available to qualified persons. Ramps and carriers for the older style TA's (as in SMTA, 340, 560) are priced at $150 each and carry a 90 day guarantee. We have all the parts needed to rebuild your TA in stock at prices that will save you money. We also have a shop available for complete TA installation. Or, you may split your own tractor and bring the center housing to us, which we can rebuild while you wait (approx 4-6 hrs). We also stock New and Rebuilt Water Pumps Dynlife Clutches Pressure Plates and PTO Drive Gears (Spline fit into pressure plates) for most IH tractors and combines.

We are in need of TA & clutch cores for rebuilding purposes. If you have not returned your cores, please do so or call us for pickup.
Dealers: We are paying cash for cores. If you have quantity, we will pick up.

YANMAR

More than You Expect.

That's what makes Yanmar compact diesel tractors so popular. From 14 to 33 horsepower, Yanmar offers 12 models that give you more features than you expect.

- Finger tip control shuttle power shift lets you shift on the go at a touch of a lever.

- Fully enclosed bevel gear front axle design on 4 wheel drive models for virtually maintenance free long life.
- Powerful fuel squeezing Yanmar diesel engines deliver the torque you need and the long life you demand.
- Live 2 speed PTO (540 1000RPM) with shuttle power shift keeps your attachments running at a constant speed.

Test drive a Yanmar today

ATTENTION FARMERS!

Don't Let Your Silo Deteriorate

with ShotCrete from Lancaster Silo!

RESURFACES INTERIORS:

- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increases useful life
- Economical

Before . . . The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

After . . . The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick, tough surface will protect stored feed.

REPAIRS HOLES:

- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before . . . A hole is worn completely through the silo wall

After . . . With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use.

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:

- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made . . . quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before . . . The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away

After . . . The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure.

When you think your silo is beyond repair,
Think of ShotCrete

The Best In Ring Drive

What Unloader Will You Use...
In The Year 2000?

If you purchase the Supreme SS428 Turbo Ring Drive Unloader now it's a good bet this same unloader will be performing in the year 2000!

Supreme Posi Tracs are proven good for 20+ years. The Stainless Turbo must last longer with lower maintenance.

And the Supreme SS248 Turbo Ring Drive Unloader is unmatched for performance. Hardened chopping augers rip thru hard packed & frozen material to rapidly deliver volumes of forage. The 4-paddle 28 Stainless Steel Blower has tremendous output capacity.

Supreme Unloaders—Good For The Year 2000 And Beyond!

BE DEAD RIGHT ABOUT CUTWORM CONTROL.

With Pydrin as a preventive, cutworms will be dying to get at your corn.

Pydrin® insecticide is a powerful preventive treatment in corn fields where cutworms are an annual problem, like bottomlands, weedy, no-till and late-planted fields. Pydrin can be applied at planting, tank mixed with most corn herbicides for cost saving weed-and-insect control in one pass. Pydrin also controls true armyworms early in the season. And it's more effective than toxaphene. But Pydrin's flexibility doesn't end here.

With Pydrin as a rescue, they'll be dying to get out.

Use Pydrin as a highly effective rescue treatment in areas where cutworms pose an occasional threat. Pydrin's long residual plus its resistance to washoff keeps killing worms long after application. Costs less than expensive soil insecticides which may only suppress cutworms. Saves money because you treat only when insects appear.

Used as a preventive or rescue treatment, Pydrin delivers more effective, more economical control you can count on. Shell stands behind it with a Guaranteed Performance Program. Ask your dealer for details.

Maryland Youth Named National Finalist

BY SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

FULTON, Md. — Mike Iager is one young man that the dairy community is talking about.

The University of Maryland freshman has been selected as a semi-finalist in the Holstein Association's National Distinguished Junior Member Awards competition. "I feel lucky to be in the top twelve," he said. "It was a goal that I set when I went to the Holstein convention."

At 19, Iager typifies what the dairy industry works so diligently to promote. Wholesome, healthy and active in all aspects of his family's fourth generation Maple Lawn Farm, Iager stands head and shoulders above the rest. And, he drinks lots of milk. "I guess that's why I'm so big and tall," he said.

Last year he was awarded with life membership in the Dairy Shrine for "cooperating to bring dignity to the dairy industry."

A few minutes spent with Iager and it becomes evident that dairying "runs in his blood." Even with his busy schedule at the University, and attending nine shows every year, he finds time to care for 44 cattle of his own. "Over the years, I've owned 71," he said.

"My best so far," is how Iager describes his 3-year-old Holstein, Maple Lawn Sexation Pinky, who is classified EX-91. The computer readout on "Pinky" shows that in her current incomplete lactation, in 290 days, she produced 21,220 pounds of milk and 1064 pounds of fat.

"In about two years I'd like to ET her," said Iager in explaining his goals for "Pinky." "She has a high percent of butterfat (4.9 percent) and she's got a good pedigree." Iager also hopes to export her sons because of her high butterfat test.

With regard to breeding preferences, Iager said he breeds half of his heifers naturally, and he uses AI for the rest. For type he expressed a preference for Sexation and Warden; for a combination of productivity and type he uses Ned Boy and Chairman. Presently Pinky is "safe to Melvin."

Iager's awards are numerous. It's difficult to say whether there are more little silver cow on top of trophies in the house, or actual cows in the barn lot. Plaques hang just inches apart on every wall in the Iager home and office. Trophies are lined up like the show string on every available shelf, in the china closets, and ribbons stream from the mantel of the fireplace.

It's obvious that Iager is going places, and he has already been places.

He traveled to Louisville where he placed first in the National Junior Dairy Show, and second in the Open Class. Iager was also the recipient of a High Honorable Mention Junior All-American award. The Maryland 4-H All-Star went to Chicago, record book in hand, and was selected as a regional winner in dairy.

In 1982, as part of the Maryland State judging team, he traveled to Louisville where he was the seventh High Individual. The next year he went to Harrisburg where he was second High Individual and first in the Reasons competition. Iager also went to Madison, Wis., where he placed as seventh High Individual.

The tanbark trail is another area of noted accomplishments for Iager. In 1984 he showed the Supreme Champion Holstein at the Maryland 4-H Fair, and the Reserve Grand Champion at the 1985 Maryland Holstein Show.

He was a Gold Award winner at the Eastern States Exposition in Massachusetts, and an FFA State Star Farmer. And, he has even walked a cow across the stage of the Grand Ol' Opry.

Iager said his favorite activities are showing and classifying. He coaches judging teams, and said that in his record book he tried to convey the impact that 4-H had upon his life. This impact is the reason why he feels compelled to return something to other 4-H'ers. "Most of my coaching comes from my parents," he added.

Charles and Judy Iager have raised their three sons, Mike, Matt, 14, and Mark, 10, with farming as a way of life.

This way of life, including the Holstein cow, is evident in all aspects of their home. The Iagers' house is black and white, and the car bears the license plate "COWS." Within their home is an impressive array of dairy collectibles and paintings which they purchased at National Holstein Conventions. "We try to buy one each year," Judy Iager said.

One painting in particular, "Generations," she singled out as representative of Mike and his father. It depicts a father and son in the barn with a Holstein and her newborn calf.

Starting out at an early age, each son was responsible for some aspect of the Iagers' impressive operation. The younger boys help their mother with the care of the calves. "That's where he got started," said Charles Iager of his oldest son. "Then he got promoted." But, even with his increased responsibilities, Mike is quick to say, "That's the most important job — giving the calves a good start."

Now he milks 175 cows regularly, and is in charge of the show string. Last year he made 25,000 bales of hay and 35,000 bales of straw. On the 1,100 acres in production at Maple Lawn Farm, he planted 200 acres of soybeans, disced 300 acres (three times), and rolled alfalfa haylage. But, that's not where his involvement ends.

His father has entrusted him with management decisions. Mike helped his father weigh the pros and cons of various methods of storing their alfalfa haylage.

They decided to use 100 foot tubes that encase two sets of six rolls of haylage end to end. "We considered putting in a trench," said Mike, "but went with bags."

"My best so far," is how Iager describes his 3-year-old Holstein, Maple Lawn Sexation Pinky. She is classified EX-91 and is working on a plus 22,000 pound record with a 4.9 percent test.

Iager is involved in all phases of the farm operation from milking to field work to preparing their turkeys for market. The Iagers annually market 1,000's of turkeys.

Mike Iager of Fulton, Md., has been named as a semi-finalist in the Holstein Association's National Distinguished Junior Member Awards competition. He poses here with some of the numerous awards he has accumulated in his 4-H and showing career.

One of Iager's responsibilities on the farm is the computerized feeder. He also handles the milking duties, the show string, crop management, and aids his father in other management decisions.

The two agreed that the "sausage tubes" preserve better quality, are easier to handle, and are faster.

The Iagers also use a computerized feeder. For over two years, Mike has been working with his uncle on this project. With the punch of a button he can call up numbers that tell how much feed each cow has eaten, her ration, and whether there are any signs of irregularities within the herd.

As an Agriculture Production major, Iager has been able to pick up many new ideas for use on his home farm. He also keeps on top of the industry through the Brock Report and the Wall Street Journal. Maple Lawn advertisements that appear in the Southeastern and Holstein World were designed by Iager.

Last, but definitely not least, he manages part of the turkey operation that his great-grandfather established when he was Mike's age. A full-scale operation, the Iagers raise thousands of turkeys which are available fresh for Thanksgiving and Christmas and sold throughout the entire year.

The multi-talented Iager said his major goal is "to win in the national judging contest." Listing his hobbies as dairy judging, dairy bowl, and showing cattle, it sounds as though he is headed for another win.

He's a determined young man who knows cattle and is a fine representative of the dairy community. Despite all the glitter and glamour of the many awards and recognition, Iager's feet seem firmly planted in Maple Lawn soil.

"After I graduate," he said, "I want to come back here and take over Dad's position." And with that came a definite nod of approval from his proud father.

Editors Note: Mike Iager will be traveling to the National Holstein Convention in Wisconsin next week where six of the twelve state junior winners will be selected.

The annual competition recognizes juniors who have distinguished themselves in leadership positions with Holstein organizations. The juniors are selected on the basis of outstanding contributions to the dairy industry and scholastic excellence in preparation of life goals.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

The Debt Trap

Our indebtedness as farmers links us with billions of people throughout the world for whom debt has become synonymous with despair. It also links us with most of the people of this country in ways that most of them have never considered. How many banks in the country have failed because of the "Farm Problem"? How many small businesses have gone under because of the "Farm Problem"? How many people in Mifflin County alone have lost their job security because of the "Farm Problem"? I'm sure that somewhere some social or demographic chartist has fairly precise answers to all three of those questions. But even those answers probably do not tell the whole story.

In a study made a number of years ago, a research team found that farm income had a greater effect on a rural community than any other type of income. The reason was the large number of support businesses and services for farming that exist in a rural area. When the farm economy lags, there are fewer dollars pumped into that area. Businesses, labor, and services directly affiliated with farming are the first to be affected. When farmers reach the "debt crisis" position, these support businesses and services begin to retrench (lay off labor and reduce community activity).

When a substantial number of farmers reach the "debt disaster"

position, these businesses and services begin to compete with each other for a piece of an ever smaller pie. Eventually the weaker or more vulnerable or more local businesses or services begin to fail. That results in fewer jobs, less tax base for the area, an erosion of population, and a higher cost for those remaining.

Some people would say "Why a higher cost for those remaining?" As Sherlock Holmes would say, "It's elementary my dear Watson". There are certain costs that must be met as long as there are any people in the area. Costs such as roads, schools, power, and law enforcement will be present regardless of the number of people who live in an area. It is true that these costs do go down as the area loses people and businesses, but they do not go down in proportion to the reduction in people or businesses.

The farm debt crisis that becomes a farm debt disaster becomes like a cancer. It spreads and attacks previously healthy segments of the economy. If one farmer can not pay his or her bills, the lender and other farmers must pay them. If additional farmers are then pushed over the brink, the lender, the support business or service, and other farmers will wind up paying their bills. The cancer of the debt crisis begins to claim more and more victims.

Some lenders and supply or service dealers try to recoup by becoming more "competitive" and selling items at reduced prices. Others add service charges or late payment interest (up to as much as two percent per month) to take up the slack. Others try to enlarge their territory to increase or at least maintain business volume. A few try to protect themselves by placing liens on assets or increasing the amount of assets upon which they have a lien (such as requiring a co-signer for a loan). The lender or business then has the co-signers property as well as the borrowers property to use if the loan is not paid. These steps may or may not help the business survive.

One of the most difficult decisions for any business to make is when and how to cut the loss. In other words, when does the business tell a buyer "no more credit"? The buyer may go elsewhere and never pay the money owed to the business. Or, when does the farmer sell a non-profitable item such as a piece of non-productive land or some seldom used machinery? The farmer may want that land for recreational purposes. Or, when does a bank decide it no longer has the equity in a farm it had when the original loan was made? The bank may need that equity on the books to stay out of the bank examiners reaches. Of course all of this helps spread the cancer of "debt disaster".

Delaware to Host bee conference

NEWARK, Del. — More than 700 members of the Eastern Agricultural Society (EAS) are preparing to gather for their annual conference, Wednesday, August 6 to Saturday, August 9, at the University of Delaware's Clayton Hall/Christiana Towers complex on the university's north campus in Newark, Del. The 3½ day event will include talks on bee management, swarm biology and orientation behaviors, queen control in bee colonies, apiotherapy, pollination beekeeping in China, bee mites, bee photography, and the effects of acid rain on honeybees. In addition, several workshops on hive products are scheduled. There will also be a trade show.

The conference will coincide with two day-long beekeeping short courses, one on bee management (August 5), the other on honey (August 6). The Tuesday course will include hands-on experience using gentle University of Delaware bees. The Wednesday course will cover efficient ways to produce and comb honey and profitably market these and other bee products.

Registration for the short courses is separate from that for the conference and costs $30 a course or $55 for both courses. For further short course details, contact Dr. Larry Connor, Beekeeping Education Service, P.O. Box 817, Cheshire, CT 06410.

Conference registration is $17 for the entire 3½ days, or $7.50 per day. Deadline for advance registration, including room reservations for those wishing to stay on campus, is July 26. A $10 late fee will be charged after that date. For further information, contact Dr. Dewey M. Caron, Department of Entomology, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303 (302-451-2526).

Economical Platform Scale Weighs To 120,000 lbs.

FORT ATKINSON, Wisc. — Recognizing the need for a platform scale system that provides precision weighing at a low cost, Butler Scale Systems has introduced a custom platform scale system with a maximum dimension of 10x30 feet.

With this system, operators can make effective use of trucks by consistently hauling at or near capacity, without underhauling, and monitor load placements and weights at the time of shipment. Scale owners can also verify the weight of bulk commodities at purchase.

The system consists of four 2.50 universal "floating" mounts which will handle capacities up to 60,000 pounds net (excludes deck); four 2.50 differential weigh beams with a capacity of 15,000 pounds net per cell; a choice of microprocessor-controlled indicators; and a detailed bill of recommended materials, drawings and installation instructions for both a steel and wood deck. Deck materials and installation are supplied by Butler dealers or provided locally.

An optional duplicating kit allows for the installation of two platforms end to end for up to a 10'x60' weighing surface with up to 120,000 pounds of capacity, operated with one indicator. Straight trucks or axles of tractor-trailers can be weighed on a 10'x30' scale; complete rigs on a 10'x60' scale.

The basic weighing indicator—the economical OMP-5—features an easy-to-read LCD display with large 3/4-inch-high digital numerals.

The OMP-15 indicator offers all the features of the OMP-5 plus the capability of built-in memory for accumulating multiple weights. An optional expansion board broadens the capabilities of the OMP-15 by allowing it to operate a printer and remote display, or hook up directly to a computer.

For more information on the new Butler Custom Platform Scale System, contact your local Butler dealer or write to Butler Scale Systems, 801 Janesville Avenue, Fort Atkinson, WI 53538. Telephone: (414) 563-5521.

Sire Power To Sample Two Pa. Bulls

TUNKHANNOCK — Two young Holstein bulls, one bred by Bishcroft Farms of Fountainville, and a second bred by John Castrogiovanni of Montrose, were recently selected to enter the sire development program at Sire Power Inc.

Castrogiovanni's bull, named Castlemont Spenser-ET, and Bishcroft's bull, named Bishcroft Julian, are currently located at Sire Power headquarters where they will undergo a herd health program before joining the 70 other bulls being sampled this year.

Castlemont Spenser-ET 2006540 is sired by Sweet-Haven Tradition, a genetically superior bull with +1755M -.16% +32F +$157, 99%

Repeatability.

His dam is Castlemont Valiant Shasta, VG(87). She was specially selected because of her outstanding type and production with a top record at 3-3 305 days of 29110M 4.1% 1202F, a Cow Index of +1580M +.06% +68F +$206. She is sired by S-W-D Valiant.

Bishcroft Julian 1996490 is sired by K-Way Apostle King Vic, a genetically superior bull with +761M +.09% +43F +$116, 96% Repeatability.

His dam is Bishcroft Spirit Julia, EX(90). She was specially selected because of her outstanding type and production with a top record at 4-6 365 days of 30114M 4.5% 1361F, a Cow Index of +978M +.16% +64F +$163. She is sired by Sunny-Craft Chief Spirit.

Council Sets Meeting

ARLINGTON, Va. — The National Mastitis Council Summer Meeting is set for August 7th, at the Radisson Hotel South, Minneapolis, Minnesota. The meeting will be held in conjunction with the International Association of Milk, Food and Environmental Sanitarians Annual Meeting, August 3rd thru the 6th.

The theme of this year's meeting is "The Management of Mastitis Pathogens in the Dairy Herd." Topics include: indications of mastitis pathogens in the dairy herd, milking machines and mastitis, teat dipping, antibiotic therapy, and management of the dry period for the control of mastitis pathogens.

For more information, contact Steve Watrin, Land O'Lakes, Inc., P.O. Box 116, Minneapolis, MN 55440; telephone 612/481-2767.

New Floor Design Highlights Gehl Box Spreaders

WEST BEND, Wisc. — Gehl Company's new 100 Series box spreaders incorporate a Clad-Tuff floor design for smoother, trouble free manure spreading.

Clad-Tuff is a gel-coated, fiber-reinforced plastic (FRP) plywood floor. The top surface has an extra slippery coating. This coating is integrated with the underlying woven fiberglass which, in turn, is heat bonded to the top and bottom of the plywood.

"This creates a smooth, slick, seamless panel," says Brad Boncher, material handling product manager. "The result is a specially constructed floor with the top and bottom sealed against liquids and acids to virtually eliminate decay and delamination."

The slick Clad-Tuff surface also reduces the force needed to break a frozen apron loose from the floor. Boncher emphasizes that less apron pull means less wear and tear on drives and apron chains.

Five spreader sizes, from 135 to 425 bushels, are offered in the new 100 Series line. All come with Gehl's full ten year warranty on the floor and sides.

A special gel coating makes Gehl 100-Series spreaders resistant to corroding manure acids.

Coba-Select Sires Open House

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Coba/Select Sires, Inc. will host its third Open House at Select Sires, Inc. near Plain City, Ohio on Tuesday, June 24, beginning with registration at 10 a.m. Dr. Wallace E. Erickson, general manager of COBA, says the Open House is planned for members, customers and friends in Coba's Ohio Division including Ohio, northwestern Pennsylvania, eastern Indiana and western West Virginia.

The Open House morning activities will include touring Select Sires and Select Embryo's facilities near Plain City and the Darby Creek Sires-In-Waiting facility at Unionville Center.

After lunch, a brief program will begin, led by Fred Friday, president of Coba/Select Sires. Richard Chichester, general manager of Select Sires and several Select Sires staff will make brief presentations with closing comments by Dr. Erickson.

Monitor Provides Feed-Back On Harvest

MANKATO, Minn. — Micro-Trak's Yield Trak is an electronic combine monitor that provides accurate in-field measurement of bushels per acre, total bushels harvested, speed in MPH and total acres worked.

The system provides on-the-go measurement of speed and acreage so the farmer or custom combiner can continually monitor his progress and maintain a constant rate for maximum efficiency.

The bushels per acre and total bushel count are updated each time the combine's unloading auger is operated. The bushels per acre function is divided into two counters with independent resets so yields can be pinpointed by the tankful or over an entire field. With this type of information the farmer can assess the effects of weeds, insects or weather; compare the performance of different seed varieties, establish yield records for each field or soil type; and load trucks within legal limits.

Setting up the system basically requires connecting it to the combine's 12-volt electrical system, entering the combine's swath width and installing and calibrating two sensors.

Yield Trak's combine monitor can be calibrated to measure corn, soybeans, wheat and other small grains.

Yield Trak can be used on any make or model of combine and calibrated to measure corn, soybeans, wheat and other small grains. Features include an illuminated five-digit display, electronic memory for storing totals, a tank empty sensor and a manual run/hold switch to stop the acre count when turning or moving between fields.

For further information call Micro-Trak Systems, Inc. toll-free at 1-800-328-9613.

Knight Announces New Manure Spreader

BRODHEAD, Wisc. — Knight Manufacturing of Brodhead, Wisconsin, announces the Model 1514 "Slinger." This is the newest model in their side expeller manure spreaders. The 1514 — about 1,600 gallons, joins the 912 — about 1,000 gallons, and the 2,500 — about 2,700 gallons, in the Knight line.

The innovative Knight spreaders utilize a heavy, fully-flighted auger to move material forward into a series of paddles, which force it into 12 nine-pound hammers turning at over 800 RPM. These peel the material off and sling it over an even spread pattern of 30 to 50 feet.

Slurry manure or pen-packed can be handled effectively with the "Slingers."

In addition to dairymen, the Knight "Slingers" have been enthusiastically accepted by poultry people, lime sludge operations, and city waste

Knight equipment is available throughout the United States and Canada through a series of direct sales areas, distributors, and representative agents.

New Crowd Gate Is Totally Suspended

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. — A newly developed cow control gate, featuring a totally suspended design and automatic turnaround, is now available from Westfalia Systemat, Elk Grove Village, Illinois.

The Westfalia "Time Saver" Crowd Gate provides a safe and economical means of "automatic advance/stop" control that combines sound and electrical impulses to guide cows into prep stalls and milking parlors more efficiently. Cows quickly learn to respond to the gentle urging of electrical impulses and soon learn to react to the buzzer alone.

Lightweight and easy to install, the "Time Saver" Crowd Gate's totally suspended, "no track" design eliminates the need for reinforced fencing or support rails. Offering variable installation height, the "Time Saver" fits any cow holding area with either side or rear access. The standard unit accommodates holding areas up to 22 feet wide and 75 feet long, and can be adapted to larger installations up to 32 feet wide and 100 feet long.

Engineered for simplicity and practicality, the "Time Saver" Crowd Gate's automatic turnaround feature automatically reverses the gate when it reaches the end of its travel. To ensure continuous, trouble-free operation, all components are permanently mounted, separate from the gate.

Westfalia's crowd gate eliminates need for support rails with totally suspended design.

The suspended trainers are made of durable, polyethylene coated copper. Buzzers, chargers, control box, heavy-duty limit switches and all installation hardware are included with the gate.

For additional information, contact Westfalia Systemat, 1862 Brummel Drive, Elk Grove Village, IL.

Southern States Offers Milk Replacers

RICHMOND, Va. — Southern States Cooperative's new Insta-Mix milk replacers feeds will save dairymen time and fuss in mixing and provide the same amount of nutrition, according to Bob Buehler, manager of dairy and swine feed services for the co-op. The feeds for calves are now being manufactured by Land O'Lakes, Minneapolis, Minn., using a new process which improves solubility.

"The new manufacturing method is called an 'agglomeration process,' which clusters the milk replacer particles and gives the feed the instant mixing quality," Buehler says.

New Tools Help Cattlemen Stay Competitive

Des Moines, Iowa — Cattlemen looking for ways to stay competitive in today's beef industry have to take advantage of the latest technology available for boosting performance.

Two tools they should include in their management kit are implanting calves to put on extra pounds from birth to weaning, and synchronizing estrus to concentrate the breeding period and subsequent calving period for heifers and cows.

That was the essence of messages delivered to animal scientists by Dr. Dave Whittington and Dr. Gene Deutscher at a recent seminar sponsored by Syntex Animal Health, Inc.

The seminar preceded the opening of the midwest section of the American Society of Animal Science meeting here.

Whittington is an extension beef specialist at the South Dakota State University Agricultural Research and Extension Center. Deutscher is an extension beef specialist at the University of Nebraska North Platte Experiment Station.

Whittington made his comments regarding implanted calves based on trials he conducted last summer involving more than 600 steer and more than 700 heifer calves. The trials took place on three ranches scattered throughout the state with different herd genetics and different management practices.

All calves involved in the trials were implanted with one of three implant products at first processing. A fourth group was left as a non-implanted control.

Calves were all born within a short period of each other and gate cut into the specific implant or control groups. None were from first calf heifers.

Results varied some from ranch to ranch. However, pooled results from the three ranches showed an advantage for the implanted calves.

Steer calves implanted with Synovex C, designed specifically for calves, weighed 16.7 pounds more at weaning than did calves in the control group. Ralgro-implanted and Compudose-implanted steer calves weighed 13.5 and 6.5 pounds, respectively, more than the controls.

Heifer calves showed a slightly better response to the implants. Those implanted with Synovex C weighed 20.6 pounds more than the controls. The Ralgro-implanted heifers calves weighed 18.5 pounds more.

None of the heifer calves were implanted with Compudose since the product is not cleared for use in heifer calves.

The increased gains in the implanted calves points to the value of this management technique, Whittington told the group. Overall, the implanted calves showed improved performance compared with the non-implanted controls despite the differences in genetics and management among the three ranches and the drought-induced, poor calf-growing conditions at two of the ranches.

Shortening the calving period as much as possible for first-calf heifers is crucial to successful rebreeding of these females, Deutscher told the animal scientists. First-calf heifers need time after calving to let their bodies adjust so they'll exhibit strong estrus.

The University of Nebraska beef specialist said that synchronizing estrus in heifers using a prostaglandin can accomplish this goal by shortening the breeding period. Not only does this concentrate the subsequent calving season, there is some indication synchronized heifers calve earlier than those not synchronized.

Heifers in a trial he conducted last summer using prostaglandins calved about four days earlier this spring than their non-synchronized counterparts, he said.

Though most of Deutscher's seven years of experience with synchronization has involved A.I., he indicated to the group that synchronization also would help shorten the breeding and calving periods when females are bred naturally.

Deutscher believes that 30 days is a realistic length for the breeding period. A well managed synchronization program should let you get 90 percent of heifers bred in 30 days, he said. In fact in last summer's trial using the Bovilene brand prostaglandin, 88.3 percent of the synchronized heifers in the trial were pregnant at the end of 30 days.

Deutscher's goal is to develop simple methods of improving reproduction in beef cattle. Heat synchronization, when managed properly, is one tool for accomplishing that goal, he said.

Milk is perishable and needs refrigeration at less than 40°F. Covering prevents absorption of other flavors. Never pour milk that has been at room temperature back into the original container.

If undesirable mold develops on improperly wrapped natural cheeses, one-half inch of cheese should be discarded on all sides of the visible mold. The exception is mold-ripened cheeses such as Blue.

Optimism and Success Discovered in Agribusiness Survey

DOYLESTOWN — Corn Belt farmers, farm editors, bankers and an auctioneer participated in the spring semester Agricultural Policy class at Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture, Doylestown.

Agribusiness students responded to recent media reports on the Midwest farm situation by developing five basic questions about the farm economy. They then interviewed 20 agriculturists in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin by telephone.

The class, many from metropolitan backgrounds, discovered optimism and success as well as personal and economic problems among the responses.

A St. Charles, Missouri farmer credited his location near river terminals for more favorable grain prices. He reported a high number of farm closeout auctions in north-central Missouri.

An Alamakee County, Iowa auctioneer reported depressed land values and low auction prices for machinery and livestock in the tri-state region of Iowa, Missouri and Wisconsin.

Several central Illinois farmers were optimistic, crediting good financial records, efficient management practices and strong marketing abilities for keeping their operations out of difficulty. Dairy farmers in Iowa and Wisconsin told of milk prices below their costs of production.

A hog and wheat producer in Kansas credited diversification and good production levels for his success.

Many of the participants voiced the opinion that past government policies and farmers' financial management practices contributed to the current situation. Some farmers misjudged the risk associated with long-term loans, while financial advisors were overly optimistic about prospects for sustained income to reduce debts.

Declining land and equipment values resulted in high ratios of debts to assets. Numerous farmers conceded they did not understand cash-flow management; there were also some who appeared reluctant to adopt better financial management practices.

Two farmers found it difficult to admit they would not be farming in 1986.

One woman blamed neither government nor bankers, acknowledging she and her husband were responsible for most of their financial problems.

Farmers and a banker viewed reduced government involvement in agriculture as the best course of action.

An Iowa dairy and hog farmer was angered by short-sighted political actions that contributed to long-term economic problems. He suggested that lobbyists often confuse, rather than inform, lawmakers.

Most farmers would like to see a long-term farm program for commercial farms that is different than the subsistence support needed by low-volume farms with high production costs.

A student from the New York metropolitan area concluded that counseling and training should be provided for families forced to quit farming. She proposed workshops on career alternatives and assistance in starting service-type businesses.

Based on the information gathered through the telephone survey, the students made the following recommendations:

farmers should utilize the Cooperative Extension Service and agribusiness firms to assist in financial records, management decision-making, and planning marketing strategies.

Professionals should be hired to aid in setting up and maintaining financial records which provide net profit and cash-flow information and analysis data for decision making.

Farmers must become informed participants in the development of farm policy by being active in their farm and commodity organizations and political parties.

Farm families forced to leave farming should be provided counseling, training and assistance to start service-type businesses needed in their area, or to relocate.

The federal government should support research to expand the use of agricultural products and to develop international markets.

Reflecting upon the students' report, Dr. John H. Avery, Chairman of Agribusiness at the College, said, "Our students become emotionally involved in the farm situation. They obtained new perspectives on farming and a realization on the communication process required to develop policies and programs."

Tillage Not Cure-All

HARRISBURG — Constructed conservation practices, which hold rainfall runoff, have taken a "back seat" to no-till and other forms of conservation tillage for erosion control. According to Robert Heidecker, state resource conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service, surface water control is needed in combination with conservation tillage on much of Pennsylvania's farmland.

"Where slopes are long and/or fairly steep, conservation tillage alone will not reduce soil erosion to recommended levels," said Heidecker. "Terraces or diversions are needed to break up the slope and stop overland waterflows which cause erosion."

The basic objective of diversions and terraces is to control the flow of water and to increase the amount that soaks into the ground so it can be used by the crops. When the rainfall is held where it falls, soil stays in place along with the nutrients, herbicides, and insecticides which the soil contains.

Sheet, rill and gully erosion are reduced which lowers wear and tear on farm equipment.

To be effective, diversions and terraces must be built at right angles to the slope to stop the flowing surface water. There must be enough terraces on the slope to prevent too large an accumulation or too fast of a flow of water. The steeper the slope, the closer together the terraces must be built.

Since slopes are not usually uniform, terraces and diversions will curve around the slope to maintain a level profile or low grade. By cutting and filling, terraces can be parallel on many slopes, increasing the ease of farming.

"Terraces have an advantage over diversions," stated Heidecker. "Terraces are farmed in the same crop as the rest of the field while diversions are maintained in a sod cover."

Heidecker added, "Conservation tillage with a good residue cover will reduce erosion under most storm conditions. However, the 'gully washer' storms and rain on frozen ground can only be handled by terraces or diversions."

Farm operators who feel that they have a need for some type of surface water control should consult with the Soil Conservation Service office in their county. Cost share for construction may also be available from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

New 'Quick-Tach' Loader from Farmhand

EXCELSIOR, Minn. — A new Quick-Tach Loader, designed to mount to many two wheel drive and front wheel assist tractors in the 40 to 70 horsepower range, has been introduced by Farmhand, Inc.

The new Dunham Lehr Model 222 Loader features two "double acting" bucket cylinders and a new single handle lever for increased bucket leveling control. Mounting or dismounting the 222 is a one-man job that is done in minutes. Parking stands are standard equipment and fold flat to lift frame for convenient out-of-the-way storage.

Lift capacity of the new loader is 2500 pounds to its full lift height of 10 feet 6 inches; breakout capacity is 4000 pounds. Optional attachments include a 66-inch combination bucket (which can be converted to a manure fork bucket), 65, 76, 84 and 96-inch rolled back buckets.

The 222 Loader is available from Farmhand dealers and distributors throughout the United States and Canada. For more information, contact Farmhand, Inc., 6421 Hazeltine Boulevard, Excelsior, MN 55331.

Mounting and detaching the Model 222 front-end loader is a one man job.

Ag Master Offers Freeze-Dried Forage Inoculants

MADISON — Baled hay is now included among the forage crops that can be effectively preserved with AgMaster inoculants from Marsch's Agri-Products, Miles Laboratories, Inc.

AgMaster inoculants offer many cost-saving advantages to farmers who produce their own forage crop feeds. Farm and university trials show that these natural bacterial inoculants inhibit the growth of spoilage-causing molds and yeasts, enhance palatability and increase dry matter intake by an average of 12 percent per animal. Valuable protein and total digestible nutrient (TDN) levels are maintained because AgMaster inoculants help control the fermentation process and reduce heat damage.

Field trials indicate that baled hay can be harvested at up to 25 percent moisture, which enables farmers to maximize their overall harvest efficiency by cutting conditioning time and extending their baling hours.

Leaf shattering and crop field losses are minimized, which helps save supplemental feed costs. Heat damage is reduced because AgMaster inoculants rapidly lower the pH level during the crop fermentation or drying state.

Miles Laboratories, Inc., was the first company to introduce the concept of crop-specific inoculants with its 1982 introduction of AgMaster Alfalfa Inoculant. Since then, the firm has developed the marketed natural inoculants specifically formulated for all other forage crops, including corn silage, high moisture ground ear and shelled corn, and now baled hay.

AgMaster inoculants are still the only inoculants that are freeze-dried, shipped frozen to farmer customers, and applied in liquid form to forage crops. This unique manufacturing/ shipping/ application system ensures that the inoculant bacteria retain maximum activity.

Each easy-to-store, 120-gram moisture-proof packet of AgMaster inoculant contains over four trillion active bacteria—enough to treat 25 tons of silage or 12½ tons of baled hay.

For more information on AgMaster's full line of crop-specific inoculants, the nearest authorized AgMaster dealer, or information on becoming an AgMaster distributor in selected areas, contact AgMaster department, Miles Laboratories, Inc., P.O. Box 592, Madison, WI 53701. Telephone 1 800 362-3932 (in Wisconsin) or 1 800 525-9836 (outside Wisconsin).

Respiratory Risks Rank High Among Farm Dangers

EBENSBURG — Most modern farmers have a friend or relative who has been involved in a mishap with power machinery. For them, safety first is more than a slogan, it's a way of life.

Surprisingly, however, many farmers are unaware of or disregard the dangers posed by airborne contaminants. These contaminants, in the form of dusts, gases, vapors, fumes and mold spores, can cause illness and even death.

The respiratory risks farmers face daily are as varied as the work they do. Farmer's lung disease, a form of allergic pneumonia caused by inhaling mold spores produced by moldy grain, corn and hay, is a dangerous respiratory ailment that can lead to permanent scarring of the lungs. Chronic exposure can result in deterioration of the respiratory system and can lead to death.

Symptoms of the disease — fever, chills, muscle aches, shortness of breath and coughing — usually develop within six to eight hours after exposure to airborne mold spores.

Ammonia gases, pesticide mists, fungicide dusts, welding fumes and airborne dusts from organic and inorganic sources are additional sources of respiratory risk to farmers.

Just as when working with power machinery, farmers must take proper precautions to reduce the risk of illness or injury posed by airborne contaminants. As in all safety programs, the first line of defense is knowledge. An awareness of the danger and an understanding of proper safety procedures are the first steps in protecting your health.

The next step is to put that knowledge into action. Ventilation of enclosed spaces before working in them and using respiratory protection are the best methods of preventing a mishap.

For protection against dusts, mists and mold spores, lightweight, disposable respirators, such as 3M's No. 8710 government-approved dust/mist half-mask respirator, offers comfortable, maintenance-free and easy-to-use protection.

For work in the presence of ammonia or pesticides, 3M's government approved gas and vapor cartridge respirators offer a high degree of protection. 3M also has two approved disposable respirators that are compatible with face and eye shields for protection against welding dusts and fumes.

The use of proper respiratory protection is an integral part of a complete farm safety program. As with any respiratory product, all instructions and warnings regarding proper use, face fit and product limitations must be followed in order for the product to work properly and provide adequate protection.

Information on the dangers of particulates and gases, and methods of protection are available from state universities, agricultural magazines and agricultural supply dealers.

Balanced Diet Key to Satisfying Requirements

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Reduced cholesterol diets for everyone may not be the most effective national strategy in preventing and lowering the incidence of coronary heart disease, Robert E. Olson, M.D., Ph.D., State University of New York at Stony Brook, said recently in an article for the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Olson's commentary, "Mass Intervention vs. Screening and Selective Intervention for the Prevention of Coronary Heart Disease," questions the recommendation that all persons more than two years old follow fat-modified diets in the interest of preventing coronary disease regardless of sex, age or presence of other risk factors.

The author defines this suggestion as the "key recommendation" of a recent National Institute of Health Consensus Development Conference.

Research data from previous human studies have not illustrated that changes in diet consistently produce statistically significant differences in reducing the number of "coronary events" in a person's life or deaths due to coronary heart disease, Olson asserts.

Rather than mass intervention, a preferred preventive strategy, according to Olson, is the screening of adult males and other persons with a family history of precocious coronary heart disease for total blood cholesterol and high-density lipoprotein cholesterol levels. Persons with high serum cholesterol values should be referred for care by a physician, he said.

The American Heart Association first recommended a low-fat/low-cholesterol diet for healthy children two years old or older in 1983. The American Academy of Pediatrics opposed the recommendation, contending that diets low in energy, refined sugars, saturated fatty acids, cholesterol, and sodium have not been established as safe for children.

"The recommendation to modify the diets of children is without merit," Olson states.

The data (about fat-modified diets) are too equivocal to make recommendations to the general public that exceed the gentle admonitions of the dietary guidelines of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services," Olson concluded.

"The preventive approach needed now is thus a medical and not a public health strategy," said Olson.

"We should treat each person on an individual basis and look at all factors increasing the risk of heart disease, such as smoking, high blood pressure, alcohol abuse, obesity, and lack of exercise, in addition to high blood cholesterol," commented Elwood W. Speckmann, Ph.D., president of National Dairy Council, an organization which supports a broad program of nutrition research, including that on fat and cholesterol in the diet.

Wasps Offer Alternative for Alfalfa Weevil Control

WASHINGTON — "Any day now we will get the expected telephone call telling us that the wasps are coming," says Robert Meinders, an inspector for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

He has a smile on his face when he makes this statement, because the wasps he talks about are not the large, stinging variety, but tiny insects, no bigger than a quarter of an inch, that attack only the destructive alfalfa weevil. Meinders, of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Tulsa, Okla., has local responsibility for implementing a biological control program that pits wasps against weevils.

Meinders explains that the wasps will be released in an alfalfa field infested with alfalfa weevils, where they will attack both adult and larval weevils and help reduce the population of the pest.

"What we're doing here locally is part of a nationwide plan to protect alfalfa, the nation's leading forage crop, against its worst enemy," Meinders says. "Alfalfa weevils are known to be in every one of the lower 48 states, and they do $1 billion worth of damage in a bad year."

The APHIS-coordinated campaign against the alfalfa weevil was started in 1980 as part of a program to identify pest problems that could be fought by biological control agents. APHIS officials develop and implement practical methods to raise the agents in large numbers and then distribute and track them in the field.

Meinders says that most field releases of the wasps are made by employees of the Cooperative Extension Service and State Departments of Agriculture; other agencies and farm groups also help make the program effective.

Local farmers join in the battle against alfalfa weevils, Meinders says, because they want to reduce their dependence on agricultural chemicals. Farmers allow one of their fields to be dedicated as a beachhead for the incoming wasps.

The farmers keep the field free of pesticides and delay the first cutting of alfalfa so the weevils can feast long enough to be a good host to the newly established wasps.

If all goes well, weevil numbers in the field drop dramatically as the wasps knock them down, and a good number of wasps go on to colonize other alfalfa fields in the area. Eventually, enough wasps become established to keep damage to alfalfa within acceptable limits.

Meinders says the tiny wasps don't sting and raise welts like their larger cousins, and don't bother humans and farm animals at all. When they attack alfalfa weevils, they insert eggs into the bodies of both adults and larvae. When the eggs hatch, the young chew the weevils to death.

"We put out one to 20 boxes, each holding about a thousand individuals, depending on the local situation," Meinders says. "This may include one to four species of related wasps that attack alfalfa weevils. In two years, we'll come back to the field to see how the wasps are doing. If they haven't colonized successfully, we'll try again the next year. In six years of experience, we found that 60 percent of the releases successfully established the wasps in new areas."

Appoints Plant Scientist

NEWARK, Del. — Dr. Jeffrey J. Fuhrmann, a soil microbiologist specializing in microbial ecology, has joined the University of Delaware's Department of Plant Science. Fuhrmann earned his doctorate in soil science from North Carolina State University. He also holds a master's degree from there. He earned his bachelor's degree from Humboldt State University in Arcata, California.

Fuhrmann's speciality is soil bacteria—particularly the varieties that fix atmospheric nitrogen in root nodules of leguminous plants. Seeds of legumes such as soybeans are often inoculated with this bacteria before planting to increase yields and/or reduce the need for commercial nitrogen fertilizer. Most of his research to date has been on soybeans, a major crop in the Delmarva peninsula.

According to chairman Dr. Allen Morehart, Fuhrmann's appointment will strengthen the plant science department's soil research program and enhance both graduate and undergraduate teaching programs.

Fuhrmann will teach two courses in the department of plant science—an undergraduate course on agricultural microbiology and a graduate level class on soil microbiology.

Bees Need Protection from Pesticides

BY DORIS CROWLEY
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — Protecting bees from pesticide poisoning is a challenge for farmers and home gardeners alike. Without bees, people couldn't grow apples, pears, melons, cucumbers, squash and many other crops. And seed companies wouldn't be able to produce many kinds of seeds. Even crops that are less dependent on bees, such as soybeans and lima beans, yield better when foraged by them. In controlled studies at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, researchers have documented up to a 16 percent increase in the yield of some soybean varieties that were foraged by bees.

Pesticides are equally essential in crop production. To achieve marketable yields, farmers must protect plants from harmful insects, diseases and weed competition. Though less economically dependent on what they grow, home gardeners, too, must sometimes protect plants by using chemicals. Herbicides and fungicides generally pose no danger to honeybees and other beneficial insects, but some insecticides will kill them along with the targeted pests.

"Pesticides are very much a necessity," says Dr. Dewey Caron, an apiculture specialist at the university. "The challenge is to use them in ways which don't endanger bees. In some situations the bees are in a field or orchard for their pollination services. Sometimes, they're just there collecting nectar and pollen — trespassers of a sort. Either way, when they come in contact with chemicals applied to protect a crop, they may be poisoned."

Two Types of Exposure

Exposure occurs either because the bees are foraging at the time sprays are applied, or because they begin collecting nectar and pollen before pesticide residues have had time to break down. Many bees are poisoned, not while pollinating the crop itself, but while foraging in nearby contaminated weeds. Their death is usually accidental. Caron says most people recognize the value of honeybees both as pollinators and as producers of wax and honey and don't intend to kill them.

Early in the growing season, heavy infestations of mustard in treated orchards are a common hazard to bees, which like to forage the flowers. Later in the summer, on the Delmarva peninsula, sprays on commercial lima beans pose another serious threat. But the danger to pollinators exists in any treated crop that's in bloom — including soybeans, early season potatoes and corn.

Chemical formulation and means of application affect pesticide toxicity to bees, Caron says. Soil incorporated chemicals are safe because honeybees don't come in contact with them. Granular materials are also usually safe. However, powders and liquid sprays can be a problem.

Pesticides kill bees in two ways. Some, like parathion and malathion, kill them on contact if the bees are present during treatment. But the materials of greatest concern to beekeepers are insecticides like Sevin and Penn-cap-M which, because of their small particle size, are collected with pollen and carried back to the hive, contaminating pollen stores and other bees. When this happens, all or a large part of the colony may die.

"In commercial agriculture, large aerial applications pose one of the more serious pesticide threats to bees," the scientist says, "especially where there are lots of weeds and the crop itself is not in bloom. Though the bees may be foraging weed flowers, when the crop reaches a certain stage it's got to be sprayed to protect it. In the process flowering weeds, and thus bees, get contaminated."

Timing Is Important

Timing of pesticide applications can reduce the danger to bees, as can choice of materials. "Late afternoon or early evening sprays are generally preferable because honeybees and other beneficial insects are less likely to be foraging then," Caron says. "Aside from direct contact, the critical factor is whether the insecticide gets onto or into flowering plants. For example, you can spray your lawn without endangering bees provided no dandelions, clover or other weeds are blooming there at the time."

Given a choice, Caron suggests farmers and home gardeners use pesticides known to be less toxic to bees. Pesticide labels contain this information, along with advice on protecting honeybees.

Biological insecticides such as Bacillus thuringiensis and milky spore disease are completely safe for bees, the apiculturist says. B. thuringiensis is a bacteria which destroys the digestive tract of leaf-feeding insects. It is used to control worms on cabbage and other cole crops and is also favored for use in large scale aerial applications to control gypsy moths in forested areas. Milky spore, another bacteria, is used to treat lawns infested with Japanese beetle grubs.

A recent study at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station has helped refine information on the impact of several chemicals on bees. During the 1985 growing season, insect ecologist Dr. Charles E. Mason compared knockdown and mortality effects on honeybees of seven commonly used insecticides, including Sevin, malathion, Lannate, Vydate, Ambush, Zolone and Penn-cap-M. He also studied the effect of mixtures of Penn-cap-M with several of these materials.

Mason found that when sprayed directly on honeybees in a manner simulating field exposure, each insecticide combination had an effect similar to that of the most toxic chemical in the mixture. His results also suggest that Vydate — previously considered only moderately toxic to bees — is actually highly toxic to them.

Bee protection is a season-long challenge, Caron says. Pesticide treatment generally starts in early spring with fruit tree sprays. Orchardists apply some materials prebloom, then treat again immediately after flowering, spraying at intervals throughout the summer.

Renting Pollination Services

"Apple, melon and cucumber growers know they must rely on bees for pollination," he says, "so they don't put insecticides on any of these crops while they're in bloom. Most of these growers rent bees, paying a beekeeper to move his colonies to the site for the period of bloom and then removing them. You wouldn't want to keep a bee colony in an apple orchard through the season," he explains, "because of the need to follow up with post-bloom sprays. You also don't want the bees around during harvest when they'll go after fallen fruit and create a problem for picking crews."

Caron says home gardeners, like commercial gardeners, can help protect bees and other beneficial insects by applying insecticides in late afternoon or early evening. He recommends treating only those plants which need protection and avoiding anything that's in bloom to lessen the chance of exposure.

"Where there is a continual problem with pesticides," Caron concludes, "the only solution for beekeepers may be to relocate hives. Trying to confine bees to a hive can be risky during warm weather because the colony may overheat and suffocate."

E. L. Adkins, an entomologist at the University of California's Riverside campus, has screened many chemicals for their effect on bees. Out of this research he has developed a list, "Comparative Toxicity of Pesticides to Bees," which Caron recommends to anyone concerned about protecting this highly beneficial insect. Residents of the mid-Atlantic region can obtain copies of Adkins' list from Caron by writing the Department of Entomology and Applied Ecology, Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303.

DON'T LET EAR WORMS BE A PROBLEM IN SWEET CORN

BERTHOUD®

"Ask for Bear-Two"

Super Airflow

has 5 major advantages

More air

Its exceptionally powerful 39 inches fan delivers an air speed of 280 MPH and is recommended for use with a tractor of 60 or more horsepower

More penetration

The AIRFLO LONG RANGE CANNON ensures excellent coverage for vegetables, row crops and trellised plants. The cannon sprays up to 130 feet with each pass. The swivel head can be moved in any direction from the tractor seat

Improved coverage

Greater precision

The AIRFLO LONG RANGE CANNON has a self-regulating control system. The fluid flow rate is proportional to the R.P.M.'s of the P.T.O. and therefore to the speed of the tractor (for a given tractor gear speed). This is your guarantee of improved dosage and therefore of improved treatment

Greater adaptability

With the DS 401 piston-diaphragm pump (12 gallons/minute at 284 PSI), the double high and low pressure circuits, and the de-clutchable fan, it can also be used with a hand gun (for winter treatments, weeding and for washing down the tractor)
